LaCueva Kennel Presents its Future Cast

LaCueva DHCrew Twist 'N Shout "Pepper"

LaCueva Dirty Dancing "Patrick"

LaCueva Pit Pat Paddiwack "Itsy Bitsy"

LaCueva Noble Nite Twain "Percy"

LaCueva Noble Twain Twadition "Pollyanna"

AND... introduces its newest Star

Monarc's Classic Butterfly "Chrissy"

"Chrissy" now has 6 pts with one major and will be back out to finish up after maternity leave. A big Thank You to the Judges who have appreciated this little red firebrand: Luc Boileau (pictured), Sandra Goose Allen for her 1st major, and Dr. Robert Smith.

(Ch Tresstique's Weekend Warrior X Ch Monarc's Shady Lady)

Congratulations to my good buddy Hal Webster, DHCrew Poms, on your Kennel Visit...and on your recent ROM and wins on beautiful babies. I have enjoyed your friendship and showing some of your dogs. May you finish many more.

Congratulations also to Judy Green, Razzle Dazzle Poms, on your Kennel Visit and my sincere sympathy to you and the Waters on the loss of CH Razzle Dazzle Texas Hoedown, "Sawyer." He was a true credit to the breed.

My continued prayers and support to Cristy, Tricia and Jessica Christiansen.

The judges are all “flipping” over our little black boy. Above is Mr. Flip with handler Karen Chisam winning Grand Sweepstakes at the National Summer Specialty under Cindy Boulware. Many thanks to the judges that can appreciate a beautiful black boy! Also, thanks to Karen for all of her love and hard work she puts into our dogs; and to his breeder Diane Finch for allowing me to own this wonderful boy!

CH. MAGIC TOUCH X DEE DEE OF LENETTE

This is the first litter for Magic.

We have litters due by Ch. Music Maker of Lenette, Ch. Magic Touch of Lenette, Ch. Charming Prince of Lenette, Ch. Great Elms Little Cricket, and Ch. Paughprints On the Mtn. Crest. We want to thank the Gilstraps for allowing us to breed to Logan.

We would like to express our gratitude to Ruth Beam for allowing us to bring Ch. Great Elms Little Cricket into our kennel. Cricket is an exceptional little fellow and BISS winner. He is now at public stud to a limited number of approved bitches for a limited time. We know a number of breeders have for years wanted to breed to the Great Elms studs, but could not due to Ruth's age and not being able to meet dogs at the airport. Stud fee is $350.00.

Best wishes to Judy Green and Hal Webster for being featured in this issue.

The weekend of September 24 was a good weekend for Lenette puppies.

Katy Stalnaker with her two 7 months puppies did the following: Male by Music won 5 points his first show and female by Music won two 4 point majors.

Thank you, girls, for buying and showing your Lenette puppies.

Thank you, Vikki Oelerich for showing our new puppy in his first shows this same weekend. Band of Gold of Lenette won two Best Of Breeds, two majors and two toy group firsts (puppy).

From the President's Desk

Margaret McKee

I was so disappointed that I was unable to attend the Summer National in Indiana. I'm sure it was wonderful. Knowing that club and how efficient and hard working they are, I'll bet everyone had a good time. It's just rotten luck that that was the same week my mother chose to take her 4 daughters to the beach to celebrate her 91st birthday. Congratulations to everyone who attended; you are all winners.

One of the duties that go along with being President (of almost anything) is responding to letters of complaint. They are invariably complaints. Very few write to praise. That's just human nature. I'm still chuckling about the letter that bitterly criticized the show committee's efforts and especially the host hotel in Louisville. Our correspondent felt certain that a superior site could easily be found in Louisville. We urged our correspondent to, by all means, go ahead and locate a better hotel. We never got a response.

More recently, I received a letter from a woman who had a very unfortunate experience buying a Pomeranian puppy from two men she describes as dog brokers. But she lashes out at APC and responsible breeders rather than at the people who caused her problem. The following is my response to her:

"As I read your letter I was prepared to be sympathetic, but then at the end you turn your understandable anger on innocent people. The American Pomeranian Club is just that, a club. We have no police powers. We can discipline only our members for ethical violations. Our members sign a Code of Ethics. None of the people you mention are members of the American Pomeranian Club. What would you have us do?

More to the point, what is your responsibility in this situation? Were you a good consumer? Did you make every effort to educate yourself and research the breed before you made a purchase? Did you go on line and look at the APC website? Did you contact our breeder referral Chairman and get her guidance and recommendations? When you met with these men where did you meet? Was it in a home, a kennel, or a parking lot someplace? Did you ask to meet the breeder or to see the parents of the puppy? Why weren't you suspicious that you had no contact with the actual breeder? Did you get a bill of sale? Did the bill of sale include a health guarantee? Had the puppy been given any shots? Had it been checked and/or treated for worms? You don't say how old the puppy was at the time of purchase. Generally, responsible breeders don't sell Pom puppies until they are about 10 weeks of age. A 1-pound puppy sounds very small to me. I am astounded at the price you paid for the puppy. While you are in a different part of the country from me and prices do vary, $2650 seems excessive for a pet quality puppy. Was a necropsy performed to try to determine cause of death?

What have you done since to try to right this wrong? Did you contact the brokers or the breeder to get a refund? Certainly one is in order if the puppy only lived 2 days. Have you contacted your local or state office of consumer affairs?

I am sorry that you had such an unfortunate experience. But your anger is directed at the wrong people.”

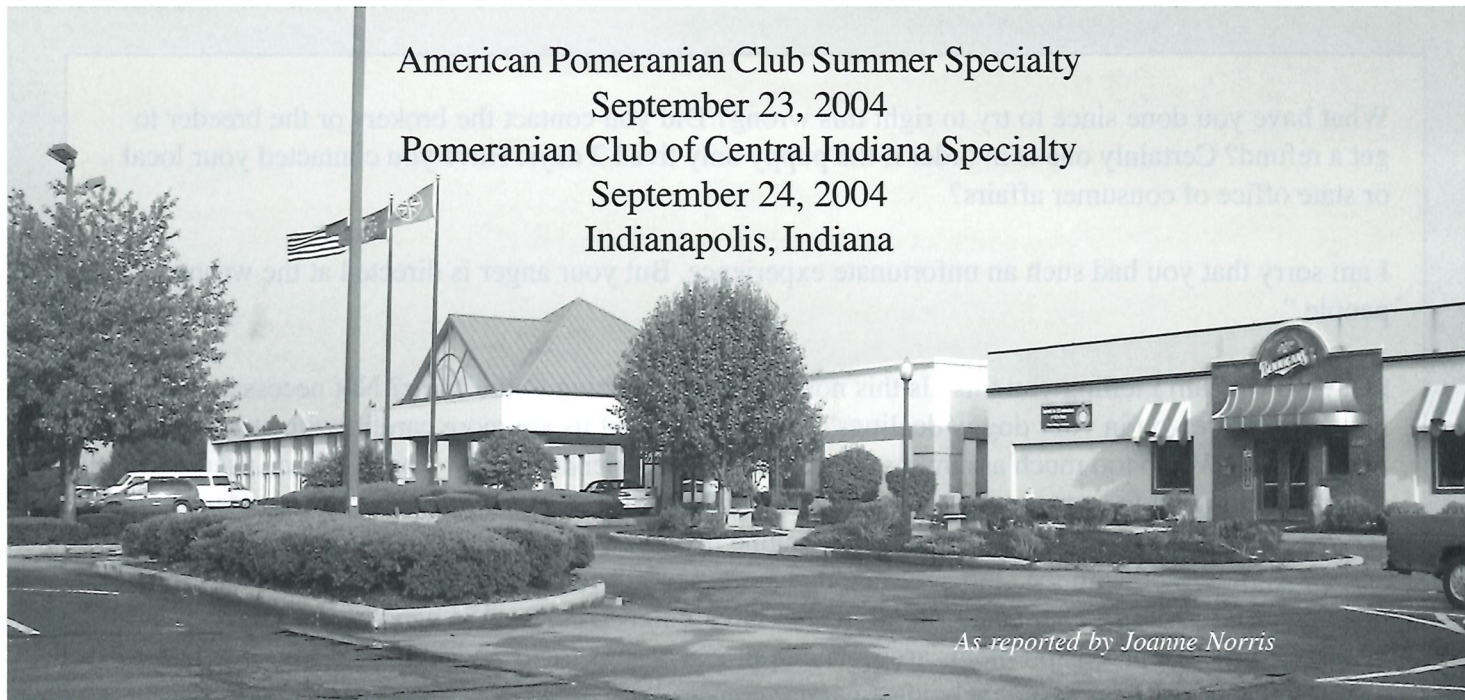

Okay, so why am I telling you this? Is this not a case of preaching to the choir? Not necessarily. First, how careful are you in your doggy dealings? I suspect most of us are more careful with strangers than with friends. We do too much assuming when dealing with friends. I know I have. I once used the stud of a dog belonging to someone whose name you would recognize. I assumed she would offer return service as I always do in the case of a miss. Imagine my surprise, after the breeding had taken place and I was presented with the stud contract, that there would be no return service. Fortunately, the bitch conceived. On another occasion, I failed to have a signed contract in hand before the dog came into my home. Numerous problems arose, and it almost cost us the friendship. So reread that last paragraph and make sure you are being a careful consumer.

Another question that arises is “Are there ways that APC or AKC can do a better job of educating the dog-buying public?” Clearly, this woman made numerous mistakes. I was appalled at what she paid for the dog. She also said she paid over $300 in sales tax. I have to wonder who she handed that sum to, the brokers? How could anyone do any research at all and think that was a reasonable price for a pet puppy? Of course, it is the same people who are happily forking over $5000 for a labradoodle! My daughter called to say she had seen the prices being paid for designer dogs and that she was coming over with her clippers and she and I were going to revive the Toy Munchkins scam and get rich. Of course, she was joking. But I do have to wonder how gullible people can be. If you have suggestions for ways APC can improve our education efforts, please do let the Board hear from you.

Have you seen those silly commercials on TV where saying “Thank you” seems to miraculously transform an embarrassing situation to one of sweetness and light? They are very annoying commercials, because what should be said is, “I’m sorry”. Why is that so hard for us to say? We choke on those words. I can think of 2 Pom people right now who owe me an apology. At least one of them is turning back flips to avoid speaking to me. I really don’t expect to hear “I’m sorry” from either one. How sad. The inability to say those 2 little words could damage a relationship. Stop and think. Do you owe someone an apology? It doesn’t have to be a big production. No tears need to be shed, just 2 little words that will go a long way to soothing feelings, healing hurts, and maintaining friendships.

This is my last column as your President. I have mixed feelings as I leave office. Partly, I am relieved! It has been a big responsibility and time consuming. Now maybe I’ll have time to train my own dogs. Now I won’t have to meet the deadline for this column. Seven different editors of Pomeranian Review can tell you I am not good at meeting deadlines! Now I won’t spend so many hours on the phone and sitting in front of the computer. But I am sad too. It has truly been a learning experience for me. I’ve been able to work with some amazingly talented and wonderful people. I’ve gotten to meet so many more of you. I’ve had a front row seat while the club faltered, struggled, grew, and came out the better for it. Thank you for the privilege. I know you will give the new APC Board your generous support.

Judges Critiques

Submitted by Jo Norris and Laura Meineke

PCCI Puppy Match Judge, Becky Sabourin: Becky noted the puppies in the fun match all had great bites. She felt the puppies she put up were well balanced with good movement, nice bone, and well coated. She noted she would like to see shorter and smaller muzzles with more finish of the underjaw.

Cindy Boulware would like to thank the APC for the honor of judging the APC Summer Sweepstakes. Cindy felt the overall quality of the Poms was nice and most should finish their championships. Other points she noted were: coat quality and top lines were nice, and only one incorrect bite was found. She felt the biggest improvement should be made on the Pom's fronts and mentioned a few of the bitch entrants to be rather shy. Cindy said, "I had a great time. It was a lot of fun and I really enjoyed the shows, especially the Sweepstakes judging assignment."

