PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

By DARRELL W. BAKER
207 Shirleen Drive
Seabrook, Texas 77586

Warm weather has come to Texas, and probably to our good Pom people up East and North also. We're glad you are finally "thawing" and we continue to be amazed at your endurance. Southerners cannot relate to such cold weather. Most of you know the Millers (Ken and Eleanor) — well-known Pomeranian people from up in Ohio. We are always amused when Eleanor screams about the horrible cold weather, ice, snow, etc., etc. and proclaims, "I WILL NEVER SPEND ANOTHER WINTER IN THIS . . . NEVER AGAIN . . . THIS TIME I MEAN IT — WE'RE MOVING SOUTH!" Then comes the thaw and she "melts" a little until the next big winter. We keep hoping she will finally really do it! We strongly suspect this is the shared feelings of many of the people up in the cold North country.

While this probably isn't the correct place for this news, it does however seem to be something interesting to all of you . . . in Houston in September (starting September 6th) of this year there will be a big 4-shows-in-one-place type event at the Astro Hall (at the Astrodome), with several clubs participating to provide an event similar to the big "Denver-4-show" weekend held several years ago. Houston's specialty show (Pom) will be on September 6th with other big all-breed shows to follow the next three days. Then another all-breed show will be just down the road on Sunday, resulting in 5 DOG SHOWS IN 5 DAYS. Sounds great, doesn't it? You will find an ad in this issue of the Review with particulars and an address to which you can write for Premium Lists and information. You've plenty of time now, so make your plans to come to Texas (Houston) in September. Hurricane season is just about over then . . . kidding, of course! We hope to plan some more special fun for the Pomeranian people and feel this might be a super-nice vacation for just about ANYONE. Till next time, thanks for your support.

COVER STORY

By RANDALL FRECH

"My that's a nice brood bitch." Yes, we have all heard that comment with the under current being — "But really too large to show." My cover story hopefully shows that a nice brood bitch can be a winner too! Fancy Lady weighs a solid six pounds and finished her championship in record time. She is beautifully coated in a rich orange color with good bone, lovely head and sound movement. Proving she can do it all, she free whelped two lovely show quality puppies and is currently expecting a new litter. Fancy Lady is sired by Randy's Jolly Wee Tuffy who is the sire of Ch. Randy's Jolly Wee Peppi and out of Randy's Pride and of Duke who was sired by Ch. Randy's Duke of Dragonfly. She is my ideal of what a Pom bitch should be. I am so proud that the judges recognized her quality and potential. Girls like this are rare and wonderful. I am striving to produce more like her. They will surely benefit the breed by being truly dual purpose to the point where comments like, "That's a nice brood bitch." will be the finest compliment one can receive.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA POMERANIAN CLUB SPECIALTY 1978

by BEVERLIE TOCA

The Trophy Table with silver trophies displayed on the Club's monogrammed black satin cloth. The white paper mache Pomeranian standing guard over all is the work of Shirley Hoffman.

Ch. Queenaire Double Scotch took top honors at the Northern California Pomeranian Club's Fifth Independent Specialty Show, held February 18, 1978, at the Santa Clara Fairgrounds in San Jose. "Scotchkins," sired by Ch. Queenaire Scotch and Soda out of Creider's Sip O' Sherry, was bred by Norma Creider and is owned by Wanda and Dudley Roach and piloted to Best of Breed by Phyllis Greer.

Best Opposite Sex was the sparkling little bitch from the Veteran's Class, Ch. Sun-Dot's Bubble Dancer, bred by Eddie Dotson, owned and shown by Ruth Dotson. Chosen Best of Winners, Manies's Jet Set Pixie, was first from the Open Bitch Class. She was bred and owned by Elma Manies. Winners Dog also came from the Open Class Sun-Dot's Fashion. Fella, bred by Ruth Dotson and co-owned by Jo Ann Bessol and Dotson.

The trophy table was swathed in drapes of gold and turquoise, accented with the Club's black satin monogrammed cloth. Thanks to the generosity of members and friends, the table glittered with crystal and silver trophies presided over by an exquisite white Pomeranian statue sculptured of paper mache by Shirley Hoffman.

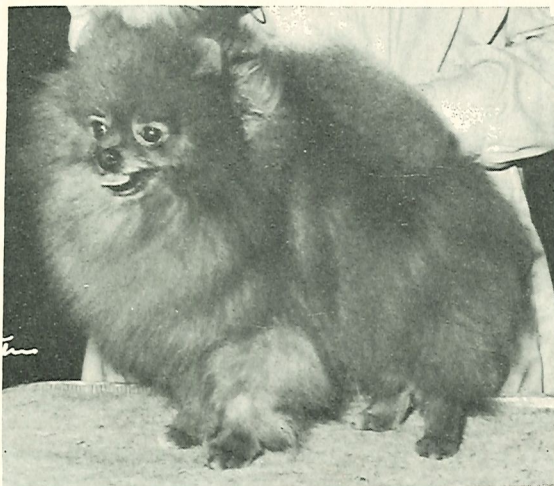

The Fairgrounds provided a spacious ring with green carpet runners, and the entry of 52 Pomeranians were an exciting sight as they vied for the eye of the Specialty Judge, Mrs. James E. Clark of Cecilton, Md. Mrs. Clark worked quickly and carefully, evaluating each entry and then directing her winners to their placings — the ring markers were turquoise Pomeranian silhouettes.

Judging the Sweepstakes Classes was Pat Thurman of Sacramento, Cal., whose expertise was especially appreciated Visiting around the ring was animated, and we were happy to see Phyllis Whiteside from Virginia, and Mrs. J. W. Davy from Danville, Arkansas.

Following the show a no-host dinner was held at Ida's Fireside Inn, attended by approximately 40 Pom fanciers. Late reservations made it necessary to divide the group into two rooms which did not seem to put a damper on the spirits of those present. Everyone joined together in one room after eating for the Club's Annual Awards presentation. Prior to announcing the awards President Ruth Dotson commended Wanda Roach, Show Chairman; Marion Vollmer, Ring Steward; and Beverlie Toca, Show Secretary for the success of the show. She thanked all the members of the Show Committee and those who had contributed to the trophy fund — making the Specialty possible; Mrs. Clark in absentia since she had a prior commitment to the Santa Clara Kennel Club dinner and Pat Thurman, not only for a job well done, but also for her graciousness in accepting the last minute assignment.

JEWEL ELLIS, Secretary
325 S. E. 9th St. — Grand Prairie, Texas 75051

I wish to apologize for not getting our club report in for the April Pomeranian Review, but I fell and broke my right arm and fractured the big bone just above the wrist in my left arm and was unable to use my hands.

New officers and board members were elected at our April meeting which are as follows: President, Mildred G. Patrick; Vice-President, John D. Metz; Secretary, Jewel Ellis; Treasurer, Carol L. Sherry. Board members are: Douglas Baynham, Estell McDonald and Opal Mosher.

We had a good entry of 54 Poms at our Specialty of March 24, 1978 with 13 entered in Puppy Sweepstakes. Mr. Walter G. McCormack, Jr. Judged the Sweepstakes and Maxine V. Beam judged the class entries. Both judges did an excellent job on the outstanding Poms presented for their decisions.

Winners in the Puppy Sweepstakes were:

Best Puppy in Sweepstakes: Robinhood's Hope He Will, owned by Verna Hood.

Best of Opposite Sex in Sweepstakes: Aristocrat Satin Doll, owned by Bill Kennedy.

Class Winners:

RWB: Mac's Scarlet, owned by Mrs. B. G. McDonald.

BOB: Ch. Lennis' Tar Lacy Foxfire, owned by E. B. Jenner.

WESTERN POMERANIAN CLUB SPECIALTY SHOW

By NORMAN K. JEROME

The Western Pomeranian Club held its annual Specialty show March 31 in Chicago at the International Amphitheatre.

The well known Papillon breeder Mr. Harvey Berman judged an entry of thirty-two, including five Champions.

The winners were: Best of Breed, Ch. Ringlands Glad All Over At Rosskear, Owned by DavonShire Kennel; Best Opposite Sex, Ch. LLL Lil Gold Moonshine, owner Janice Luginsland.

Winners Dog, DavonShire Misty Morn, also Best of Winners, Owned by DavonShire Kennel. Reserve, Wild Acre Afterglow O' Scotia, owner Edna Girardot.

Winners Bitch, Zodiac Cavalier Centerpiece, owner Betty Varney. Reserve, Grims Pease Blossom of Rosskear, owned by Gold Blackere Kennel.

It was a five point entry in both sexes.

BAY COLONY POMERANIAN CLUB SPECIALTY

By BILL POTTEBAUM

The Bay Colony Pomeranian Club Specialty was held on April 15, 1978, in conjunction with the South Shore Kennel Club, Inc. Due to some scheduling changes it was necessary to use this earlier date, rather than our usual time in late June or July.

We were very lucky in that with changing the date, we were still able to draw 33 entries, to make this a very nice Specialty.