No report from Beverly Lehnig.

Our PCCI Sweepstakes Judge, Mrs. Jeanne Blank stated, "I enjoyed the 9-12 month class very much, and liked the 12-18 months a lot." The 6-9 Bitch I put up had ring presence and asked for the win from the moment she entered the ring. Mrs. Blank loved the entire entry and the veterans, too. Some weaknesses she noticed were roach top lines and low tail sets. She commented winners she chose, "Had nice profiles and good movement, with nice top lines."

The PCCI Specialty Judge, Mr. Steve Hayden, commented he had a nice time judging and observed several good fronts and rears. He would like to have seen more leg and less round eyes. Mr. Hayden entertained the crowd as he spontaneously offered one exhibitor a tissue when her Pom continually sneezed on the down and back.

WHAT IS A WOLF SABLE?

Many breeders and yes, judges too are under the impression that a wolf sable is either 1. an extremely DARK orange sable or 2. a tiny replica of a Keeshond. Our former Standard says: "Sable colored dogs must be shaded throughout as uniformly as possible, with no self colored patches. In ORANGE SABLE, the undercoat must be a light tan with deeper orange guard hairs ending in black tippings. In WOLF SABLES, the undercoat is light gray with a deeper shade of steel gray guard hair ending in black tippings."

Thus, a wolf sable is NOT like a small Keeshond, as the latter is required to have cream-colored legs and feet, but is in color more like a Norwegian Elkhound, a study in shades of GRAY. A true WOLF SABLE is extremely RARE.

Our present Standard which permits ALL sabled colored Poms does not discriminate against the lovely CREAM SABLES, the deep RED SABLES or even the BROWN TIPPED or BLUE TIPPED SABLES, none of which were allowed in the show ring under the old Standard.

Ask Us Anything

Our question for this issue is: My Pom puppies often have diarrhea. What might be causing it and what can I do about it?

As long as you feed premium food, normal Pomeranian stools are small, firm and without foul odor. A change in normal stools is a red flag that something is amiss. There are several common causes of diarrhea in canines.

Stress - Changes in food or water, weaning, vaccinations, shipping, temperature fluctuations, etc. can cause stress related diarrhea. Non-infectious diarrhea can be easily and safely treated with Pepto Bismol, Kaopectate or veterinary Kaolin/Pectin preparations. Oral electrolyte solutions such as Pedialyte or Gatorade can also be used to avoid dehydration and replenish electrolytes.

Protozoan Infections - Coccidiosis and Giardia are common protozoan intestinal infections. They can cause severe diarrhea and dehydration in puppies. Symptoms are soft foul smelling stools that may contain mucous and blood. In severe infections, the stools may look like they are entirely composed of mucous and blood. If you notice these symptoms, take your puppy to your veterinarian for a fecal. It is important to note that protozoa are shed intermittently and may not show up on the first fecal. Coccidiosis is best treated with the drug sulfadimethoxine (brand name Albon) as prescribed by your veterinarian. If Giardia is confirmed, the drug Fladgyl (metronidazole) is often prescribed. University studies have also shown that Panacur (fenbendazole) is effective against giardia, although it is currently licensed for the treatment of worms only.

Worms - For the good health of your Pom, it is very important to keep him parasite free. Parasites such as worms can cause diarrhea, rob nutrients from your dog's body, and make him more susceptible to disease. Take a stool sample to your veterinarian. If worms are present, then you will need to follow a worming program for your Pom.

There are many safe and effective worming products available. A favorite with toy breeders is called Nemex II (pyrantel pamoate). Nemex is available from most pet supply catalogues. Nemex is active against common worms such as roundworms and hookworms, but will not affect tapeworms. If tapeworms are a problem, it will be necessary to obtain a prescription medication from your veterinarian. Panacur (fenbendazole) is safe and effective against most worms including some tapeworms. Panacur for canines is only available by prescription. Panacur is available over the counter in preparations labeled for horses and cows.

Other Causes - There are numerous other causes of canine diarrhea such as bacterial infections, viral infections, cancer, colitis, etc. Stubborn or serious cases of diarrhea should be treated with the assistance of your veterinarian. A tiny Pom can quickly succumb to dehydration or hypoglycemia if you fail to correctly manage serious cases of diarrhea.

Prevention - When there is a problem with diarrhea or infectious disease, it is important to clean all fecal matter promptly and disinfect all kennel surfaces, bedding, and toys daily. Coccidia are not destroyed by Chlorox and many other disinfectants. It has been shown that they are readily destroyed by Ammonia and 'old fashioned' Lysol Concentrate (1 part Ammonia or Lysol to 10 parts water). Do not use plastic food or water dishes. Pathogens can stay in the crevices. Use stainless steel, crock style, or glass food and water dishes. Change drinking water often and clean the food/water dishes with a mild ammonia solution regularly. Separate all infected dogs as much as possible. It is imperative that you do not allow the infected animal to become dehydrated. Supportive care and oral electrolyte solutions are helpful. Keep your puppy warm and away from drafts. B Vitamins may not be given during the Albon treatment. Albon works by inhibiting folic acid, therefore B Vitamin supplements with folic acid may negate its action. One of the negative side effects of antibiotics and Albon is the destruction of beneficial intestinal bacteria leaving the animal more susceptible to pathogens. Whenever antibacterial medications need to be given, a probiotic supplement or plain yogurt during treatment and for a few weeks after treatment is completed is useful to re-establish beneficial intestinal bacteria.

Our question for the next issue is: What is the best way to find a good Pom breeder?

Introducing... My first bred-by show hopefuls

These two beautiful puppies are the product of my first litter ever.

They are sired by the lovely BIS BISS Am/Can Ch. Foxworth Fast Lane, owned by Dr. Pamela Dodsworth & Larry Fox, and are out of my "Meadow", Razzle Dazzle Bluegrass Music

(Ch. Traditions Legend of Oakridge x Can Ch. Chricendo Call Girl).

I can't thank Pam & Larry enough for all they did to help make this breeding a reality.

Breeders/owners: Elizabeth Heckert & Judith B. Green

Silhouette's Slow Dance

A very special thank you...

Neither of these two beautiful babies would be here if not for Judy Green, Meadow's co-owner and breeder. Judy, I will always be indebted to you for all the knowledge you have bestowed upon me, for your support and encouragement, and most of all for letting me own the lovely "Meadow" who is not only a beautiful and sound girl herself, but has proven to be worth her weight in gold in the whelping box, by free whelping two such beautiful puppies. Congrats on your much-deserved kennel visit!

Sincere condolences to Charlene & Gregg Waters on the loss of their "Sawyer". I had the pleasure of seeing him at two Nationals. What a sad loss for our breed.

Best wishes to my best friend,

Judy Green

on your well-deserved APC Kennel Visit.

Judy, through the years you have always been a true friend.

Whenever the going was rough, you were there.

When there were good times to share, you were always there.

I know my future will be better, because you will be there.

If ever I had a wish for everyone in the world, it would be for everyone to have a great true friend like you. Thank you, Judy.

WOW the Parent Club inviting me to do a kennel visit. What an honor! Thank you to the staff of The Pom Review for asking me! Let's get started!

Hi, my name is Judy Green and I live in the second smallest state, Delaware. I'm right off I-95 but if you blink traveling on this interstate, you'll miss me! If you're traveling north or south on I-95 and have some time, call me and we can visit in person!

Like most people, I've had a lifelong love of dogs especially German Shepherds. In the beginning I was involved in obedience and when my Shepherd died in the late 70's we decided to look for something smaller. It just happened that my papergirl came to the house and brought her three month old cream colored Pom puppy with her. Well, I fell in love with the attitude and the looks of this lovely little creature and thus began the search of finding a Pom for obedience!

I made some phone calls and happened to get in touch with Sophie Mayes. She had two males available and I was invited to come and see them. What a day that was! Not only was Sophie there but Thelma Dunn and Goldie as they were all working on The Pom Review! Little did I know that years later I would be doing a kennel visit for the Parent Club. Anyway, I picked out one of the boys and came home with a 7 month old red sable dog that I named Razzle Dazzle Jeffrey.

Sophie was teaching obedience classes at the time and I enrolled Jeffrey and started my second dog in obedience. He eventually earned his UD and was OTCh pointed. While showing Jeffrey in obedience, I attended many dog shows and always watched the Pom judging. Now I wanted a show dog! On with the search!

I loved the look and elegance of the Chriscendo line so I contacted Chris Hertz and she had a 6 month old bitch from Eleanor Miller that was available. Bill and I jumped in the car and met Chris and John in New Hampshire and I came home with Millamor's Roxie Music (Roxie), my first champion and mother of my first home-bred champion and the love of my life, Am/Can Ch Razzle Dazzle Music Man, Am/Can CDX (Dallas).

At the Specialty in 1985, Chris said she had a daughter by Am/Can/Ber Ch Millamor's Rock Medallion and asked if I would like to co-own this puppy with her. Of course I said yes and in the fall of 1985, Can Ch Chriscendo Classique came to live with me! Amber had finished quickly in Canada and had three Best Puppy in Shows to her credit. Amber was an absolutely elegant, exquisite little bitch who was a delight to show and quickly finished her American championship. Amber is the heart and soul of Razzle Dazzle and everything we have traces back to her.

About six years ago, a 15 year old girl who lives close by contacted me saying she was very interested in Poms but she didn't have one and wanted to know if she could come over and see mine. Now, to be honest, this didn't quite thrill me. Oh good grief, a 15 year old girl? Against my better judgment, I invited her to the house, and boy, am I glad I did! It was Elizabeth Heckert who has since become my good friend and co-owner of Razzle Dazzle Bluegrass Music (Meadow) and we now have two lovely puppies on the ground out of Am/Can Ch Foxworth Fast Lane (Cruise).

Because of Elizabeth, I found out that Can Ch Chriscendo Call Girl (Dream) was available from Chris. Dream is an Amber great-granddaughter. In December 2001, Dream came to live with me. Bred to Ch Tradition's Legend of Oakridge, Dream produced

Judy Green and Amber

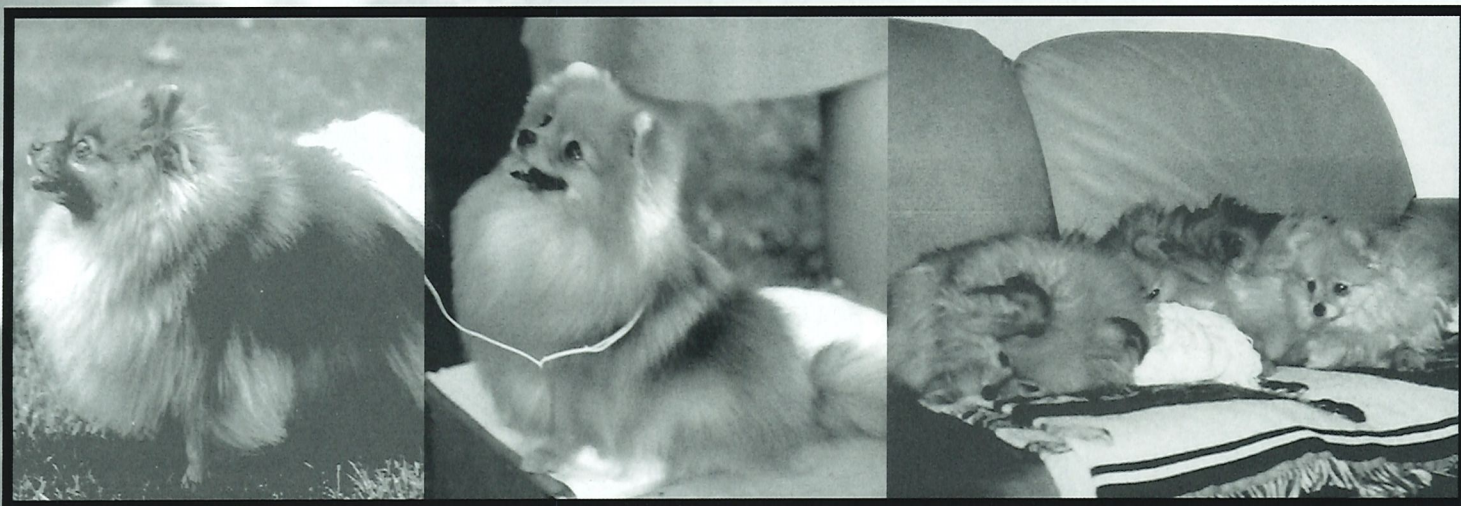

Meadow and Razzle Dazzle Hat Dance (Stetson) who needs 4 singles to finish. I also repeated the breeding of Am/Can Ch Chriscendo Call to Arms (Colt) by breeding Dream to Foxworth's Frontier Spirit. I have two girls out of this breeding, Razzle Dazzle I Can Can-Can (Paris) and Ch Razzle Dazzle Wedding March (Bridey).