In the 6-9 Month Puppy Dog Class, Nancy Vayo's Donayo Matchless Enchantor took the First Place. This was a very nice Puppy, with a very full coat. Next, was the Bred-By-Exhibitor Class and this was won by My-Pat's Northern Spy, owned by Dr. P. Scelso and Michael Meyer. This is an extremely nice dog, with an excellent Front and Rear. Moving on to the Open Dog Class, AOAC, the ribbon was taken by Jafco's Mr. Peeper's of Tiny-Tykes owned by Ina Kniffen. This dog continued on to win Winner's Dog, with Reserve going to Jabill's Jiminy Cricket, owned by Virginia and Robert Claar.

In the Puppy Bitches, 6-9 Month, Holland Hond's Sensation, owned by Harriet Cinkosky took First Place. A red puppy and very sound. In the Bred-By-Exhibitor, the ribbon again went to Dr. P. Scelso and Michael Meyer for their My-Pats Phanciphul Phoebe, a very nice bitch. Next the American Bred Class saw Anne Knowles, Wak's Golden Diamond Girl take the First Place. The Open Class presented some very nice Bitches and I know that our Judge, Mr. George Fowler had a hard time making the decision. When he did, it went to Topaze Mary Friskie, owned by Francis Casey. This is a very, very nice Sable with a beautiful coat. Mary Friskie went on to take Winner's Bitch and Best of Winners.

Next, came the Specials, all groomed to perfection and looking very proud. The Best of Breed went to Ch. Funfair's

After the Best of Breed, we were fortunate to have two Braces in the ring. This class was won by Anne Knowles and her Ch. Wak's Little Robin of Hadleigh and Wak's Golden Diamond Girl.

Immediately after the Judging, we had a Buffet. This is an annual item, with the food being donated by the members. Each year this is handled by Carmen Eckman and her daughter Ruth, who always do an outstanding job of getting everything together and making it come out right.

With our earlier date, we missed seeing some of our friends from different parts of the country, but hopefully next year we will be able to get a later date.

As with any show or Specialty everyone works hard and I feel that it goes without saying that all of the Bay Colony members thank everyone who was involved in making our Specialty so enjoyable. Thanks.

BABY LOVE LOVES BABIES!

By Lennis Raines

Baby Love was my first Pom. I bought her from Mrs. Tankesley of Dixieland Kennels. She will be 7 years old this June. She is one of the most devoted Poms I've ever seen. I haven't bred her for the past two years, as I am so fond of her and I'm afraid something might happen to her.

About 8 months ago, one of my bitches gave birth to 7 puppies. Needless to say, she didn't have enough milk for all of them. I noticed Baby running to the nursery door and crying. Well, the first thing I knew she had so much milk it was dripping out. I gave her two pups out of the litter and she took them and they flourished on her milk until the age of 8 weeks.

Chip gets his face washed while Dale peeks out to see what is going on.

Recently the local power company cut down a tree and a litter of 3 squirrels fell out. One was killed in the fall, but the other two were brought to me to raise. Needless to say, I don't have time to feed baby squirrels, but Baby began crying and I gave them to her. She quickly washed their faces and curled up around them and they began nursing. She developed milk and is taking excellent care of them. I'm sure if they were with their natural mother they would be weaned by now as they have teeth. But they are very gentle with Baby and she with them and there is a great love affair going on between them. I think Baby is a most unusual Pom and I wanted to share this with our readers.

We have recently finished two Canadian champions. Can. & Am. Ch. Millamor's Marita, pictured below, finished her title undefeated in her sex, in three weekends, with a Group 1st and 2nd from the classes. Marita is now retired from the ring, and will be bred to Medallion in the near future.

Can. Ch. Millamor's Rock Medallion also completed his title, with a Group 2nd, 2-3rds and a 4th all from the classes. We look forward to his career as a Special in Canada, and plan showing him both in the U.S. and Bermuda. Medallion is at stud to approved bitches, (See Stud Register).

FLASH! Medallion finished his Bermuda Championship in 3 shows!

MY VIEWS OF CRUFTS 1978

By NORMAN JEROME

As I had never attended Crufts dog show in England, I decided this had to be the year. This was to be the last show held at Olympia, for the building is to be razed. The show will be held at a new site beginning next year, Earl's Court. I have attended several shows in England and in my opinion I would not consider Crufts my favorite for several reasons, the main one being the sheer vastness of the show and the crowds of people. It is totally impossible to take everything in, in one day. However, I would not have missed going to this show for anything. Would I go again? Definitely yes.

The show was held Feb. 10 and Sat. Feb. 11th. To give an idea of the size there were 5,098 dogs entered the first day and 4,918 the second for a total of 10,016 dogs of 142 breeds with 100 judges deciding the best. Afghans led the entries with 285.

The first days judging was Toys, Working and Utility (equivalent to our Non Sporting). There were 32 rings being utilized on this day. It might be mentioned at this point, prior to the show a world conference of Kennel Clubs was held in London; representatives of thirty countries were present. Mr. William Stifel represented the U.S.A. One of the main topics was the problem of standardizing the standards for all breeds throughout the world.

There was an entry of sixty-seven Poms from forty-four exhibitors. Mrs. Rosaland Berney Smith had the task of sorting out the best. Mrs. Smith is a life-long breeder of Poms, with the prefix of "Arum". There were four classes here for dogs and four for bitches, however these classes were huge, there were six Champions entered in the classes also; the English system is somewhat different from ours inasmuch as Champions compete in the open class.

The first place winners in all the classes then compete as here for the coveted Challenge Certificate (points). A dog must have won three C.C.'s before it can be crowned a Champion. It is rather more difficult in England to make a Champion up than in America.

On this day the winners were Dog C.C. Ch. Majada Sunny Boy at Katula, Reserve C.C. Hadleigh Stardust, Bitch C.C. and Best of Breed Ch. Cynpegs Oriole, Reserve C.C. Ch. Ringlands Gaiety Girl at Rosskear.

Oriole owned by Cynthia Harper, is a very tiny orange sable with the sweetest of expressions.

The Toy Group was judged by Mr. Robert Flavell, the renowned breeder-judge who heads the house of "Wilmscote Pomeranians". In a hotly contested group the nod was given to the great Yorkie, Ch. Blairsville Royal Seal who then went on to Reserve Best in Show. Ch. Cynpegs Oriole was judged Reserve Winner in the Toy Group. B.I.S. judged by Mrs. Gwen Broadley, was awarded to the four year old Wire Hair Fox Terrier, owner bred and handled, Ch. Harrow Hill Huntsman.

It was my pleasure to meet Jean Schroll and a friend over for Crufts, we had a nice chat at ringside and I understand Jean was interested in purchasing a top Pom.

I was most delighted to be the guest of Mr. & Mrs. Gerald Winter of Rosskear Poms, and Andrew Brace after the show in the lovely Wales countryside. Andrew had a grand win with his young Peke. R.C.C. Mellifont Ladybug of Tragband. It was a beautiful ending to a great show adventure, and the huge home, hospitality, gorgeous dogs, and friendship in Wales will not soon be forgotten.

For other views of Crufts, see Pacific Northwest News & Views, Page 76.

KENNEL VISIT TO JABIL KENNELS

BY CLAIRE FLESNER

Jessie and Barbara Young would like me to tell you that this isn't a Kennel Visit, it's a house visit. The kennel is used for grooming and boarding only. The Poms and Shih Tzu are house dogs. This can be a bit hectic at times, but with a sense of humor and the proper discipline, the Youngs think that this is the best way to raise dogs.

Jabil Kennel is located in rural New Hampshire, outside the state capital of Concord. There are 30 acres of land adjoining the kennel, with the house being the highest house in the county. On a clear day there is a 100 mile view. The name Jabil was coined by a Doberman breeder by combining Jessie's nickname Jay and her husband's Bill "Jay Bill."

Front view of house with boarding-grooming kennel on the right. Jessie and some of the Poms are in the yard in front of the house. A one-acre grass yard and paddock is behind the house.

In 1948 Jessie bought her first puppy, a Collie. There have been Collies at Jabil ever since, along with Dobermans, Dalmations, Poodles, a German Shepherd, Beagle and a Great Dane. At present there is only one Collie left, a beautiful blue merle by the name of "Faerie Dean Jabil's Blu Zircoon." "Teddy" is now 5 years old and has matured into a large, magnificent adult. Right now he is being shown by his breeder and has 6 Canadian Points plus 1 American point. Also in residence are two Shih Tzu, "Lotus" and "Pebbles", plus an assortment of cats (one being 18 years old). Cats and dogs mix in well together.

Barbara's interest in dogs came about by being raised with them. Jessie also has two sons, George and Drew. The boys are as interested in cars as Jessie and Barbara are in animals. George and Drew are President and Vice-President of The New Hampshire Sport Car Club. In addition to racing sports cars, they build and remodel their own car engines.

In the late 1960's, Jessie and Barbara became interested in several Toy Breeds. After meeting the late Mary Casey at a show, they quickly became Pom converts. The combination of Mary's guidance and gentle prodding, plus a knowledge of genetics already obtained from the Collie breeding and a large helping of good luck has led to the success Jabil has had in just a few brief years. It must be mentioned here that both Jessie and Barbara will be forever grateful to Mary Casey's willingness to help and guide them through the formative years. They are also very grateful to Mary's husband 'Case' for his grooming lessons and demonstrations, which they still refer to.

The year 1970 saw the first Pom arrive at Jabil, a lovely linebred Thelcolynn and Scotia bitch. She is Jabil Petite Delilah, CD and is the backbone of the Jabil line. Delilah's full sister Adkin's Star of Band Box. was the second dog at Jabil and that was the beginning of the Jabil Poms.

Jessie and Poms at play in the front Pom yard.

It was about this time (1972) that Barbara suggested that she and her Mother combine their interest and knowledge in dogs into a vocation. The carriage house which had held 12-15 Collies was converted into a grooming and boarding kennel. It is 24 hour work, but it enables them to always be just a few feet and seconds away from the Poms. The business has flourished and last year they were able to double the kennel size. Also last year a large exercise yard was added on, for the 20 plus Poms and Shih Tzu. It is directly attached to the house. It's entrance is via the living room door and can always be observed from 3 rooms of the house, as well as from the kennel.

Mary Casey had had good results with Scotia bitches bred to her Am., Can., & Bda. Ch. Nanjo Interlude. With that in mind, Delilah was bred to "Denny", which resulted in one male puppy, Group winning Am. & Can. Ch. Jabil's Dandy Lion, CD. Next, Delilah's sister was bred to "Denny" which also resulted in one male puppy; Ch. Jabil's Chester P. Honeyhugger. All the Jabil Poms are linebred to Ch. Sungold's Gay Cavilier and Ch. Thelcolynn's Tiny Sun Dance. The first true Jabil breeding resulted in Group winning Am., & Can. Ch. Jabil's Simply Smashing.

Jessie & Ch. Jabil's Chester P. Honeyhugger in front of trophies displayed in the living room. The picture is of three of the Jabil studs. Used on January 1978 cover, this picture will be seen in color in the Anniversary issue.

All puppies are born next to Jessie's bed. When they are old enough they are moved to playpens in the living room. There they are handled often and adjust to the different sounds and people. Older puppies spend a lot of time in the kitchen. All the dogs learn to bait while watching human and canine food being prepared. At the beginning of this visit, I mentioned that all the Jabil dogs are house dogs, and that they are! Whenever Barb and Jessie move about the downstairs, there is a horde of Poms of assorted sizes and colors plus the Shih Tzu following them. The dogs know that several times a day they will each get their turn of being picked up and loved. Needless to say the dogs in their own way return the love. Visitors at the house always receive a noisy welcome and as soon as they are settled they usually find a friendly Pom or two or three on their laps or bringing them toys to play with. There's no such thing as an unfriendly or unsociable dog at Jabil.

Jessie and Am. Can. Ch. Jabil's Simply Smashing — Dog beds like the one in use under the table are throughout the house.

All of the Poms join in for practice in "baiting."

In addition to raising her family and managing the kennel, Jessie has found time for many other things. One of her favorite hobbies, which she never seems to have enough time for is painting. Several fine examples of her talent hang in the house. She is also co-founder of The New Hampshire Collie Club and of The New Hampshire Obedience Club.

She is the current President of The Bay Colony Pomeranian Club.

One of Barbara's favorite pasttimes is writing. She writes The American Pomeranian club column in The A.K.C. Gazette. She has just become Editor of The Lakes Region Kennel Club Newsletter. Another hobby is photography. She also finds time to do some gardening. Horses have long been one of her favorite animals, even before dogs. Barbara tries to attend horse shows whenever possible and maybe might consider showing horses.

Puppies are born in Jessie's bedroom. This is Ch. Varney's Jabil Dream Girl with her new children.

In January of this year, the Youngs battled the elements of a New England blizzard and the flu bug to bring two Poms and two Shih Tzu to a scheduled live TV appearance in Boston. The normally 1½-2 hour trip took 4 hours! Then on top of all that all they got was less than five minutes of show time. This show of dedication on their part resulted in both of them being hit by pneumonia. Then before either one of them was fully recuperated, it was on to New York City for The APC Specialty where Jessie was Show Chairman and Barbara was Show Secretary. Once there, they overcame almost insurmountable obstacles brought on by the Blizzard of '78 to do an outstanding job.

AMERICAN POMERANIAN CLUB, INC. ANNUAL WINTER SPECIALTY

By Jessie W. Young
Show Chairperson

Advance planning for our Annual February Specialty is not only a wise precaution, but it is absolutely necessary! Since our Premium List must be in the hands of AKC before readers can receive another issue of the Review, you will find Trophy Pledge blanks inserted in this July Issue. PLEASE do not lay them aside and think, "Oh, I have plenty of time" — you don't. Sit right down and fill out the pledge and write a check payable to the American Pomeranian Club, Inc. Large or small, all contributions are MOST WELCOME! The important thing is the Active Participation of Everyone. All names will be listed in the Show Catalogue.

Our February 1979 Specialty will again be held at the Lowe's Summit Hotel, Lexington Avenue & 51st St., NYC (subject to AKC Approval of course). The date is February 11, 1979. Please make a RED LETTER notation of this date and plan to BE THERE! Ask anyone, yes ANYONE who has attend one of our February Specialties in past years and you will hear about the friendly people, the beautiful Poms, the fun gatherings in the Hospitality Room, the fabulous trophies to be won — and more and more and more!

We cannot publish the names of our judges until they are approved by AKC, but hopefully we will know all the details for the October Review. Until then, please help us get the ball rolling by sending in your Trophy Pledge PROMPTLY. Thanks so much. In the unlikely event that a trophy pledge blank was not included in your Review, the Trophy Chairman is Mrs. Goldie K. Mandley, 501 Dover Rd., Glen Burnie, Md. 21061.

Co-Chairman, Mrs. Thelma M. Dunn.
Catalogue Advertising Chairman is Miss Barbara Young, 204 Loudon Ridge Rd., Loudon, N.H. 03301.

FALL SPECIALTY

By Sue Goddard

We hope many of you are planning to come to our Fall Specialty in October. This is a marvelous time of year to come to Georgia, Poms should be in good coat and the Committee is leaving no stone unturned to make this THE BEST EVER!!

Pom exhibitors will be headquartered in the Squire Inn Motel, 2767 Windy Hill Rd., Marietta, Georgia. Write for Reservations or phone 404-952-3251. There will be bus service from the airport to the motel and they will accept small dogs in crates.

Plan to arrive early and have cocktails and buffet at Paul and Randy Frech's home Friday evening. Coffee and luncheon will be served to the Pom exhibitors in the hospitality room at the show on Saturday. After the show, plan on a marvelous dinner and a generous supply of Southern Hospitality.

More details on the Back Cover.

KENNEL VISIT

The October Kennel Visit will find us travelling back to California to the Queenaire Kennels of Wanda and Dudley Roach. These very active members of the Northern California Pomeranian Club need no introduction to most of our readers, but we know that the story of their successful Pom breeding experiences through the years will prove very interesting to all. We feel sure other Pomeranian breeders in California will want to congratulate the Roaches and also call attention to their own Poms. California here we come!

POISONOUS PLANTS OF THE

UNITED STATES AND CANADA

This list includes some of the most commonly encountered poisonous plants found as ornamental house plants, garden plantings and wild (field and woods) weeds, trees and bushes. In most cases, the poisonous substance is an alkaloid and the treatment is supportive rather than specific. Puppies, with their constant curiosity and tendency to chew anything and everything, are the usual victims. If a puppy shows symptoms of illness after chewing a plant — leaf berry or root— be sure to take along the remainder of the plant, when consulting your veterinarian.

IRENE HARBIN

N.E. Seattle Wa. 98125

Where does one begin — So many shows — So many winners. First, however, Our April 16, 1978 "B" match. It was well supported by both exhibitors and visitors, with a genuine interest in the Pomeranian. The trophy table was beautiful. Most of the trophies were donated by Maryanne Melville. Most of the long time breeders will remember Maryanne. The table was adorned with a beautiful summer bouquet provided by Sylvia Harbin. She also provided a corsage for our judge.

Our judge was Jane Bennett — Jane has conducted many handling classes in this area and is a licensed judge for Dobermans. Jane made it a real thrill for our visitors as well as the exhibitors by giving a complete critique and inviting questions at any time during her judging. Truly a day to remember.

It was a real thrill for Erin Hundley, taking "Best in Match" from the 4-6 mo. Puppy Class, with "Samson", a dog of her own breeding. Other winners were: Tigre's Final Fling, Irene Harbin owner breeder, 6-9 Mo. bitch class. Lady Faustine owned by Rene & Ken Rotta, with a double entry, 9-12 Mo. Bitch and Open Bitch, winning both classes. So-Hi's Bonnie Starlet, owner/breeder, Virginia Niehouse, "Bred by Exhibitors" class. We also had a brace, "Samson" and His litter sister, "Sassy". These two did very well for 5 Mo. old, and so did Erin. We included an "Exhibitors Class Only." This was a class for 'Pointed Poms." It was the largest class entry. They were not in competition with the others. Each handler gave a resume of the dogs achievements and breeding, for the benefit of our visitors. Last but far from Least was "The Parade of Champions." Am. Can. Champion Scotia Dollys Dandy Sybil proudly led Erin Hundley around the ring.