When I was showing Stetson, he already had Breed over a special for a major and some single points, I decided I wanted to have more fun in the ring so I took Bridey out as a 7 month old puppy. Well, she went BOB over a special for a 4 point major, BOS over a special for another major and then finished by the time she was 9 months old with FOUR majors! Several times Stetson and Bridey split the points including a major. Unfortunately, I lost Dream in July but hopefully her legacy will live on in her daughters and sons.

Shortly after Dream came here, I heard that Candlebrite's Cuz I'm Worth It (CC), bred by Lisa Pauls might be available. I called Lisa and she and I co-owned this lovely little bitch who is also an Amber great-granddaughter. I bred her to Colt and had two girls from this breeding. Co-owned and being shown by Becky Johnson (Stealurheart Poms) is Razzle Dazzle Sound of Music and the other is Razzle Dazzle Jazz Singer that I co-own with a 10 year old boy, Tyler Stamm who is showing her in both breed and Junior Showmanship. CC was bred again this time to Stetson and on April 14 had two boys. At this point they are still looking good and I would have put pictures of them in this visit but they are 5 months old and in the midst of the PPU's (Pom Puppy Uglies)! Lisa Pauls has since dropped out of Poms and CC is now all mine. Thank you, Lis! CC has again been bred to Stetson and is due about mid-November.

I've finished several champions and obedience title holders but the dogs that stand out in my mind include Am/Can Ch Chriscendo Classique, our heart and soul. Am/Can Ch Razzle Dazzle Music Man, Am/Can CDX (Dallas) the love of my life. U-UD Razzle Dazzle Concerto, UDX (Presto), the Top Obedience Pom in 2000 (co-owned and handled by Lilian Zentgraf).

Of course a kennel visit would not be complete without the mention of BISS Ch Razzle Dazzle Texas Hoedown (Sawyer) the winner of the 2000 National in Texas owned by Charlene and Gregg Waters. What a thrill when Charlene called me from Texas to say he had won! I was alone in the house and wanted to shout it to the world but there was no one to listen. Instead I picked up the phone and ran up the phone bill! Sawyer was lost in a tragic accident in July 2004. My regret is I never bred anything to him and I had planned to. Sawyer's sister Ch Razzle Dazzle Willow's Song (group placing) died in October 2003 but their sister Ch Razzle Dazzle Winter's Song is still alive and living with me. So is their mother Summer.

Dogs living the good life

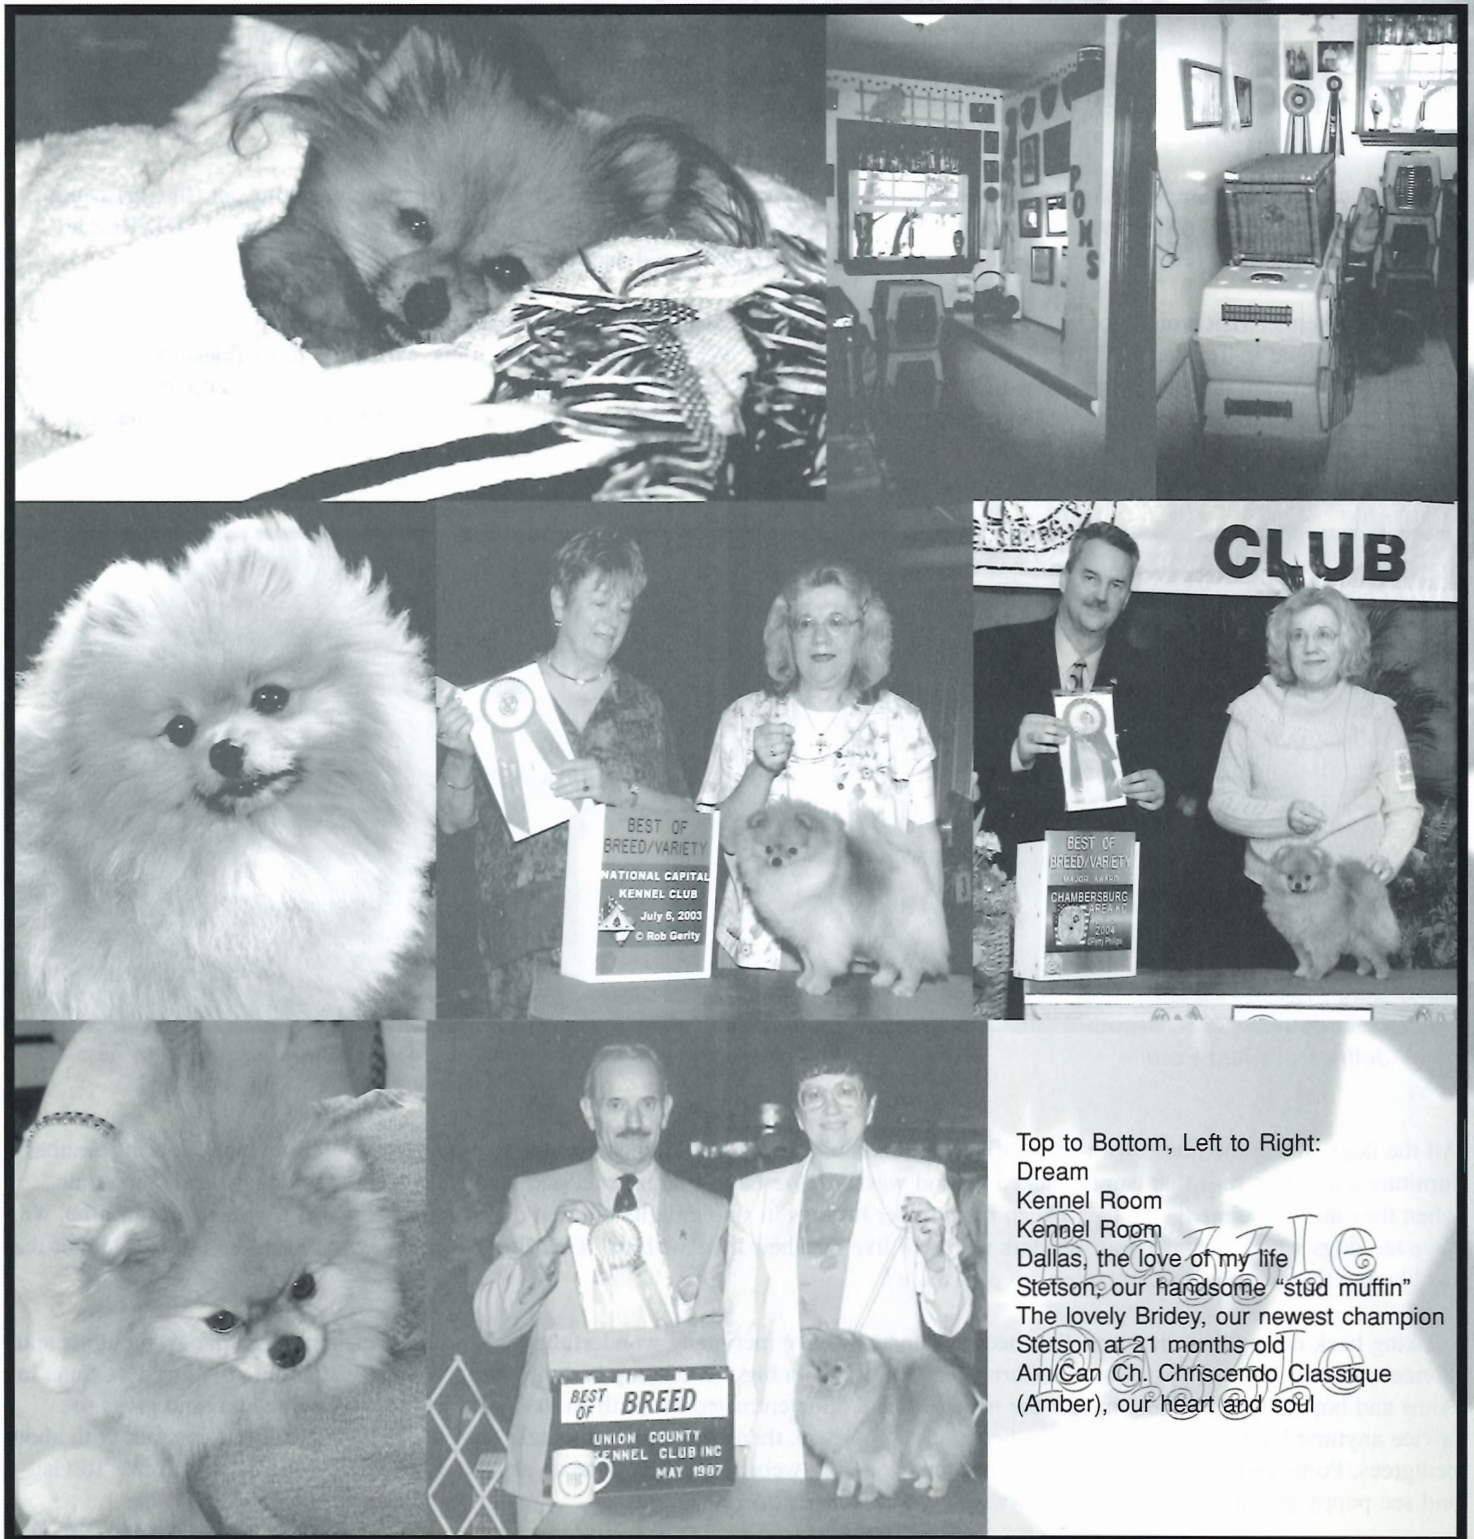

All the dogs live in the house with us, confined to the family room and kitchen. It's almost dog proof with laminate flooring, leather furniture and throw rugs that can be picked up and washed. We have a large, enclosed back yard where the dogs spend some time when they are so inclined! We try to keep the number of dogs in single digits but that doesn't always work! At this point in time, we have ten dogs which includes four oldsters who will live out their lives with us. Growing out puppies can keep the number higher than we like but there really isn't any alternative, is there?

Looking back on my time in Poms, I've been fortunate to have met many wonderful people who have shared their ideas, thoughts and advice with me. For the past 20 years Chris Hartz has been a big force in my breeding program and just about anything I've done in Poms and hopefully she'll help me for the next 20 years. She entrusted me with Amber, advises me who to breed to and gives me advice anytime I ask. Thank you, Chris, because without you, there would be no Razzle Dazzle. Elizabeth is one I can talk with about pedigrees, Poms and dogs in general – she has also done my website and has done an absolutely beautiful job. Thanks, Liz! To visit and see puppy pics and pedigrees go to www.angelfire.com/de2/razzledazzle

I don't do a lot of breeding and when I do it's to keep me in the ring – I LOVE showing dogs! Down the road, my breeding program includes breeding Dream and CC's sons and daughters. Who will they be bred to? I don't know at this point but the decision will need to be made soon.

My husband – what can I say about this wonderful man? He wasn't a dog person when we married but he quickly picked up on what needed to be done and how to do it. He takes care of dogs and puppies, cleans up pee and poop, feeds the kids when I'm gone and is an all around wonderful person. He also "contributes" money to the cause when needed. Thank you, Bill for all your support and love!!