April 22 and 23 the Hundleys and Harbins spent a very memorable weekend at the Kawanis Club of Kerrisdale, Vancouver, B.C. all breed show, even though we slept very little Saturday nite. Our rooms were directly over the discotique. One thing we learned was that in Canada they give the customers of the discotique their moneys worth. They played from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. without a break.

The Hundleys and the Harbins did better at the show. Hundley's Dolly took Winners Bitch both days and also "Best Puppy" with Que Sera GiGi of Golden Glow. The Harbins took WD and BOB both days. Saturday, Scotia Bend of Harbin and Sunday, Harbin's Indestructible Jim. Jim doing better in the Group however with a 4th place.

Am. Can. Champion Golden Glow Pepper — Owner/Breeder Elva (Sally) McGillbry is continuing his winnings, his most recent being, Salem Oregon, with Second in Group, and the Yakima KC. Other winners are Virginia Niehouse with So-Hi's Gala Jubilee most recent being WB & BOS at Yakima. And then there is Andrews Wee Red Laddie, owned by Phyllis Andrews, taking Winner Dog at Yakima.

Ronald of Point Loma — Owned by Dr. Charles Wilson has his Championship Title, pending AKC approval, with major wins at Walla Walla and Richland and finally Olympia. Congratulations to Dr. Wilson.

OHIO POM CLUB

by MARY STRASLICKA

Brunswick, Ohio 44212

Greeting again from the North . . . but it is beginning to look more like the South now, which seems to put everyone in a much better mood. There are many puppy matches coming up and I hope everyone has someone to show.

It has been a rough winter outside and it hasn't been easy in the whelping box lately either. I received the following letter from Mrs. Ruth Doctor:

* * * * *

In your column in the Pom Review in January, 1978, you stated it was a poor year for puppies. I've raised Poms for 28 years and never, never had such poor luck. I only raised 1 pup out of three females. One female stopped labor; I was not positive her breeding took as I never felt or saw a pup move. I normally have to watch her weight. I thought she was having a false pregnancy — she started to labor — stopped and was contented like it was all over. The next a.m. I saw a little foot — the pup started down the wrong horn — I lost 3 pups and the mother — the Vet said it wasn't my fault — she stopped labor as pup did not press against her pelvic bone. I lost another pup for no reason at all — came 63rd day was lovely pup. She had no trouble but pup was dead.

The last female had 3 pups on 57th day, 2½ oz. - 2 oz. and other one was approximately 2½ oz. was malformed — I tube fed 2 oz one for a week — wouldn't nurse but it never gained more than ½ oz. The other pup is 7 weeks old and beautiful. Out of 11 females only 3 came in heat last spring. I watched them real close and vet said other animals were not normal this last year.

I did have Shell strips in Kennel and have disposed of them. Our Poms are so small thought they (strips) might be the cause.

I thought it might be mold in the food but vet didn't feel this could be the cause as it is processed and would kill mold germ. He did tell me to make a dog abort they give them ergot—(moldy wheat germ)—so I wonder. If you have any ideas from any one please have them write me as its really a puzzle to me what went wrong.

P.S. I used different males so he is not at fault.

* * * * *

If anyone has any ideas, you can send them to Ruth at 6914 Wayne Trace, Ft. Wayne, Ind. 46816. And thanks for your letter, Ruth: it's nice to know someone is reading my article!

The following is a letter that was read at the Cleveland All-Breed Training Club, Inc. Christmas and Awards Dinner on Dec. 3, 1977:

* * * * *

Many awards have been made tonight but there is one very special award yet to be made, it is the "Gaines Good Sportsmanship" medal.

Gaines donates this bronze medal to Clubs that indicate they have selected a member who exemplifies good sportsmanship.

Sportsmanship may be shown by how a person plays the game, by a person's sense of fairness, or by how a person shows respect for others.

Sportsmanship can also be shown by the willingness of an individual to invest so much of the self doing the very necessary, very unglamorous work that is essential to the smooth running of a very active club; often most of this work is not seen by the majority of the membership. OUR person has been doing this for almost 24 years.

It is my honor and pleasure, on behalf of the Board of Directors, to present this Gaines Good Sportsmanship Medal to:

MILDRED SHELDON

"For the many years of unselfish

FEEDING FOR BREEDING

By DR. DAVID S. KRONFELD

Ph.D., D.Sc., MVSc.

Conclusion

FEEDING MANAGEMENT

Poor feeding management, I am convinced, is responsible for more complaints in dogs' faulty diets. The two most common problems are under-or-over-feeding, and abrupt changes in type of food.

Any diet rich in animal fat and protein is going to be very palatable and should not be fed free choice. A study conducted in 1925 is often cited to support the idea that dogs instinctively eat only the right amount of food. The diets in that study were not particularly palatable, and the proposition seems to hold only with the least palatable cereal products which are designed for use free-choice. I recommend that you should feed by hand and eye, starting with the average intake from Table 1, then adjusting every second week, a little up or down, until your animal reaches the desired body weight.

Avoid any sudden changes in amounts or types of food, e.g. from carbohydrates to fat and protein or vice versa. Both the dog's digestive secretions and the population of microorganisms in its large intestine must adapt to new substances delivered to them. This takes time, at least a few days, possibly two weeks. Signs of poor adaptation are loose stools or diarrhea and flatulence, perhaps bad breath. Hold still or back off slightly; entirely abandoning the new food may be a bigger change than persisting with it, so don't panic. Also, when changing foods, make sure not to overfeed, better to underfeed slightly.

Carnivores do not eat well when threatened even slightly. Allay fears by feeding in a safe familiar place and avoiding any distractions. Adhere to routine.

BEFORE BREEDING

Once you decide to breed a bitch, make sure she is healthy. Examine her for worms and treat as required. Check her vaccination record and make good any deficiencies. Feed her to reach the desired body weight. (If you and I were to look at a series of dogs, perhaps only 5 out of 100 of you would like them to be as thin as I do.) Use Table 1 as an initial guide. Let us say she is 40 lbs. and you want her to be 35 lbs. in 3 months time. Looking at the Table, select a slightly lower body weight than that desired, e.g. 33 lbs. Now an average sedentary healthy adult of 33 lbs. would require 10 oz. of dry food (about 2½ to 4 cupfuls depending on the degree or puff of the cereal) or about 2 cans. You can choose a combination, say 5 oz. dry food and 1 can a day. Then try cutting down to 4 oz. Many dogs start begging when underfed. Splitting the daily ration into 2 feeds will usually diminish begging, and it is quite a good practice in a brood bitch even at this stage.

About three or four weeks before you want to mate her, start to build her diet up a little. This is a practice called "flushing" in livestock. A positive nutritional balance does bring on estrus sooner and lead to higher conception rates. The mechanism appears to involve pituitary hormones. After mating, she should be returned to maintenance.

GESTATION

Some recommend increasing food energy intake by about 20% two or three weeks after mating. Others delay the increase until five or six weeks. In a Beagle, each fetus weighs about 15 grams at 40 days, 90 g at 50 days, and about 300 g at birth. Obviously, the last two weeks are crucial. At this time, many factors tend to diminish food intake, especially if the bitch is too fat. That is one of the reasons why I prefer to make any additions in the form of meat and fat or a canned meat based product. The conceptus usurps abdomi-

MIDAS POMERANIANS

A Star is Born!

On Christmas Eve, we were presented with Midas Christmas Star, a sable son of Ch. Bonner's Kristin Starmist. His dam is Parka's Adorabril Marquesa, a daughter and granddaughter of Ch. Bonner's Sunstyle Brilliance. We are hoping he'll live up to his pedigree.

The following litters are expected in June:

Ch. Bonner's Kristin Starmist X Midas Hopeful Moment
(Brilliance granddaughter)

Bonner's Wagdoll With Love X Aristic Flaming Hon (Ch. Bonner's Stylemodel Wee Wag and Ch. Bonner's Darlastyle Xmas Toy in her pedigree.)

nal space, so feeding twice a day allows a longer transit time, better digestion and absorption. The bitch may tend to lose her appetite just before whelping. This is no great cause for alarm. Offer her the foods she likes best among the foods she is used to, but do not force her. In the example begun above with a 35 lb. bitch, if she has been fed 10 oz. dry food, I would mix in $\frac{1}{4}$ can meat-based food or comparable additions of milk, liver, or yeast and oil as described above. If she had been fed half cereal and half meat, I would increase both but not take the cereal above 10 oz. She would weigh between 35 and 38 lbs. immediately after whelping.