Once again, thank you to the staff of The Pom Review – it's been an honor! 🐾

DHCrew Poms

DHCrew Poms originated in January of 1997. After many years of having pet Pomeranians, Nathan and Sissy. Sissy lived to fourteen years and Nathan to seventeen years of age. They were very tough losses for us emotionally. We loved Nathan and Sissy's personalities, devotion and attitude so much. We started going to shows to see the Pomeranians being shown and hopefully meet breeders in our area. Naturally we became interested in learning more about the breed and looking into a possible show prospect.

We also joined the Ohio Valley Pom Club in late 1996. Joining a breed club is a great way to meet people that are knowledgeable about your breed as well forging new lifetime friendships. I want to thank everyone in O.V.P.C. for their great friendship and knowledge they have bestowed on me in the past years.

We started in the show ring with a little girl who just didn't like to show. Sadie became a wonderful pet. We decided to breed her once we found the stud that we thought would complement her. We then started to look for a bitch that was more of the type we wanted to start our line and possibly show. We wanted nice bone, cobby structure, pleasing head, and a nice ear set. This isn't the easiest prospect to find, especially just starting out. It was a frustrating search. The search took nearly six months, many phone calls, visits to breeders, and travel.

We luckily were in correspondence with a breeder from Virginia during this time, Regina Nunn. We traveled and visited with Regina and her family. Reginapoms was producing and showing beautiful sound Pomeranians. Once we got to know each other, Regina offered us a sound girl that was very outgoing with a sweet expression. We also were able to see a couple of her offspring and liked what she was producing. Her name was Daisy, Reginapoms New Agenda. Needless to say Daisy went home with us and became DHCrew's foundation bitch. Daisy achieved her ROM this past year. Her champions produced are Ch. DHCrew New Yr. Revolution,

Chance - 6 months

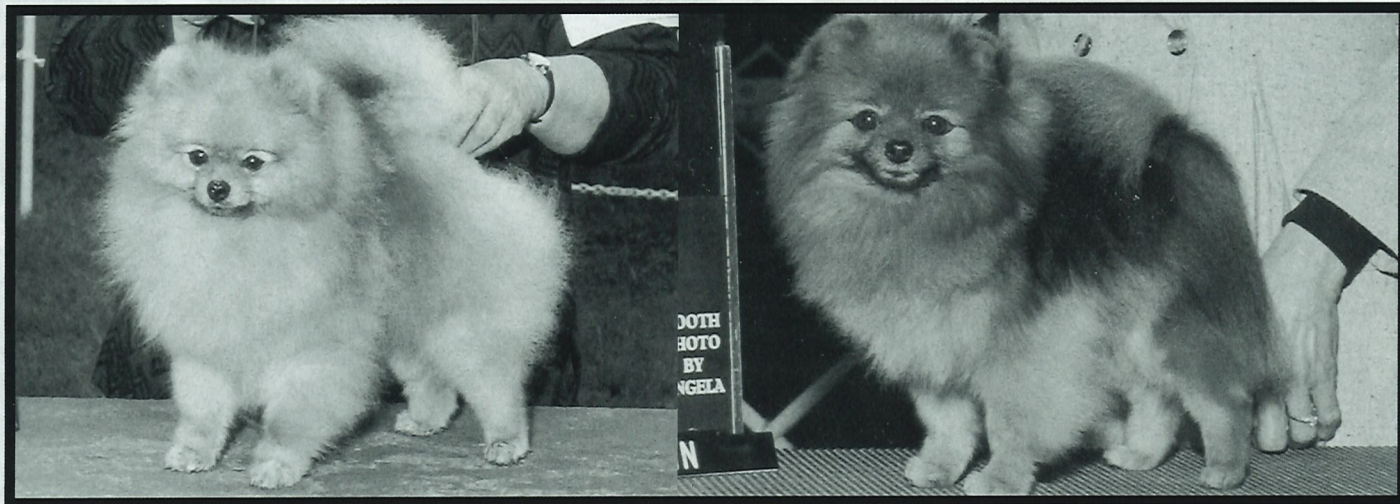

Ch. DHCrew Brand Of The Gator

Revy, Ch. DHCrew Brand of the Gator, Brando, and Ch. DHCrew Gator Agenda, Genny, all sired by Ch. Reginapoms Luv-A-Gator (ROM). Also, Ch. DHCrew Cinco De Mayo, Mavis, sired by Ch. DHCrew Ruff-N-Ready. Daisy also produced a male Max that did well as a puppy at matches but was my Mr. Reserve at shows, as he was a little bigger boy with a huge coat, great bone and nice movement. Without Regina we would not have the solid foundation that I based DHCrew upon. Daisy is behind much of my breeding program today. Thank you again Regina!

While at Regina's, she had a spitfire of a puppy bitch Lana, Dimondes Zeigfeld Girl, bred by Diana Downey. We had nothing to show at that time and Regina asked if I wanted try training and showing Lana. Lana was a handful and taught me a lot. What attitude! Once Lana understood what I wanted from her in the ring she finished at eleven months with three majors. She was the first dog I finished and she will always be special.

We noticed a male Regina had just finished, named Ch. Reginapoms Ready to Rumble, Phillip. We thought he would complement our Sadie. He had nice coat, good bone, great movement and attitude. We sent Sadie to Phillip when she came into season and she produced two puppies one of them being Ch. DHCrew Ruff-N-Ready, who is one of our main studs today. Ruffy produced Ch. DHCrew Cinco De Mayo (Mavis is owned by Laurie Otis and Linda Pelz), and Ch. DHCrew Mai-T-Toi Manic Monday (Bang is owned by Angie Nisbet of New York). Also, DHCrew Rock-N-Rumble, just needs one major to finish, is owned by Cindy and Mark Onosco of Columbus, Ohio. I have a five-month-old male puppy, Mac, out of Ruffy that is promising. Only time will tell.

Max, my Mr. Reserve, was used for breeding twice before placed into a pet home. He, of course, produced very nicely (hindsight is twenty-twenty). He produced Ch. DHCrew Elizabethan Agenda, Beth, here at home and Ch. DHCrew Sunkist Lineman, Tyler, owned by Wendy Garcia of New York. Beth has one champion offspring Ch. DHCrew Mai-T-Toi Manic Monday, Bang, and others being shown and pointed. DHCrew Rock-N-Rumble Rummy, DHCrew Illuminisque Novel Meg Meg has nine points with a major owned by Jackie Moore of West Virginia, DHCrew Hotrod Showdown Agenda, Genna, has nine points and a major owned by Mary Mullen of Florida. Meg and Genna were sired by Trestique-N-GG's Showdown, Jessie. Genna has been bred to group placing Ch. Teri-Dan's Flash Dance, Flash, and is believed to be expecting soon.

Ch. DHCrew Ruff N Ready

Ch. DHCrew Gator Agenda

Now that we had Daisy and I was showing Lana, I kept my eyes and ears open for another bitch to bring into our breeding program. I always liked the quality that Jim and Doris Wheeler of Cascade Kennels of Dayton, Ohio had produced. Their males that I saw in the ring were always nice movers and produced nice puppies. Jim and Doris are members of O.V.P.C. so I was able to keep abreast of new pups and possible bitches they had available. I acquired a bitch that was sired by their Ch. Sunkist Golden Rod, Roddy. Her name was Cascades Sunkist Amber, Amber. Amber produced two champion offspring: Ch. DHCrew Sunkist Lineman and Ch. DHCrew Sunkist Cinnamon Twist. Twizzy is now owned by Sherrilynn Rogers. Amber is now owned by Pat and Walt Gilbert of LaBeau Poms in Orlando, Florida. They also own Ch. DHCrew Reginapoms Salute to Larron, Byron.

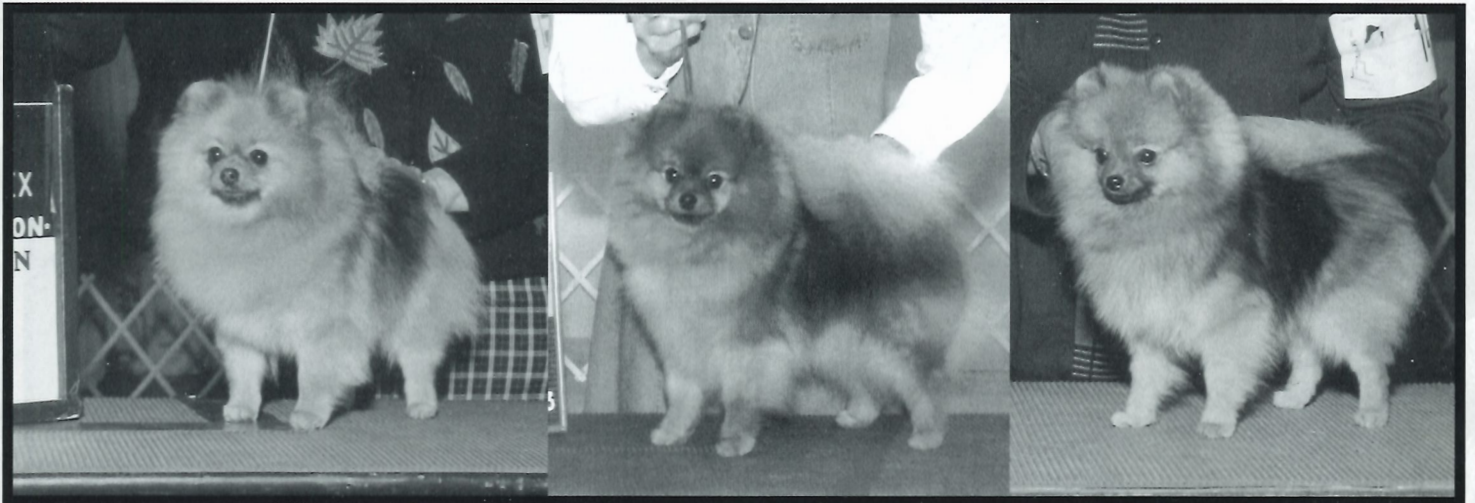

Daisy's other offspring are producing well. Ch. Brando has a male showing, DHCrew Wind Me Up At Thelduns. Alvin is owned by Betty and Robert Willis of Pataskla, Ohio. Alvin is now major pointed. Ch. DHCrew Gator Agenda, Genny, produced DHCrew-N-Darlins Gator Bay. Bay is major pointed with seven points. A repeat breeding produced Ch. DHCrew Horizon Bay Breeze co-owned by Laurie Otis and myself. Breezy finished out of puppy classes at 8 months. The girls were sired by Ch. Di's San Francisco Bay.

Ch. Genny has been bred and hopefully expecting, though it is too soon to tell. Meg's owner, Jackie bred her to Ch. Puffpride's Sweetdreams. Meg and Parker pups are now a little over six months of age and are pictured in this article. Two girls, Destiny and Fancy, and one boy, Chance. Fancy went reserve winners bitch her first show. Just recently she won Best of Breed in Butler, Pennsylvania, and Winners Bitch and Best of Opposite at Corland, Ohio. I'm very excited for Jackie and her litter out of Meg and Parker. I think she will have a great time showing this litter. Congratulations Jackie!

My overall goal is to produce puppies with good structure, soundness, with nice temperament and attitude. I am always looking to improve what I'm producing. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't. You try to learn from those times. I breed three to four litters a year, trying to keep the quality for show homes or for showing and breeding myself. DHCrew Poms can be contacted by phone, (614) 475-1640. Please leave a message with return phone number and I will return your call as soon as possible. I work a lot of hours so catching me at home can be hard to do. You can also contact by snail mail at 2300 Colfax Ave. Columbus, Oh. 43224.

There are a few people to thank for their help, wisdom, guidance, and friendship over the years. Sherry Lawall showed and finished Ch. Brando and Ch. Beth. They both adore her. Get better soon! Sherrilynn Rogers, who is a good friend and wonderful handler. She showed both Ch. Mavis and Ch. Twizzy to their championships and put a five point major on Ch. Genny. Thank you for every thing Sherrilynn! Donna Machniak put two four-point majors on Ch. Ruffy and a major on his son Rummy. Donna also has shown Bay to her seven points with a major. Continued success Donna! Angie Nisbet who put Ch. Ruffy's first points on him and let me breed Amber to her Mai-T-Toi's Arizona Tumbleweed that produced Ch. Twizzy. Laurie Otis who has helped me out with showing, breeding and keeping puppies alive. Without her Bay and Breezy would not be here today! Laurie is currently showing Rummy. Carol Leehmis who supplied her girl as mother to Breezy. Thank you again! I am so sorry for your loss Carol. Shari Shields of Monarc Poms who has been a great friend from the beginning and has let me purchase one of her males to use in my program. Shari is always there to lend an ear when I need one. Continued success my friend Sarah Walker of Zanara Poms. Thank you for your friendship and being MoJo's mom. I want to thank the Review for the honor and opportunity to do this kennel visit. I'm very appreciative and continued success. 🐾

Letters From the Editor

"The Way I See It"

Sue Lucatorto

Judge Daniel Augustus Pennsylvania

Judge Daniel Augustus has been an AKC Licensed Judge for the last 7 years. He decided to apply for his judging license because he felt it was the next logical step in his career after owning and living with Pomeranians, Miniature Pinschers, Poodles, Whippets, Afghans, English Cockers, Norfolk Terriers, and Kerry Blue Terriers.

In Canada, he has bred and shown his own dogs. He bred three champions and loves the Pomeranian breed.

To quote Mr. Augustus, "Poms are such little dynamos and a complete package. From my exhibitors in the ring, I expect courtesy to the dogs, other exhibitors and myself.

My suggestion for improving the presentation of the Pomeranian in the ring is good training so that the dog shows itself."

Donna J. Machniak DeJay Poms - Michigan

I have been involved with the dog show world since 1990. I am primarily an agent; I show and finish Poms for others. I also have finished ones I have owned/bred. I was first attracted to the breed when a friend gave us a Pom when I was first married. I never forgot this Pom and when our kids were grown and gone I wanted another one.

My future concerns for the breed are its health problems, including hair loss. I have not seen the problems getting any better after all these years.

When I am exhibiting, my expectations from the judge are the following: I expect the judge to give all the dogs in the ring equal time and attention when it is your turn to be evaluated.

AKC licensed Judges' responses are welcome and appreciated.
Contact Sue at Email casepoms1@aol.com, phone (718) 470-6267.

Also, be professional, kind and gentle, especially to the pups. I do believe the most important assets to a show Pom is attitude and soundness. I would like to see the breed improve by having sounder movement. Just because they are a toy breed doesn't mean they cannot have proper movement.

For those that are new to exhibiting, my suggestion is to keep your ears and eyes open; pay attention to experienced breeders or handlers and learn from them. Also be aware of what the judge wants in their ring; watch the classes before you to gain some of this knowledge.

For dog show superintendents pertaining to specifically the toy breed, I believe toy dogs should be allowed to have crates ringside for the safety of the dogs. I would like to say to the majority of judges, "Please look at the bottom end of the lead and NOT the top end."

In conditioning dogs for the show ring, I feel bathing regularly keeps coats in good condition. I do not use conditioners. Some Poms look better right after a bath so they are bathed the day before the show. Some look better a week after a bath so they are bathed early. Trimming I do the day before the show and final touches at the show. I use as few products as I can, including hair spray, and again the products are different for each dog.

As for food, some dogs need little other than a good brand name dog food; others need more in the way of products, like vitamins and things that add extra calories to the diet.

I feel the most overlooked quality of the Pomeranian in the AKC/APC Standard, is the General Appearance. Our standard calls for the Pomeranian to be compact, short backed. It has a soft dense coat with a profuse harsh-textured outer coat. His heavily plumed tail is set high and lies flat on its back; also, the gait of a Pom is smooth, free, balanced and vigorous. He has good reach in the forequarters and strong drive with his hindquarters. Each rear leg moves in line with the foreleg on the same side to achieve balance. His legs converge slightly inward toward a center line beneath his body. The rear and front legs are thrown neither in nor out. The topline remains level, and his overall balance and outline are maintained.

When exhibiting, always retain your sense of humor. I will never forget when a lead got out of my hand and the Pom took off, it was a good thing the rings had gating because he was heading for an open door. He stopped at the fencing and I caught him. Needless to say after that I am very careful of where the lead is now. 🐾

SAWYER: THE MAKING OF A SHOW DOG

APC MEMORIAL By Charlene Waters

Ch. Razzle Dazzle Texas Hoedown

When I first thought of writing this story it didn't have an ending. Now it does. It's not the one I'd have given it if I could have chosen, but life never affords you that option.

Gregg and I started showing Pomeranians in 1992. In 1995 we came into a little money and decided to go to the American Pomeranian Club National Specialty and the Westminster show in New York. We didn't plan to take dogs, but just watch, learn, and experience New York. Once there we met a lot of people from across the country. These wonderful people, both new to showing Pomeranians and long time breeders have since become good friends and acquaintances. That year there was a large group from Texas. They made quite an impression on us! There were long time breeders whose kennel names were infamous to us. Gregg and I were in awe of the shows as well as New York. Most important to this story is Jackie Rayner and Judy Green. I met Jackie first in the grooming room. I think I was drawn to her because she looked a lot like Gregg's aunt, Alice (a some-what familiar face). Aunt Alice has a wonderful sense of humor, and has always teased Gregg mercilessly. I introduced myself and explained this to Jackie. Those of you who know her will understand what an open invitation that was. I introduced her to Gregg and she started right in, and hasn't stopped since. Jackie was traveling with Judy Green and she introduced us. We discussed dogs, and lines of dogs and discovered we were working with similar pedigrees. I asked Judy if she had anything available. Of course she didn't at that time. I asked her to keep us in mind when she did.

While in New York, we realized that the APC nationals were moving to Texas in two years. 1996 would be the last APC

National in New York. When we got home we put enough money aside to go again the next year. After two APC Nationals, we were hooked. We have attended every one that we possibly could since.

In 1998 the summer national was held in Ohio. Gregg couldn't attend due to his work schedule. I planned to attend with two friends, Patty Chapman from Salt Lake and Jane Reed from Washington State. Once there I again met Judy Green and Jackie Rayner. This time Judy had two beautiful male puppies. She was keeping the darker of the two; the other one was for sale. Two years before I had asked for consideration on a puppy of either sex, but now I didn't think that I needed a boy. I had just breed and kept a very nice male from my own breeding, Shimmeree League Asst Leader. Stocton is named after a Utah Jazz basketball player, John Stocton. He's an orange sable that I just love. At first I liked the pup Judy was keeping. I thought he was more my type of head, but the light orange boy was very cute and did have something about him. I asked Judy to move him down and back so I could see him move. She smiled sheepishly and stated, "He's not lead broken, but he'll follow me." Judy called him and they went down and back together. He moved so nice. He had a broad nose, fat cheeks, and those fat furry legs that I just loved. Jackie said she liked Sawyer the best and didn't know why Judy wasn't keeping him. I ran to get Patty Chapman to see these puppies.

I had three teenagers at home and our money situation was back to normal; the teenagers spent it as fast as we could make it. I thought if Patty would buy this boy he would be in Utah and I could breed to him. Patty liked him and his pedigree, but she wasn't as taken with him as I was. By the end of the shows she decided not to get him. On the last day, at the last minute before we had to leave, I decided to spend a good portion of our Christmas money to buy him. Christmas turned out good, and we had a lovely new puppy as well as other nice presents. Gregg loved him as much as I did. We were both glad he had said that if I had to have him then go ahead and bring him home. Razzle Dazzle Texas Hoedown now lived in Utah at Shimmeree Kennels.

It was fall in Utah and we only had a few more shows before winter shut us down. Sawyer needed to walk on a lead, or at least I thought so. Sawyer didn't think so. He was nine months old and putting something around his neck was not on his agenda. You'd have thought I was killing him. We went to a nearby park to try it out. First a regular show lead. I had a fish on a string. Maybe a loose collar and a snap-on lead? Not any better. OK, an obedience chain and a snap-on lead. Oh dear, what a pain! Back to the regular show lead. About this time, a person with a Golden Retriever jogged by. Sawyer dashes out ahead to follow the Golden. He was very smart. It only took him about a minute to figure out that being out in front hurt his neck a whole lot less. This still wasn't perfect, but it was better.

Now it was time for Sawyer's first fun match. In our area there are matches in the spring and then again in the fall. We went to as many as we could. September had some local shows. October had some to travel to. We entered Sawyer in puppy classes then in the spring open class. We showed Stocton in Bred By Exhibitor. Between the two of them we did very well that year. Stocton finished his championship in the fall of 1999. Sawyer still needed one major. We entered Sawyer the San Jose, California shows in February of 2000, hoping to finish him. There were three days of shows. A Pomeranian Specialty was on Friday, and two all-breed shows on the weekend. If he didn't finish on Friday or Saturday, then Dorothy Welsh was judging on Sunday. She had already given him a single point and if there was a major we might have a shot at it. Our strategy worked. He finished on Sunday under judge Dorothy Welsh. Back home 800 miles one-way. (We only have eight shows in Utah in a year. Ten in Idaho we were able to attend, 225 to 370 miles away, and four in Las Vegas, 412 miles one way. All other shows are 500 miles or more away and require major planning to attend. Utah is what I call dog show purgatory.)

Before we left home we had entered Sawyer at the upcoming APC Nationals in the Open Class. We called the show Secretary to move him up to Best of Breed class as a special. Did we make it in time to be a special in the catalog? Yes! Texas here we come. It was my third APC National in Texas, but was Gregg's first. This would be his first APC National since New York. AKC was collecting Pomeranian DNA at a discounted rate. We took Stocton along to get his DNA work done, too. We also invited long time friends, Jeanette Gibson and her daughter Mindy that we used to show Cocker Spaniels with, to come along. Mindy had a Pomeranian she was showing in Junior Handling. APC didn't offer a Junior class that year but they came along for the all breed shows.

The morning of the Nationals was very exciting. I had shown class dogs at the APC National before, but never a special. This was the first time in the specials ring for both Sawyer and I. I didn't bring a class dog. I groomed Sawyer for the dog classes. Then I groomed him again for the bitch classes. I was very nervous. I groomed him again for the Best of Breed classes. This seemed like a very long day already, and I hadn't even gone in the ring yet. The Best of Breed class was huge. The judge Jackie Klein split the group into two groups. We were in the second group. More waiting. I paced in the hall, went to the restroom, groomed Sawyer again, and paced some more. Sawyer wasn't nervous, he loved to be there. Stocton was distracted when he showed, he noticed every noise or bark outside the ring. Sawyer on the other hand was very attentive. He looked at you with adoring eyes and hung on every word. Watching your hands for the slightest command, then a piece of bait. If the bait didn't come fast enough he would give you a little fake sneeze. Which always made me laugh. Sawyer had become a showman, and he was really on that day. The waiting only made him more intense, wanting to be in the ring. We went in for our turn. Sawyer was really on. We made the cut. Judge Klein lined us up and brought in the cut from the other group. I then saw where I was standing. Ahead of me by one or two others was Nadine Hershel with Fraiser, Ch. AJ's Smokin Joe. Behind me was Erika Moreau, I'm not sure of the special she had, but I was aware he was a top dog and a major contender. At first Judge Klein went up and down the whole line taking in all the nice dogs. Then her distance seemed to shorten up. She would look at Erika's dog shake her head then walk up to where Fraiser was and shake her head again. At first I thought I was just lucky to be between them. Then as she walked back and forth I realized that she was looking at Sawyer, too. Now it was more intense. Sawyer felt it and got more intense, too. It seemed like forever. In my mind I was saying, "Give it to us. You know you want to". When she pointed to Sawyer my mind left my body. I took two steps forward and got totally lost. In a conversation about a year later I found out that Tish Cannon came up to give me a hug and congratulations and I asked what I was supposed to do now. She pointed out the first place sign. I don't remember this. At the same time outside the ring Gregg's mind left with mine. Noble Inglet brought him back by kissing Gregg on the top of his head (Gregg was sitting) then, told him to go join his wife. The rest is still a blur of hugs, congratulations, and tears of joy. Later that night Jim Shearer asked us if we really knew the scope of what had just happened? We said of course we did, we have shown dogs for over 15 years even though we were fairly new in Poms.