LACTATION

After whelping, her needs will depend on the number of pups. If only two or three she will need little more than she was given towards the end of pregnancy. Any bitch with four or more pups should probably be allowed to eat free-choice. She will obviously be able to consume more useful food energy if fed more fat and essential nutrients and, as a corollary, fed less starch and fiber, i.e., relatively less cereal. Note relatively: she probably can continue on maintenance intake of cereal and obtain extra food needs as meat and meat byproducts.

The pups should start to nibble the bitch's food at three or four weeks, depending on the precocity of the breed. It may be necessary if the pups are few to restrict her food intake. But if she has a normal size litter, she probably can continue consuming food free-choice until they are weaned. She should not weigh less than 30 lb., preferably not less than 35 lb., i.e. her pre-mating weight if she has been fed as well as possible.

If a bitch dries up too soon, she has probably been fed inadequately. Next time remember that dietary protein promotes milk production, and that this creates a demand for milk fat precursors. These must be provided from the diet or the bitch will have to mobilize body stores of fat.

WEANING

This is a crucial time in the emotional and metabolic development of pups. Some kennels wean at six weeks, e.g. for the AAFCO protocols or for sale. It is probably better to wait another two or three weeks for natural weaning. In either case, some effort should be made to "creep" feed the pups at about four weeks. The sled dogs, for example, are called out just beyond the bitch's chain three or four times a day, and are rewarded with a little highly palatable feed. In one beautifully managed Greyhound kennel, the bitch is placed in an adjacent pen, separated from her pups by a chain link fence for an hour or two. The period is gradually lengthened, until the bitch is brought to her pups only twice, then once, a day for feeding.

Whatever the actual system, the principal is clear: weaning should be as smooth and atraumatic as possible.

This principle also applies to the food. The milk of the bitch contains about 35% protein and 40% fat on a dry matter basis. If pups are shifted abruptly to 22% protein and 5% fat, i.e. the NRC's minimums for growth as well as maintenance, setbacks should be expected. I recommend higher contents of protein and fat, approaching the levels in bitch's milk, for pups before, during and immediately after weaning.

THE STUD

Two-and-a-half words suffice for the nutrition of the stud dog: Don't Overfeed. All he does is not much.

KENNEL VISIT (Continued)

I'm sure most of you know that they had to replace the two judges that were stranded in Massachusetts by the storm and martial law. But did you know about the problem they had with the show catalogs? It seems that they were amongst the missing until almost show time. Jessie and Barbara along with several volunteers, Pom friends and Hotel workers scoured all the possible
"hiding" places in the Hotel many times over before finally finding them. What a time! They are going to give it another try next year with Jessie again being Show Chairman and Barbara Trophy
Chairman.

Whenever I think of or visit Jabil Kennel, my mind always goes back to an afternoon last summer as I sat with two very dear friends admiring the 100 mile view and watching hawks circle lazily in the distance. The Jabil Poms romping in the exercise yard and my two were asleep beside us. The peaceful, serene feeling that prevailed, I will cherish forever.

If I were asked to give a one word description of Jabil Kennel, it would be LOVE.

1978 Stud Dog Register

This is Pomeranian Review's 1978 Register of outstanding stud dogs. On this and the following pages — and in some of the display ads — are stud dogs that, for their individual excellence, unique characteristics or special breeding, stand ready to help every breeder in the country. Inevitably, some owners of fine stud dogs failed to send their entries in, for one reason or another. But with so many represented, from every section of the country, and of so many different bloodlines, we feel that our Register, this year is very complete. May we request that when breeders send inquiries to stud dog owners, they mention: "I saw your stud card in the Review."

Must decrease our number of canine residents somewhat. We offer the following:

$175.....“Busy” — Beautiful pet-type male, double Duke grandson, 1½ years old.

$450.....“Izzy” — Nice show-type male, double grandson of Duke. Proven stud. Has points Ready to show. Show home only.

$300.....— 4 year old son of Ch. Corn’s Duke Dragonfly, proven stud. Will sell to right place/person.

$250.....“Dolly” — Double Duke granddaughter, 3 years old. Excellent for breeding, needs help with raising puppies.

$350.....“Williemakit Baker” — Not a Pom, but for someone who would enjoy showing a darling Brussels Griffon, male 2½ yrs. old. Alrdeay has 8 pts., including a 4 pt. major. Need a good home for “Willie”. Should be able to finish Championship easily — a neat dog!! Proven stud.

???.....Also should have pups for sale from exceptional breeding of a Ch. TimSue’s Love Bug daughter, bred to a double grandson of Duke. More details later.

Additional information on request. Might be a little easier if you call us (evenings — 713-334-2250). Probably a little more convenient for you to get all details by phone. If you prefer, write us:

Stud Fee: $75.00

Mr. William Bergum, Spartensburg, Feb. 17, 1978	3 pts.
Mrs. Wilma Hunter, Danville, Mar. 21, 1978	3 pts.
Mrs. Winifred Heckmann, Greensboro, Mar. 22, 1978	2 pts.
Miss Anna K. Nicholas, Burlington, Mar. 23, 1978	3 pts.
Mrs. John M. Jones, Durham, Mar. 24, 1978	4 pts.

Congratulations to Dr. Morris and Betty Carson for their new champion Emcee's Tina of Great Elms — 8th champion for Image.

Congratulations to Lennis Raines for "Teakie's" Best in Show at High Point, North Carolina

I wish to correct a mistake I made in my ad in the April 1977 issue. I stated that Post Script Standing Ovation was the SECOND puppy by Image to win the Sweepstakes. He was the FIRST. Don't know how I got it in my feeble mind that Sissy of Lenette won the Sweepstakes in 1972. She was Best of Opposite Sex.

Richmond, VA 23225

It happened again. I was at a show, grooming my dog. Someone asked me, "What are you using?" and I thought, "Gee, I thought everyone knew about that." Well, obviously not everyone does know about that great little trick of yours. You've probably been using it for years, without even thinking about it. Or maybe it is such a good idea that you assume everybody has thought of it. But that's just not the case. So take a couple of minutes to jot down an "oldie-but-goldies" and send it to me. If you're a novice, perhaps you have a fresh approach. Share it with us. Herewith some of my own "oldies-but-goodies".

Soft, moist cat food makes a terrific bait. It comes in foil packets that slip neatly into a pocket. It is already in Pom-size bits, and mine love it. One packet will last 2 or 3 shows, but it is cheap enough to use a fresh packet each show.

An infant's wash cloth also fits easily into a pocket, and is handy for wiping watery eyes. One proved invaluable the time my bitch backed up and sat in a "puddle" just as our class was called at the Garden.

How does anyone get along without a big stock of old (and therefore soft) towels? I cover the grooming table with one, put one in the bottom of each travel crate, cover my lap with one (at home I do all my grooming in my lap). The whelping box and puppy incubators are lined with towels. The matrons prefer them, and I think they're more sanitary than newspapers. They also give scrabbling puppies more traction. If you have a Pom that gets carsick, or if it should rain at an outdoor show, those towels are worth their weight in purple ribbons.

My husband developed the following system for transporting orphaned or sick newborn puppies to the veterinarian. Fill a one pound margarine tub with hot water and put the top on. Put it in the bottom of a small, round styrofoam ice bucket. Set a pot holder (or similar padding) on top of that. Now wrap the puppy loosely in a soft cloth or towel, put in the ice bucket, and put the top on the bucket. This keeps the pup warm and secure. The weight of the water will keep the bucket steady, but if you're extra cautious, put it in a box and pack newspapers around it.

When it is dog feeding time, I put down plastic place mats (with dog pictures on them, naturally), then set the dish on top. Each dog has her own spot to eat and is trained to touch only the dish put in that place. After they're finished, I take up dishes and place mats at the same time. The place mats keep the floor clean. Now will somebody please tell me how to keep my toddler out of the water dishes?

When you are training your dog for show, I'm sure you try to use different surroundings. Try to think of the various environments he might encounter in a ring. Several of us have had problems with dogs balking when gaited toward a light-colored wall. After one of mine did this, I took her to our obedience club's training building, which has white cinder block walls inside, and ran her into the walls. That is, I forced her to move toward the walls, then gave her a treat when she got there. Two brief sessions solved the problem.

A 3% hydrogen peroxide solution will neutralize bloodstains, even dried ones, quickly and completely. It is safe and effective on fabrics, floors, and Poms. Get a fresh bottle before your brood is due to whelp; it does have a limited shelf life. Of course, it is also a mild antiseptic. (Editor's note: Test on fabric — peroxide is a bleach)

A junior size baby food jar is just the right size for holding cotton swabs in the tack box. What are the swabs for? Dip one in powder, then carefully go over eyestains with it.

Pediatric medicines, gentle enough for infants, are also good for home doctoring of Poms. Two of my favorites are:

1. Liquiprin—an acetomenophen solution, this one is more dilute than other brands, which make it easier to measure smaller doses. Use this whenever your vet recommends baby aspirin, when your Pom is uncomfortable from an injection or injury, or when he has a fever.

2. Triaminic Decongestant—this is an orange syrup. Yes, dogs do occasionally get stuffy or drippy noses from colds or allergies.

These medicines are mild, flavored liquids, easy to measure and administer. My vet now recommends them, based on our experience. Consult your vet for dosage, based on the weight of the individual dog.

REBEL REPORT

By SUE GODDARD
5044 Lee Highway
Bristol, VA. 24201

Do you hear the gentle strumming of guitars? Do you feel the soft southern breezes caressing the spanish moss while you sip a mint julip in a frosted glass while being surrounded by sparkling conversation and the playful yip of dozens of Poms? Does this sound like my overworked imagination . . . no indeed, it is the picture of things to come. Namely the summer specialty held in Kennesaw, Georgia (a suburb of Atlanta). Yes, we of the southern area are hard at work making plans for the very best summer specialty ever to be held anywhere! Please start making plans to join us in October. We promise a grand time to be had by all with the extra bonus of two shows that should provide 5 point majors. We are also planning a puppy sweepstakes, so start those youngsters out with an eye toward a win at the specialty. Lennis Raines has promised a special treat in entries with practically one of every color . . . chocolates, blues, beaver, chocolate and tan as well as black and tan. For those who have never seen some of these rare colors, here is your opportunity. Randy Frech is making plans to host a grand buffet on Friday prior to the show on Saturday, and she does have the most gorgeous home and grounds to entertain all of us.

I have been to quite a few shows and we had marvelous entries on the Tar Heel circuit with 4 point majors most every day. Joyce Apple piloted a lovely little deep orange male owned and bred by Ruth Beam to his championship during this circuit. He is now Ch. Great Elms Timstopper Too. Ruth couldn't believe that he finished so fast, but it isn't hard to see why as he is every inch deserving of his title.

Edna Girardot finished Scotia Toby Precious Coleen on this circuit. She took time out in the middle of showing to become a mama back in October. She is a very nice Pom, orange with dense coat and showmanship to envy.

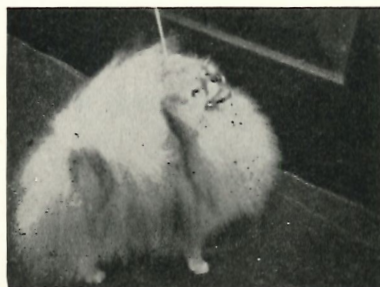

A lovely black and tan bitch shown for Dr. and Mrs. Carson by Marlene Scott also completed her title. She is Ch. Emcee's Satina of Great Elms, bred by Ruth Beam.

Best of Breed winners at these shows were Ch. Emcee's Solid Gold Diamond, Ch. Lennis's Tequila Sunrise, and Ch. Funfairs Pinto-O Joe Dandy. Competition was very keen both in classes and in specials.

Another recent champion who has been really cleaning up at the shows in our area is Jodi Hudspeth's Ch. Honeycrest Raz'le Daz'le Dante who has already numerous group firsts and at least one best in show.

As the shows move outdoors we have run into several rather wet ones. These conditions seems to separate the dogs from the pups (men from the boys) well anyway not too many Poms enjoy wading through puddles. I guess we should occasionally let our dogs experience greater variety in surfaces so they will not object when the going gets a bit rough.

Please send me your news. Unfortunately I can't get everywhere I'd like to and I don't always hear. I am hoping to get to Houston in September for their big extravaganza of many shows in one place . . . would be so much fun!

A decorative border of black stars surrounds the text. The stars are arranged in a roughly rectangular pattern, with some stars missing in the corners, creating a frame for the central text.

OBEDIENCE RING

Our faithful correspondent from Southern California, Debbie Jones of Alhambra, was one of the contestants in the Gaines National Obedience Classic held at Los Angeles, California in December, 1977. Her little Seabright Atilla The Hun-ey ("Murdoch" to his friends) was entered in the Novice Division and was the only Pom in the entire show. His scores in the three shows which made up the two day event, were 193½, 195 and 195½. Poor Debbie was suffering from a severe cold during the entire week-end. She says, "I had been looking forward to the classic as a chance to meet handlers from throughout the country, but ended up spending the time I wasn't showing curled up in my folding chair. If anyone noticed I'm sure they must have thought I was a terrible snob!" Cheer up, Debbie it looks as though you and "Murdoch" have a very bright future in obedience.

Margaret McKee of Richmond, Virginia tells her obedience students, "About the only hard and fast rule you can make about showing a dog in obedience is: expect the unexpected!" Margaret says that was brought home to her last fall when she had GEM, her tiny Pom, in a puppy novice class. She writes: "I was so elated to discover that he actually likes to retrieve that I entered him in four trials in Novice B. I immediately regretted it as he really wasn't ready. He began cutting up and running away during practice sessions. However, I decided to take him anyway as since I had paid the entry fee he might as well get some ring experience. To my utter astonishment he qualified with a score of 191½. The next day he repeated under a tough judge with a 192. The following week-end he polished it off with a 195½ and third in a class of 46. Congratulations on a new C.D. — who is full of happy surprises.

All the way from Puerto Rico comes the good news from Angie Ruiz that at the Puerto Rico Dog Obedience Club Trial recently, her black female Pom, Sel-Sal's Pepper of P.R. completed her third leg in Novice with a score of 194 and was high scoring dog in the show. "Pepper" has made her C.D. title taking first place in three consecutive trials. Now Angie's two Poms, Sel-Sal's Pepper of P.R. and Sel-Sal's Liza of P.R. both have their C.D.s, and incidentally these are the only two female Poms who have obedience titles if Puerto Rico.

We send our heartiest congratulations to our Obedience Columnist, Emma Heyde, on the near-perfect track completed by her English Cocker in earning the T. D. degree!

What is more exciting than a vacation? Well it could be anything, but to Jean Schroll, Bess Pickens, and Bea George it was a trip to England to the big dog show at Crufts. These three members of the Columbia Pomeranian Club, were fortunate to go on a tour together and enjoy the sights of London and shared the dog show also. Bess asked Bea to write her impressions for our newsletter. I found their comments very interesting and persuaded Jean to add her thoughts so that I could share them with you.

MY IMPRESSION OF CRUFTS

By BEA GEORGE

You asked for a few of my thoughts on the trip to London and the Crufts Show. Naturally the first impression is of bigness. After all, 11,500 dogs to be shown in one building in two days, I'm sure takes a lot of doing. It took place on two levels which helped. The small dogs were on the upper level which was somewhat like a mezzanine around the building. I will surely give credit to the breeders who put on a show of such magnitude, but at the same time I must say it did not compare with our own local show at the Coliseum or Expo Center for the smoothness of operation.

Naturally Poms were my prime interest as I had hoped to see some very choice dogs and had anticipated bringing a bitch home with me. I was defeated on both counts inasmuch as the Japanese are still buying everything available and at prices beyond belief.

During the Pom judging there were a number of Japanese at ringside taking pictures and you would hear them saying so often — champion . . . champion . . . champion. They know what they want and will pay any price. You cannot blame the breeders for getting it. We were not impressed with what was shown overall, a very few nice dogs, the rest just average. They trim their dogs all over the whole body rounding off the chest area, the pants area and all the leg feathers are cut off. This is to their liking and they feel that our way leaves the Poms skraggly. Each to his own I guess.

Their judging ring left a great deal to be desired too, just benches around a small area without even a rope around it. People would even roam out across the ring during judging. Their system of scoring is much different and there were lots more classes so it was quite a long session. So, I came away from the show rather disappointed and much more appreciative of our breed as it is represented here at home.

The trip itself was wonderful throughout. Every available minute spent in touring and sightseeing and trying to keep warm. It was very cold but every one was so very nice your heart was warmed whether your feet were warm or not. I could go on and on but I was asked for one page.

I was very sorry we did not get to New York in time for the Pom Specialty but just a few hours late. There was a large entry and it would have been a privilege to attend and compare with the English Poms.

BESS PICKENS

I too had a marvelous time at Crufts and sightseeing but do not think I care to go again. I found Pekes just as good and as poor as we have, but shown in greater numbers and overall I was disappointed at the way they were shown and the grooming was poorly done overall. I did find the Yorkies were the best I have ever seen as I happen to like the true terrier type and not the baby doll heads we have in the U.S.A. Over there Yorkies are shown on little boxes that the exhibitors carry with them into the ring!!!! I, too wonder why we sat in London for all those wasted hours before the plane left when we could have been in New York seeing all those specialties. Westminster I liked!!!! and will go again as often as I can.

JEAN SCHROLL

I want to say my trip to England was really enjoyable. It is a once in a lifetime thing. The Historical things to see are absolutely fantastic. Crufts Dog Show was the largest I've ever seen. There was not enough time to see all the dogs one would like to see, so inasmuch as Poms were my biggest interest, we spent most of our time there. There were 67 Poms entered and as I remember off the top of my head, there were no absentees. The judging took much longer than here in America. The dogs were lovely. Several very outstanding ones. The quality of English Poms is very much like our own. I believe as a whole though they are much smaller than ours. This, I feel is bad for the breed. It was certainly strange to see a Pom with every hair on it's body trimmed. It was hard to tell about the coat because of the allover trimming. The pants and bib were so short it was difficult to tell what the approximate length would be. They had very pretty but quite short muzzles.