We specialied Sawyer through 2000, 2001, and 2002, owner handled 90% of the time. We placed as high in the rankings as fourth, but always in the 20. We received an invitation to the first Eukanuba Invitational in Orlando, Florida. Gregg and I were able to attend. We showed Sawyer in the APC Nationals in Baltimore and received an Award of Merit. We also showed him at the Nationals in New Orleans, Des Moines, Iowa, and Kentucky. We received a second invitation to the Eukanuba invitational but were not able to attend.

Sawyer retired in the fall of 2002 just before his fifth birthday. He traveled with us most of the time in 2003 but missed being in the show ring. Through 2003, we had been mentoring Cristy and Jessica Christiansen. In 2004, we offered to let Jessica show Sawyer in the Junior Handling ring. Jessica had become quite a good handler showing a bitch we co-owned, Ch. Shimmeree Heaven Sent (Trinket). Showing a bitch in the Junior ring can be difficult at times. Trinket didn't always show well being in the classes and Junior ring. Sawyer seemed to be a good solution. I was planning to bring him out as a veteran in the APC National in Kentucky in 2005. This seemed a good way to get him ready. Sawyer and Jessica started out in Las Vegas in April 2004. They had been practicing at the spring matches and thought they were ready.

Sawyer was very excited to be in the ring again. Jessica and Sawyer didn't place in Las Vegas but soon found their rhythm and placed in the ribbons every time after that. Sawyer looked forward to going with Jessica. At our local shows in May, Gregg and I took the motor home and stayed on the grounds. Cristy and Jessica drove back and forth. The second morning of the four-day show, Cristy and Jessica were a little late arriving to the shows for an early Junior class. Their van pulled up. Jessica scooped Sawyer up out of the exercise pen and ran off to the ring. From that time on, as soon as Jessica arrived, Sawyer would start to whine, then bark, "She's here, she's here. Let's go to the ring." Jessica showed him from April to July, and Sawyer never gave me a second look in that time. He had a new showgirl; Jessica was his new special person. He looked at her with those adoring eyes and never missed a beat, always the showman.

On July 10 and 11 Cristy, Jessica, and Trisha (Cristy's oldest daughter) drove an older motor home they had just bought to the Eagle Colorado shows. I came in my car. The plan was to stay with them on the grounds then go to Denver to fly to the Houston shows with another friend to get a puppy for her. I was showing a dog in the Bred By Exhibitor Class, Shimmeree Quick Silver (Q), also a Bred By bitch, Shimmeree Perfect Harmony (Harmony), my Bred By Chihuahua bitch, Sandia Shimmeree Special Order (Cricket), and my newest acquisition, a Tibetan Spaniel, Topaz Precious Gem at Shimmeree (Topaz). Harmony is a Sawyer daughter and took Best of Breed on the second day following in her father's footsteps. After the shows I headed to Denver. Topaz went home to Denver with her breeder for some special training. "Q" went with me to Denver then to Houston. Sawyer, Harmony, and Cricket stayed with Cristy and Jessica to go back home. Cristy and Jessica had four of their own dogs with them. One of the four dogs was Ch. Shimmeree Heaven Sent (Trinket), a bitch we co-owned (bred to Sawyer, due on July 17). They also had Rosie (their puppy from Camilla Knight), Tori (their puppy from Pati Danielson) and Tiffany, their pet and brood bitch. They also were transporting a champion bitch for Pati Danielson (Sable).

Cristy, Jessica and Trisha spent the night and headed home on the 12th. It was a very hot day, well over 100 degrees. The area between Grand Junction, Colorado, and Green River, Utah, is desert. We don't know what started the explosions, but the motor home blew up. Cristy, Jessica, and Trisha barely got out with their lives. All three were badly burned, and all the dogs were lost.

Up until that time, Sawyer lived a charmed life. Everything he did turned out well as we planned. Sawyer got a chance to show again and do what he loved. He will always be remembered as he was. He will never grow old or get feeble. He will forever be a legend in my mind.

All of our dear Pom friends we lost that day will be dearly missed.

IN MEMORY OF:

BISS Ch. Razzle Dazzle Texas Hoedown

Char, remember when you first saw Sawyer and he wasn't even leash broken?
I can remember you telling me how you had to work to get him trained for the ring.
What a lovely job you did with his training and his show career.

His group placements and his win at the National in 2000 were highlights of my years in dogs. You two made a wonderful picture together and his love for you was obvious.
Thank you for the memories!

Gregg and Charlene, you have my heartfelt condolences on the loss of this lovely boy.
My one regret is that I never bred to him even though I planned to "some day".
May his legacy live on in his children and grandchildren.

HEALTH AND GENETICS

Marge Kranzfelder

Pom fanciers soon realize it doesn't take much time to occur between enjoying a healthy Pom to worrying about a critically ill one. Below is an excellent article written by Julie Kallbacka about one such possibility. It is important for all of us to remember this as a possibility because a veterinarian that hasn't yet seen in his/her practice that something considered insignificant in a larger breed could cause severe pancreatitis in your Pom and might miss the proper diagnosis. I feel almost any imbalance of their body systems could result in this condition. In other words, a gut imbalance due to parasites, medication doses, dietary change or other unrelated shock, trauma or disease. One of the first pets I had sold to an avid gardener said her puppy was just playing with some dried leaves before needing five days of intensive care for pancreatitis. After that incident I have cautioned Pom owners against having their Pom tidbited by guests at their parties. It could prove fatal. I will underline Julie's point that pancreatitis can occur as an acute one time occurrence; however, at least for quite a while, that individual seems more susceptible to reoccurrences if not become completely chronic.

Pancreatitis, A Nightmare for a Pom Owner

Several years ago I became quite familiar with pancreatitis in Poms the hard way, when my beautiful young male, Ch Kalasic's Just A Little Too Cute, suffered a severe acute Pancreatitis attack after ingesting about a teaspoon of rinsed and drained lean ground beef I had mixed with rice into his normal kibble. The effect on him was immediate. He presented with what we Pom breeders usually identify as hypoglycemic shock. He became weak and he staggered. He looked dazed and appeared to convulse a little. My immediate reaction was to think that he was choking, so I grabbed him and attempted to dislodge whatever might be stuck in his throat to find that he was not choking at all. He then began vomiting violently at which point I phoned my vet's answering service and awaited his return phone call. By the time I got off the phone with the answering service Too Cute was fading even more and had begun to lose his bowels. I treated him with drops of sugar water while waiting for my vet to phone. Within a very few minutes the vet called back and based on my description of what was going on he advised giving Too Cute some Pepto-Bismol or other stomach coating medication that I had on hand. I only had Kaopectate, which I gave him as it does have coating action. The vet asked if I had any Tagamet or similar drug on hand. I had prescription Pepcid and the vet advised me to give Too Cute just a tiny sliver of this. He stayed on the phone with me until Too Cute stabilized and did not seem so shocky. He then told me to continue this supportive therapy through the night and not to hesitate to call if Too Cute should go into shock again. The vet remained on the phone with me for 45 minutes or so and we finally arranged to meet at the office in the morning as long as Too Cute remained stable until then. The next 8 hours went by very slowly. Too Cute continued to vomit and he had some bloody diarrhea throughout the night. I knew I had to keep him hydrated and prevent hypoglycemia if I was going to get him through this so I administered a subcutaneous injection of fluids that I keep on hand for puppy emergencies but this only seemed to make him go into shock again. I could only assume that he just could not take the additional pain caused by the injection. So, I kept him hydrated with Pedalyte enemas instead. At 7:30 a.m. we were at the vets office with a stable but still very sick little Pom boy. Exam and blood tests confirmed the vet's suspicion. Too Cute did indeed have severe, acute pancreatitis.

My vet explained to me that pancreatitis is an inflammatory process in which pancreatic enzymes auto-digest the gland. The pancreas is a glandular organ that is tucked under the stomach and duodenum (first part of the small intestine). It has two functions: 1) to produce the enzymes needed to digest food, and 2) to produce hormones, including the hormone insulin, which facilitates the metabolism of glucose (sugar) and amino acids (proteins). Under normal conditions, digestive enzymes produced by the pancreas are activated when they reach the small intestines. In pancreatitis, these enzymes are activated prematurely while still in the pancreas instead of in the small intestines. The intensity of the disease will depend on the quantity of enzymes that are prematurely activated. Severe acute pancreatitis occurs when excess active enzymes spill on to the pancreas and though the digestive tract undiluted by the normal digestive process. This causes burning and inflammation with severe pain and accompanying shock. It may also cause damage to surrounding organs, such as the liver, bile ducts, gall bladder, and intestines. This damage to the digestive system can lead to necrosis and secondary bacterial infection of the bowels as well as chronic inflammation of the pancreas. Acute severe pancreatitis is life threatening and some dogs do not survive the initial attack. The condition is extremely painful and is usually characterized by severe vomiting, diarrhea and cramping. It is this intense pain that causes the seemingly neurological symptoms that make the dog stagger and sometimes appear to convulse or become paralyzed.

After confirmation of pancreatitis through physical exam and blood tests, Too Cute was given Flagyl to prevent infection of the injured bowels, Torbagesic to relieve pain, Tagamet to control stomach acid production and minimize the chance of another acute episode, and prednisone to help reduce the inflammation. I was sent home with instruction to continue the supportive care along with some dire warnings about the condition becoming chronic and admonitions to call immediately if Too Cute showed even the slightest change for the worse. It took several days before I breathed any sighs of relief. It was over 48 hours before Too Cute would drink on his own and it was over 72 hours before he would even try a taste of the prescription dog food. Supportive care had to be provided during that time and I did not leave him alone for a second.

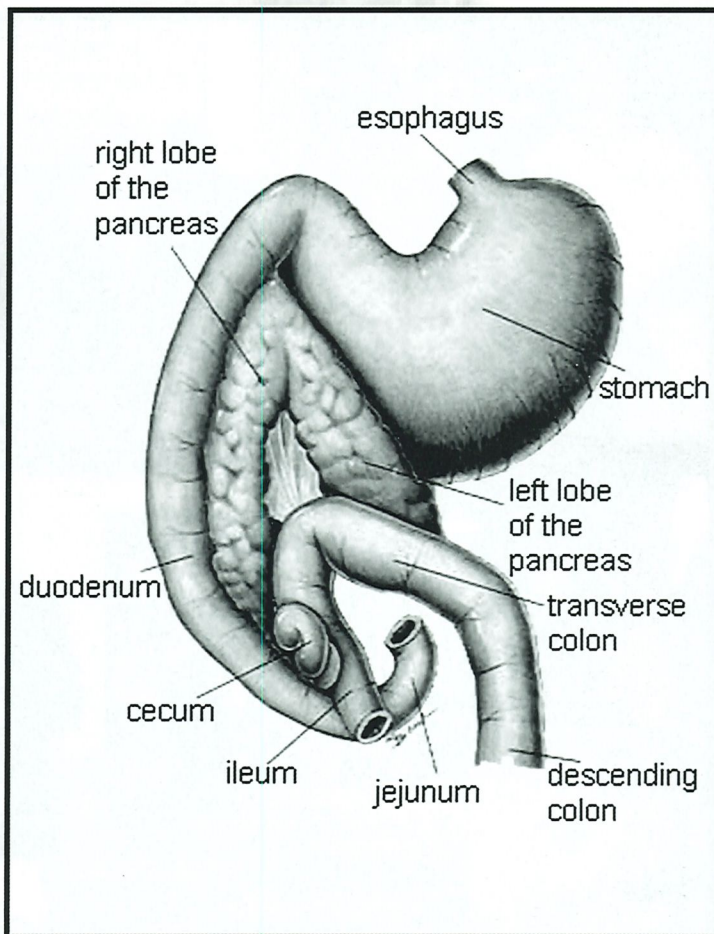

Too Cute finally recovered from this initial attack and was able to slowly get off most of his medicines after several weeks. However, he remained on regular daily doses of Tagamet for a year before we were able to take him off of that and just use it as needed. Unfortunately Too Cute did indeed develop chronic pancreatitis. The attacks from these were quite mild in comparison to that first bout and we successfully managed them by making sure the medications were on hand to administer at the first signs of discomfort. Supportive therapy was provided as needed whenever he did not feel like eating. A modified diet was also required to help prevent attacks. Too Cute eventually learned how to tell me when he was having an "off" day even before he had any visible symptoms and on those days he would get his meds as a precaution. We played a balancing act to keep him from building up resistance to the medications and keeping him medicated enough to avoid attacks. Too Cute eventually learned what he could and could not eat and when. Sometimes he would just beg so pathetically that we would give in and treat him to a tiny bit of whatever he was begging for and he would have no problems. At other times he would appear fine but if any kind of treat were offered to him he would run for his crate with head down and tail tucked from just the thought! We left it up to Too Cute when and what he would eat, but he never again received anything remotely fatty!