I would love to go again.

Although the Pomeranian standard recognizes many colors, the average person has only seen two or three. Many of the colors have not even been seen by experienced Pom breeders; yet, there seems to be a current increase in the interest in the less usual Pom colors.

Last August I was surprisingly swept into the area of rare Pom colors when much to my surprise one of my orange bitches who had been bred to a black male whelped two females — one black and one blue. As a result of showing and winning with this puppy, I have been asked many questions about unusually colored Poms.

I realized that the interest was high, and I did not have the answers; so, I turned to breeders who have studied and sought unusual colors. I found that our pleasure in a variety of Pom colors is a rather recent occurrence. (My fourteen years in Poms often does not give me the scope I need.)

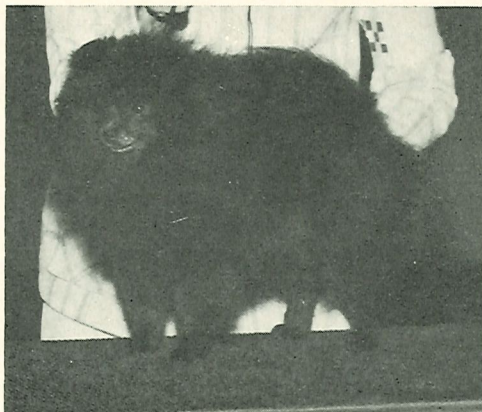

Dorothy Bonner's response gave me this information.

"Since my adventures in breeding Pomeranians began about 1940, almost every color has appeared. At least, it seems that way when I think back, sort of like when I remarked to Gladys Schoenberg one day, "Poms are so dear to me that I wish I owned all of them in the world." To which she replied, "Sometimes it seems like I do." . . . Pepper Pod gave me most of the unusual colors during the late 50's, as he seemed to have a special talent for turning the dam's orange into blues, creams, chocolates, wolf sables, and everything in between. At that time, most of these were questionable colors show-wise, so they were promptly culled on the pet market. Because he was extra terrific . . . a wolf sable, was retained and shown to championship . . . I did keep another wolf sable, a tiny boy . . . did not throw his color. From then until recently, orange has predominated in our kennel with an occasional cream. With our standard changed colorwise now, I wish that time could be reversed with some of those beautiful shades retrieved.

"Although breeding here has been for conformation only, temptation has recently presented itself in silver shades." In spite of comments ranging from "What an unusual, lovely color," to "What color would you call this?", to "no describable color". Dorothy has successfully shown several of these lovely "silvered" Poms.

Marge Gorman, after several years of seeking chocolate, remarked, "Color breeding for rare colors would be simple if one could take two outstanding specimens of the desired color and breed them together. In the case of blue or chocolate, if both parents were of the desired color so would be the offspring, although the shades of color would vary. Black bred to black does not always produce black. Since one would be lucky to find two outstanding specimens of a rare color to breed together, the serious colorbreeder must search for dogs that perhaps carry the desired genes. A dog with a chocolate dam who is black will produce chocolate if bred for the color, because he inherited one hidden recessive chocolate gene from his mother. Breeding two such individuals gives the litter a 25% chance of producing the desired color. If one parent is chocolate and the other is black but had a chocolate parent the litter should be 50% chocolate. Dogs that are chocolate or carry the gene often throw blue puppies although blue can be obtained from dogs that do not carry the chocolate genes. For years we have been color breeding for chocolate and have had few of the color show up while getting many more than our share of blues that we were not breeding for. Breeding rare colors is always a challenge because type and color must be considered. We have seen lovely recessive gene colors on deplorable type. The serious breeder will work for both and never sacrifice one for the other. There are also surprises in color-breeding. Last year our stock of black and sable produced black and tan."

A very interesting genetic study was presented by Dolly Trauner. "The brown factor, like the one for black-and-tan, is a genetic recessive. Each parent must contribute a gene for brown to the puppy in order for it to be brown-coated. As a recessive, brown can be carried hidden under other coat colors for many generations . . . To keep the brown color, one must breed either to another brown — or to a black which is known to carry the brown gene. Bred to another brown, one hopes that all the puppies will be brown (but this is not guaranteeable, as I'll explain in a minute). Bred to a black which is carrying the brown gene, 50% of the puppies can hopefully be browns.

"The brown factor may be more prevalent than most people suppose; every liver-nosed orange is carrying a double dose of the brown gene! The reason they do not have a brown coat is due to other genetic influences. Actually, a black or a brown coat color is dominant to the genes for red, orange, cream or sable coat color; but in the absence of a gene for the dominant coat color a brown-factored dog can only produce the brown pigment (or black pigment) in parts of its skin (nose, eye-rims, lips, anus). Bred to a brown coated dog, a brown-nosed orange would produce a preponderance of brown pups — unless! Unless the brown coated dog was also carrying the recessive coat color gene for orange, sable, etc., in which case the chance of producing brown coated pups is cut in half. The other half would be brown-nosed oranges . . .

FLASH!

Group #11 — Judge: Lorraine Heichel, May 13, 1978

"One thing I learned along the way is that there are breeds (and the Pom is one of them) in which there are two kinds of red, orange or cream coats. In each of these breeds, one kind is the most prevalent and the other kind is quite rare. But, on occasion (and generally quite without the owners realizing what is taking place), one kind will be bred to the other kind of red, orange or cream . . . and some of the puppies will be black. . . . what has happened is that a pair of dogs, each with a different pair of recessive genes that have caused them to be orange (or anything other than black or brown, have compensated one another's recessives with a dominant gene. Perhaps a 'formula' will make this more clear:

AA BB EE = black coated dog

AA bb EE = brown coated dog

aa BB EE = black-nosed, orange, sable, red, and cream coated dog

AA BB ee = black-nosed dark orange or red coated dog (but can also be lighter orange or cream due to other dilutions)

"All dogs have BB, bb, or Bb — but can only 'express' black or brown in their coats if they have an A-gene and an E-gene! If these last two (in the formula) were mated, the puppies would all be Aa BB Ee. And, since A, B, E, are the dominants, only one of each gene-pair is needed in order to reconstitute a black coated dog.

"For the B-gene, there are only two forms, or alleles: B or b. But for the A-gene and the E-gene, each has several alternate forms (alleles) which are all recessive to the A and E required for black or brown coat color. For A-alleles, there are: aw = permits sabling, ay — all the orange tones, down to pale cream, and at = black-and-tan. For E-alleles, there are ebr = brindle, in a long coated dog, this would appear to be sable — same as an aw dog, and e = reds and lighter shaded, from mahogany-red down to oranges and pale creams that appear to be the same color as the ay types. The only way to know, for sure, that a dog is of the uncommon e-type of orange would be if it produced black puppies when bred to another that normally did not produce any blacks . . .

"A few final thoughts: Brown coat color is 'unstable'; it is more prone to sunburn, and to the action of various genetic factors for dilution, than is black or any other color!"

Lennis Raines submitted some very interesting first-hand experience in color-breeding. "My interest began when I saw my first chocolate Pom. I liked the color . . . (but) . . . Every chocolate I saw seemed to be of the type of Pom produced 50 years ago . . . They were excellent in color but the heads and fronts needed a lot of work. The heads were narrow, muzzles long, large ears, no head hair and no leg hair. They were close in front and most were hackie in gait. I tried several different breedings to produce the color and improve the type. I tried breeding black to chocolate and found that black was very dominate and I rarely got a chocolate . . . The best sable male was bred to a black bitch whose background was, black, wolf-sable, blue, chocolate. The resulting litter was one orange male, one black male and one chocolate female. I kept the chocolate bitch and bred her to the chocolate male . . . The resulting litter was two chocolates and . . . the color was milk chocolate. I obtained a beautiful chocolate male . . . out of a black and a cream . . . I bred this male to the chocolate bitch I kept out of the sable and black breeding. The resulting litter was two milk chocolates and one beaver . . . Also the darker the chocolate the worse the type. The lighter shades always have better heads, smaller ears, more head and leg hair. Also chocolates of any shade will fade to a copper color if left out in the sun. Chocolates as a rule are born chocolate with chocolate noses, eye rims, lips and foot pads . . . Out of my chocolate to chocolate breedings I have produced 90% chocolate. Some were born chocolate and at age four to six weeks developed tan markings exactly like black-and-tans but are chocolate-and-tan.

"I find in producing black-and-tan it can be obtained by sable to sable breeding as well as black-and-tan to sable. I have never produced a black-and-tan from chocolate to sable. I believe that sables or heavy sables carry a black-and-tan gene, or at least in my line. At birth some of my sables are black-and-tan until age three weeks then orange or red hairs start appearing behind each ear and on chest. I have also gotten black-and-tan out of black to sable breedings but the tan markings are never as clear as the sable to sable or black-and-tan to sable breedings. I have also bred black-and-tan to black-and-tan and gotten all black-and-tan puppies."