As a breeder, one of my questions concerning pancreatitis was whether or not the condition was hereditary. My vet explained that in some breeds it is believed to be an inherited tendency and some breeds do have a marked increase in the rate of occurrence of pancreatitis than do other breeds. But he also told me that in the tiny Toy breeds it does not take much to induce an attack in an otherwise healthy dog with no genetic predisposition. These little dogs are very fragile and it does not take much to throw their systems out of balance! Fatty foods are the usual culprits for inducing pancreatitis, but other foods have been known to trigger the condition too. Thus a Pom owner should always be aware of what their Poms are eating and to be on the watch for symptoms of pancreatitis. Pom owners should also know what to do if they suspect a case of pancreatitis. Because the most obvious immediate symptoms appear to be neurological in nature it is easy to over look the pancreatitis diagnosis. Prompt treatment of pancreatitis is required to minimize damage and severity of symptoms. I also take some precautions to try to avoid ever having to deal with an acute attack of pancreatitis again. I never mix anything with my dog's kibble any more. If they get treats, they get them with my full attention on them, both while they are eating and for 30 minutes after, just in case! If I had not seen Too Cute go down after eating his meal that night I do not think he would have survived. I believe he would have been gone within minutes!

I should also mention that as part of the supportive/preventive therapy I gave Too Cute acidophilus supplements to help improve the health of the bowels. During the acute attack I dissolved the acidophilus in the enema solution I used to keep him hydrated, and then later as he began to take his prescription food, I added the acidophilus to that. Too Cute received acidophilus supplements daily for the rest of his life and I believe that these supplements helped restore and maintain more normal functioning of his damaged digestive tract. Too Cute passed away last year due to an aneurysm. He led a happy full life despite his chronic pancreatitis.

It all started with an innocent phone call from a friend, Elaine Wishnow. "Hey Sue, I have a modeling assignment I can't fill. I thought you might be able to help out. They are looking for about five light colored Poms to walk on a lead held by a model. Can you help me out? I know that you have some light colored dogs."

I immediately started taking inventory, trying to figure out who would classify as, in someone else's opinion, light colored. This sounded like something I would love to do. Spend the day in Greenwich Village, be part of a modeling assignment, and get paid. How lucky can you get?

The agent we had was a wonderful person, and I met some other Pom owners that were called to assist in fulfilling the menu for five light colored Poms.

After making all the arrangements to travel into New York City, we were advised to bring about five dogs of different colors, just in case the director and producer changed their minds at the last minute as to what they wanted.

My daughter, Silvia, and I arrived in the city and were directed to a studio where the shoot was to take place. It was huge! There were all sorts of things going on. We were told at this point to roll with the punches and be flexible. The agent we had was a wonderful person, and I met other Pom owners that were called to assist in fulfilling the menu for five light colored Poms.

A Great Dane was also part of a photo shoot, and we were on line AFTER him. This Great Dane was not only HUGE; he was not in the mood for the Poms that were not used to his size. Needless to say, they were not happy with him either and proceeded to let him know. It was decided by the agents that the Great Dane should go first because he was getting a bit nervous.

I was pleased I had thought to bring the exercise pen. I got the Poms settled in a corner in an alleyway near the studio where we would be working, yet far enough away from the nervous Great Dane.

We were to begin at one pm. Everyone that passed near us was so nice and friendly that you didn't mind waiting. Several models had stopped by and were socializing with the dogs. It was interesting to watch the models having their hair done over and over in different styles, changing outfits, shoes, and accessories.

We had to practice several times with the owner of the other dogs. The shoot required five Pom leads to be held in the right hand of the model. She was to step forward and the dogs were all to move at the same time, naturally, in the same direction! This was not an easy feat with people walking all around, photographers taking pictures, people testing the lights in the area, hairdressers, people fitting the model's clothes, assistants running back and forth with the correct accessories.

I have to say we were treated wonderfully, with great consideration taken for the well being of all the dogs. A wonderful lunch was shared and we were all invited to help ourselves. The Poms thoroughly enjoyed sampling some of the delicious meats.

The Great Dane had, for some reason, held up the production and we had to wait nearly five hours to continue. Of course, the Great Dane had to use the potty, and in doing so had to pass right near the Poms.

Finally, at 7:00 pm, we were called and the producer of the shoot had to pick the dogs he wanted to use. We had to practice the scene over and over again. All of a sudden, he decided that five Poms were too much. He wanted only three. Then the colors of the dogs were not what he wanted. Next, he was not happy with the size of one of the dogs. Finally, he said, "We are going to change the whole layout."

The model's hair was redone (straight this time). They turned on a wind machine. By this time some of the dogs were really quite unhappy. The director then changed the color of the model's suit. He looked around pointedly at my little red girl, Cassie, (who is NOT a light color) and said, "That is what I want." The new suit was beige and the red color of the Pom fit perfectly! Once we started, lights were flashing, wind was blowing and we were finished in less than 20 minutes. My Cassie was chosen because of her color, size and weight. She also tolerated the wind machine well.

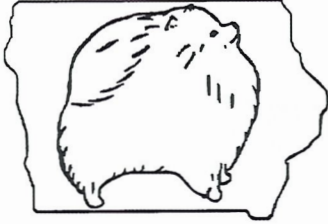

Naturally, we were all paid, but the other Pom owners were disappointed that Cassie was the only one used for this particular shoot. We went home tired, but very happy! To be quite honest, we were just plain lucky that day that our Cassie was chosen to be photographed.

We were very impatient for the next 3 months for the magazine to be published. Until this time, I had absolutely no idea of the amount of time and energy that goes into one photo. Please look for our Cassie (Ch. Case's Repeat of Show Time) on page 218 of the September 2004 edition of Vogue.

Brenda Segelken my hat is off to you as editor of the Pom Review. I have a NEW appreciation of all the tireless tasks that you perform to get the Review out on time! Thank you asking me to share my adventure. 🐾

PERFORMANCE

TWO POMMS AT THE AKC OBEDIENCE INVITATIONAL!

Wendy Donnelly writes: “Tiny Tim Pendleton CGC, UD and Tucker the Third Muskateer UDX will be the two Poms that will be at the Invitational in Obedience. [January 15 & 16, 2005] I want to congratulate all the ones that also made it in Agility as well as the Top 25 Pom in Breed. This is our first time and we find it quite an honor to be asked to go. I am very proud of Timmy’s accomplishments thus far; there’s been a lot of laughter to go along with all the smiles when he pulls everything together. The next 4 months are being spent not only showing but training hard not only with my instructors in Utility class (as they will be going with their breeds) but also with Connie Cleveland, figuring out the toughest ways they can put the Utility and Open exercises together and make sure he qualifies on each exercise. He’s training also to build up his endurance so he can handle going into 6 rings in one day—if we end up at the end of the day in the top of the Toys—and are asked to go on to Day Two that’s icing on the cake.”

“To convince Timmy that the goal of the day is to complete each exercise and make the judge smile and not roll on the floor in laughter in the middle of the ring has been tough, and sometimes I don’t think he’s totally convinced. He gives me the look — like ‘OK, I got her to laugh; have I done my job yet?’”

Timmy has 2 UDX legs and 3 OTCH points—he’s going for the Gold! (Club, that is.) Timmy also picked up 29 Delaney points and has (so far) 60 First and Foremost points for the year. At one point, a judge told Wendy that Timmy “is the best Toy breed heeling dog I have ever judged.” Way to go, Wendy and Timmy! We’re proud to know you!

RALLY ON

If you are at all involved in the world of dog sports, you know that Rally, the new sport where you can talk to your dog as much as you want, will be an AKC (and perhaps UKC also) titling class on January 1, 2005. For some I can hardly wait to hear from the first RN Pomeranian in history—some clubs are having a total of three trials on New Year’s day and the day after, so we could conceivably have a title by January 2. For some incomprehensible reason, these clubs are all in the totally frozen North; there are no Rally trials in the south until the following weekend. If you think your Pom is in the running for first Rally-titled Pom, be sure you let me know; we’ll also put your dog into history—Pomeranian history, that is. And send pictures!

A Dog’s Rules for Christmas (by the eminent writer, “Author Unknown”)

1. Be especially patient with your humans during this time. They may appear to be more stressed-out than usual and they will appreciate long comforting dog cuddles.
2. They may come home with large bags of things they call gifts. Do not assume that all the gifts are yours.
3. Be tolerant if your humans put decorations on you. They seem to get some special kind of pleasure out of seeing how you look with fake antlers.
4. They may bring a large tree into the house and set it up in a prominent place and cover it with lights and decorations. Bizarre as this may seem to you, it is an important ritual for your humans, so there are some things you need to know:
 - a. Don’t pee on the tree.
 - b. Don’t drink water from the container that holds the tree.
 - c. If there are packages under the tree, even ones that smell interesting or that have your name on them, don’t rip them open.
 - d. Don’t chew on the cord that runs from the funny-looking hole in the wall to the tree.
5. Your humans may occasionally invite lots of strangers to come visit during this season. These parties can be lots of fun, but they also call for some discretion on your part:

- a. Not all strangers appreciate kisses and cuddles.
 - b. Don't eat off the buffet table.
 - c. Beg for goodies subtly.
 - d. Be pleasant, even if unknowing strangers sit on your sofa.
 - e. Don't drink out of glasses that are left within your reach.
6. Likewise, your humans may take you visiting. Here your manners will also be important:
- a. Observe all the rules in #4 for trees that may be in other people's houses. (4a is particularly important)
 - b. Respect the territory of other animals that may live in the house.
 - c. Tolerate children.
 - d. Turn on your charm big time.
7. A big man with a white beard and a very loud laugh may emerge from your fireplace in the middle of the night. DON'T BITE HIM!

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE TITLE

Shirley Michaels writes that she showed Bear (MACH 3!) in obedience once in an outside ring in hot weather. “On the out of sight sits and downs there was only one spot in the ring that was in the shade, and unfortunately we were clear down on the other end. When I came back after the sits, my little guy had moved clear over to that end of the ring and was sitting pretty as could be next to a great big dog in the shade. [Sounds like two smart dogs to me!] I was shocked, then when I put him back for the down and came back 5 minutes later, he had moved down there again and was lying cute as could be next to the big dog in the shade. I couldn't figure it out, but afterwards the judge pointed it out to me that I had a pretty smart dog. He knew the position, he just wanted to do it in the shade. After that, we did obedience inside. And he did finally finish his CDX!”

And Lois Morkassel writes about her “green” dog, Iri, and her Agility experience. In UKC, “on the last walk-through with the dog, she couldn't wait for me to collect her leash when she came out of the closed tunnel, so went back to the fabric, grabbed the end, and growled and kill-shook it! It was hysterical! I have known the judge since I first started in UKC, and she yelled at me to stop my dog from ‘wrecking’ the equipment. I turned around and said that Iri was straightening the chute for the next dog, since she had just told the exhibitors that their help was appreciated. UKC has some unique Agility equipment but “with limited exposure to equipment other than the club's and my own, she has the spunk to get on new equipment and make it her own! She is a riot and a total thrill.” Iri is working on the UACH, so needs to amass points for high scores—it takes time when the dog is as inventive as that.

Our question for this issue: What are your suggestions and remedies to control diarrhea and constipation in dogs and puppies?

I generally have not had a problem as long as they are fed the same food (I feed Nutro dry kibble) with not too many treats and no table food. If we have a rare loose stool a bit of Pepto Bismol seems to do the trick. Jo

I haven't had a constipation problem, but for diarrhea I use Kaopectate, Endosorb, or Biosol. If they are having an upset stomach with it I use Pepto Bismol. For severe diarrhea I use Lomotil (a script is required). If that doesn't work, it's off to the vet. Now also, the above methods all depend on how the dog is acting. If he is lethargic with diarrhea and vomiting and just doesn't look right, he goes to the vet. Linda

I recently for the first time ever had a problem with a puppy that was having some problems with constipation during the weaning process. My vet suggested I use cat hairball remedy paste, which I bought at my local pet store and it worked like a charm. Jennifer

I have used Kaopectate, Pepto Bismol, and loperamide for loose stools. On occasion I also have used flagyl (metronidazole). For constipation I have used the hairball remedy as well a small warm soapy enema. So far these have worked with no problems. Of course if they don't within 24 hours, it's off to see the wizard, OOPS I mean vet. Roxanne

I have had success with a seven to ten day course of flagyl (metronidazole). The dose is one quarter of a 250 mg tablet once a day. I have had some success with Tylan in treating diarrhea, however, I have found that it doesn't work for all dogs. It can sometimes cause the opposite problem and constipate them. I find the best prevention is a little bit of canned pumpkin added to their food. I use the one that is 100% pumpkin. If you've already got diarrhea, straight pumpkin mixed with cottage cheese will sometimes help in making stools firmer. Cheryl

After what I went through just recently with Campylobacter, I would take the puppy to the vet and do a stool check. The reason I say take them is that it has to be a very fresh stool sample even if the vet needs to get it himself. Then you need to suggest to look for an over abundance of bacteria. My vet had to go farther than just a normal check. That way you have put your puppy on the right medication and kept him/her from illness and possibly death. Linda

We haven't had a problem with loose stools in a long time but we tried Bil Jac at a show one time and it was a really smelly mess to wake up to in the morning. One drop of Biosol cleared it up quickly. Since then I discovered a wonderful electrolyte gel with microbials which has a lot of good things to coat upset intestinal walls and slow down dehydration. Its called Merrick's Blue Ribbon Electrolyte Gel. Our daughter's family had a Doberman puppy that was diagnosed with irritable bowel syndrome and was doomed to a lifetime of flagyl to prevent frequent bouts of bloody diarrhea. When we would get their puppy to dog sit I tried the gel and it always worked. Now their dog is living a normal life and has never had a recurrence. She feels much better and is doing great. The owners are extremely happy she is cured. We gave the gel daily for two weeks, which was enough time for the intestinal tract to heal. She was a playful and happy dog again. Sherry

I have noticed that in the past six months, Kaopectate has changed the formula on its liquid version to the same formula as Pepto Bismol and the active ingredient is now Bismuth Subsalicylate. This is important to know, since salicylates are an aspirin derivative and can be a stomach irritant. The old formula contained attapulgite, which is simply clay and was a non-irritant and a very harmless substance. Now I can only find the old attapulgite formula in the Kaopectate caplets. Alane

I had extensive trouble with this in a puppy that started when he was about three months old and lasted on and off for about twelve weeks. He went to the vet and checked out ok. He was put on flagyl, and the diarrhea cleared up. It came back in about a week. The puppy was put on Albon for ten days. It cleared up again but the diarrhea came back in about a week. We went back to the vet a second time and found lots of bacteria. The puppy was put on metronidazole and a combination drug of diphenoxylate/atropine/lomotil and Vetalog. He cleared up again. In about a week we finished the medications. He got diarrhea again in about two weeks. This happened two more times. Then about once a week for three weeks I would have to give him the lomotil only when his stool would get soft, usually just three doses. We have been diarrhea free for about a month. The only time bacteria were found was the second vet visit. This is very scary and nothing to play with. In my case I would say do not try to treat yourself. It is better to be safe than sorry. Get the vet involved for proper medication and guidance. During this whole ordeal he lost about a pound and then gained it back. When a puppy goes from four pounds to three pounds in just two to three weeks you start to worry. Kristi

I just picked my husband up from his four-day stay in the hospital. I hope this information will warn every one of bacteria and parasites transmitted to humans. For the last several months, my husband suffered bouts of extreme diarrhea and high temps. He went for a complete physical and supposedly just had the flu. Last Monday night I took him to the hospital with a fever of 103.7, unable to control bowels. After three days of culture testing and blood work the answer came back as Campylobacter. We are unsure where he got it as our dogs have stool checks (direct and fecal flotations) regularly. He is a flooring contractor and may have come into contact with it through his work. This also comes from raw poultry, which is also a possibility. Thankfully, he is home. He was treated with rehydration and flagyl until the culture came back as Camphlobactra. He was given IV Cipro for twenty-four hours and will be on it for another ten days along with a nagging "wash your hands" lectures from me. Hope this serves as a reminder that we can get many of the parasites and protozoa problems from animals. Here's to wishing you all a poop-free day! Linda

On this same note, giardia is another one that can be transferred from dogs to humans. A coworker of mine had his whole family contract giardia from washing the dog bowl with the human dishes. All of these protozoans can be ghastly to deal with. Just a side note about flagyl (metronidazole), it is used frequently in our dogs for the treatment of diarrhea. It is very rare, but long-term use of flagyl can cause metronidazole toxicity. I found this out first hand several years ago. I have a Pom with multiple health problems. He was on flagyl for about a month when one day I took him outside to do his business and he was completely paralyzed. He couldn't move at all. I thought he must have injured his spinal cord somehow. After a weeklong stay at Angell Memorial Hospital and much research by his doctors, and me it was determined that he had toxic levels of flagyl in his body that caused the paralysis. It took about two months but he got his mobility back. He is to never have flagyl again as it can happen much faster a second time and the damage is not always reversible. This can happen to humans as well. It is very rare but it does happen. Just thought I would mention my experience since we all use flagyl quite regularly. Cheryl 🐾

DOG BREEDING AS A FINE ART

By Amy Fernandez

Book Review by Joan Behrend

What prompted me to buy this book was the fact that I have known Amy for several years. Her home is here in New York, and we have attended handling classes together. I knew she was an accomplished breeder of Chinese Cresteds, and always admired the pretty heads she had achieved on her dogs.

What I didn't know was how accomplished Amy is, and what an authority she is on this subject. Amy has bred more than 120 champions – US and Worldwide, under the kennel name Razzmatazz. Her dogs are multiple Best-In-Show winners and Specialty Show winners. Amy is heavily involved with the Xoloitzcuintli, another hairless breed. She was once the president of the Xoloitzcuintli Club of America. She has published books on the Xoloitzcuintli, and is about to publish a history of the Affenpinscher and the Brussels Griffon.

What I also didn't know about Amy, and what makes her uniquely qualified to write this particular book, is her respected background in Art. Her dog paintings have received awards; some of her work is on display at the Dog Museum of America in St. Louis. This book differs from the usual "How to Breed a Dog" book because of Amy's artistic eye. It is very evident in her breeding. This book will not tell you what genes will make a blue Pom or a black and tan. The book deals with how to hone one's eye toward artfully evaluating your breeding stock. Amy starts out by stating that the "secret ingredient" that sets a great dog above the rest is a clear and honest vision by the breeder that sets the foundation for the creation of a genuine work of art. She quotes Breeding for Show, the Book of the Dog; "Great kennels have behind them the personality of the breeder, and that personality is the vision the breeder saw in his mind's eye, persistently and consistently pursued."

Amy then goes on to talk about a breeder's intuition, perception of type, and how to train your eye to see the art in the breed. What sets each breed apart is their type, which relates to form and function. Amy believes that we must do our homework, study the breed and what it is for, look at old photos and listed to what old-timers have said. Learn basic anatomy. She equates skipping these steps with art students who are anxious to skim over learning fundamentals of technique and the academics of art in order to express themselves. Without technical mastery, Amy states, depth of quality rarely results from these efforts. Amy observes that this common pitfall is recognized in the art world, but seems to require some reinforcement in the dog world.

Chapters in her book deal with the evolution of modern breeding theories, form and function, selecting against health disorders, kennel blindness, and inbreeding, linebreeding, and hybrid vigor. One of her chapters deals with inheritance patterns and mutations. She reminds us that mutations are not uniformly harmful, nor are they always obvious. One is very apparent in her breed; the hairlessness in Chinese Cresteds first appeared as a spontaneous mutation. This trait is now the defining point of the breed.

One feature I liked about this book is the way it is laid out. In large edge margins, the publisher prints the highlight thought of the page. I have read the book several times, but I also enjoy brushing up on the highlights by reading the edged notations. It is a good way to do a fast refresher. I bought this book last year, and I am using the suggestions in steering my breeding program. I am extremely happy with my latest litter, using Amy's guidelines. I can't wait to see her again in handling class to show her a living result of her teachings.

Amy's book can be bought on Amazon, or large bookstores, but I recommend a visit to her website, www.Amyfernandez.com. There, you can purchase her books, other dog breed items, and see some of her artwork.

Sunshine and Roses

Sending good wishes to Hal Webster on his recent medical tests.
Best wishes to Shari Shields, who has had reoccurring back pain.
Congratulations to Donna Riehm on her new granddaughter, born September 25.
We are thankful to hear Angela Blocker's tumor at the base of her brain is benign. Our prayers for continued proper treatment go your way.
Best wishes to Carla Timmons battling continued health problems.
Charlie Edwards, of Morrocco Pomeranians, recently lost his battle with cancer. We send our condolences to friends and family.
Julie Kalbacka's nephew, Zander, was recently released from the hospital. We are all thankful!
Our sympathy to Jessica (Smith) Satallante on the loss of her darling little champion Pom, Jessie James.
Many of our Pom friends live near areas that have been affected by weather and environmental conditions, including hurricanes, tornadoes and volcanic eruptions. Best to you and yours.
Cindy Boulware's husband, Allen, recently suffered a stroke. Please send well-wishes and greetings of encouragement to 6450 Rolling Heights Circle, Kaufman, TX 75142.

Ch. Finch's One Tough Babe

"Grace"

(Ch. Finch's A Noble Tradition X Ch. Finch's Amazing Lil Walker)

What a great weekend for the black Poms at the Muncie, IN shows when Grace finished her championship the day after Sly! With the spirit and sparkle that makes a show dog great, Grace finished with 3 majors, the last two being back to back. Thank you to the judges that appreciated Grace's "star" quality. My heartfelt thanks to Grace's breeder, Diane Finch, who allowed me to bring her home and shared so many "pearls of wisdom" with me!!

"Sly"

(Ch. Finch's Walkin After Midnight X Finch's Precocious Debutant)

This truly awesome boy finished his championship from the puppy classes with 3 majors, 3 Best of Breed wins, including 2 over very nice specials, and a group placement! With flawless movement, a drop dead gorgeous face and a very showy attitude, Sly was always a thrill to show. Watch for this boy in the specials ring. Thank you to the judges that appreciated Sly's outstanding quality. A very special thank you to Sly's breeder, Diane Finch, who allowed me to bring this boy home!!