Several years ago Irene Wultz received a tearful call from Alice Davis, a breeding associate, saying "Oh, you are going to be mad as one pup has a lot of white." When Irene saw the baby she realized that was a parti-color. Delighted with the beautiful color on a nice Pom, Irene began plans to show and breed some part-color Poms. The first parti-color, a bitch, finished her championship in the spring of 1977. This parti-color's mother is orange and her father was cream.

Irene eagerly told me of her efforts and plans. "Well, we repeated the breeding and we got a male, but he is not show quality and is big and poorly marked . . . I have a full litter sister (to the champion) but she is orange . . . I own (the champion's) grandmother (a light orange) and grandfather (a sable). Bred the grandmother to (sire's cream son) and she just had one and it was a parti, but too small to survive . . . So I am still experimenting and hope to get another . . . My only regret is I wish I was younger. I am going on 83 . . ."

I believe we can all echo Irene's sentiment of not having enough time no matter what our ages. Dog breeding is a continual striving for an impossible perfection. No matter what plateau one reaches there is such an enticing one just a little further away . . . and therein lies the pleasure and the frustration.

When I was the owner of only one or two dogs, I was always teaching them tricks and showing them off to visitors. Now I have more, I still show them off to visitors, but now I have more dogs I find just keeping them trained, groomed, fed, and pooper-scooped takes my time. However, I recently bought a male that has the most endearing tricks and I express my amazement to his previous owner, and his breeder. How does one teach a male to stop in the midst of his activities of preparing a female for breeding, to jump fast and give the assistant a juicy kiss? Or to stop occasionally during his actual mating efforts, to bark cutely a few times at same assistant? I love him even though I do usually have my mouth open when he gets me.

I haven't been able to learn anything from anyone about their methods of run cleaning procedures so I carried on this spring with my usual remedy for the soil — spreading hydrated lime over all exposed surfaces, and keeping all grass and weed growth clipped. Inside, the cages and runs got an extra special scrubbing with a creolin solution, and a bit of fresh paint. This with the judicial use of flea powder seems to keep my parasites under some control.

I am finally going on a long hoped for vacation to England. With a side trip to Scotland to attend a championship show in Edinburgh, it sounds like a really doggy holiday. We have already made arrangements for visits to many Pomeranian kennels, (as well as Finnish

Batavia, N. Y.

For Several years now, Poms have been a very big part of my life. I bought a beautiful male as a pet, as that was all I could afford. All my life I've loved dogs and have tried to settle on one breed that I would enjoy raising and showing. I bought every book on Poms and have subscribed to the Pomeranian Review, as I want to learn everything I can about this terrific breed. My male isn't one of the best, as I didn't buy him from a Kennel but I can show him. I've had him to several Match shows and he's done very well. He has great Spirit. Even though I know he'll never be a Champion, I'm having a lot of fun just being in the ring.

Last year in June I decided to get a loan to buy a good Pom from a Kennel. I found a Kennel from your Review, that was close to me. I visited them and picked out a beautiful little bitch puppy, three months old. She gave me a 48 hour guarantee on the puppy, so the very next day, I visited my Veterinarian. I have always thought very highly of my Veterinarian, and know he always has given them the best of care in the past. The Veterinarian gave my puppy a clean bill of health. About one week later, I noticed her eyes running, so I had her checked again. She was given medication, but as each day went by, she became worse. I was visiting my Veterinarian at least every other day or calling. Finally I told them to keep her and run tests or do anything for her that would help. She was there four days and when I got her back she had lost almost all her weight. She was throwing up and was coughing, sneezing, runny eyes, and terribly congested and wouldn't eat. The Veterinarian thought it was upper respiratory infection. He gave her fluids and medication and told me to bring her back in about two days. She never made the next visit, as the next morning when I awoke, she was in convulsions. I knew then she was dying and didn't have a chance. I rushed her to the Veterinarian immediately, where he advised me to have her put to sleep. He said she was convulsing and was to weak to ever recover. If I had any doubts that she would have recovered, I couldn't have had her put to sleep, but she looked so helpless and beyond help, when she started crying, I thought I had done all I could and she deserved to go without any more pain.

I can't explain how I felt. I had only had her for one month and she was everything I had worked for all these years, and I had grown very attached to her.

I had an autopsy done and it was found that her intestines were deformed at birth and as she grew older, it became impossible for her to digest her food. From throwing up, she had become congested and nothing could have been done for her.

I talked to the breeder, in hopes she would be kind enough to replace my loss, with another puppy, as I didn't want the money. The breeders has received a letter from my Veterinarian, explaining all the treatment my puppy had received and she told me she would try to help, but she didn't agree with my Veterinarian on putting her to sleep.

I often wonder what she would have done if she had been in my place.

This happened in June of 1977 and so far the breeder hasn't contacted me in any way. She had three beautiful litters at the time of my puppy's death and has had several others, as I have seen her advertisements in the Pomeranian Review.

I always thought good breeders stood behind their stock and as she knows how very much I wanted to get into Poms, and how very much this puppy meant to me. Why is she ignoring me?

I wanted a bitch to breed and show but not of great quality, just something to get me started, so I would have a chance. I paid $250.00 for this puppy.

I am asking your help as to what I should do. Should I just forget the whole incident, as she said she would contact me, and as I don't want to be a pest, knowing she is busy? Should I just start all over again and go to a different Kennel. I can't afford to just go out and buy another puppy, as I would have to make another loan. I guess I should have stuck to buying from personal owners. I would really appreciate any help you could give me.

MRS. VIOLA MONSEN

Cameron, Mo.

Applause, Applause for Margaret McKee's letter in Yips & Yaps in the April 1978 issue on poor legs. I've got to let off some steam.

I answered an ad in Pomeranian Review, in January 1978 issue, for a one year old male, lead broke but never trained or been in a show. I agreed to pay $500.00 for the dog.

When I received the dog his legs were very bad and he limped. I took him to the veterinarian. The Doctor wrote a letter, saying that both knees were bad, also he could x-ray him to prove hip also was going out. He recommended not to use the dog as a stud.

I sent the letter to the seller and asked for the money back. I shipped the dog back. Here comes the big steam let off. Went to three Iowa shows. To my surprise there was the dog in the Show. First day the judge told the handler the dog was limping. Second day the judge put the dog reserve. The third show the judge put him second in open class.

In order to better our breed, the judges will have to recognize the minor and major faults and disqualify the dogs before they become Champions.

Answer to Lynn Allen's letter in Yips & Yaps in January 1978. Our first Pom was a male pet back 18½ years ago. He was our baby and only love for 13½ years. Our next Pom was a show quality bitch at 10 weeks old and very good bloodline, as I wanted to raise and show poms.

I joined Pom Clubs to learn. I read books and got to know some wonderful Pom people. I wrote letters to a lot of breeders, some answered back, nothing now, maybe later. I was unknown and a novice. Four years later I am still looking for that good Pom. I won't give up just because of the bad deal stated above. I know in the Pom World that good will outnumber the bad. Come on all good Pom breeders, lets better our breed, get your head out of the sand and lets recognize our faults and do something about it, Huh?! Go back and read the article on Page 46, in April 1978 issue.

POSTSCRIPT TO A KENNEL VISIT

Erin Hundley

Lynnwood, Wash.

A recent business trip took me to Maine for two weeks. I could not be so close to New Hampshire without driving over to visit Jabil Kennel, and Jessie and Barbara Young. The weather was unusually cold and windy, even though the sun was shining but inside all was warmth and welcome—from Poms and people alike. I wish I could remember the names of all the lovely Poms I met that day who greeted me so enthusiastically. We shared a brief three hour visit before I had to leave. I wish it could have been longer.

I was also able to spend the last night with our good friends Tom and Jessie Stephens in Halifax, Mass., before taking off from Boston, Mass. for home. The Stephens are settled happily with all their Poms in a lovely home next to a small park and a lake. Tom is busy converting a sun porch into a kennel and also building fences and dog runs. Jessie, when not grooming and training her Poms, works hard raising a tiny wild rabbit which she found abandoned in her garden. She dipped sugar cookies in cream and he (the rabbit) munched them right out of her hand. He was still so small she could hold him in one hand. He was probably about the size of a four day old Pom. She also fed me well.

Thanks to the Youngs and the Stephens for entertaining me so well when I was far from home.

GAYLE GRIFFIN

Amity, Oregon

I have been away from the Show Ring for the last three years, but recently have started showing a girl which is doing very well. Seeing new Poms and new breeders, I have also seen a few cases of (The proper rear trim) as written in the Pomeranian Standard. If this is what the breeders want fine, but why only a couple Poms trimmed correctly!!

In no way would I trim a show Pom so the anus was sticking out like a sore thumb. If the breeders don't want this trim, then why aren't they changing the Standard? I'm waiting for the day the rings will be full of huge coated Poms, with their anuses staring us in the face.

Let's hear the opinion of some of the other breeders, and lets get the trim at the base of the tail and leave the anus covered.

(Editor's Note: We feel sure our Correspondent knows that none of our former breed standards mentioned ANY rear-end trimming at all. When the standard was revised in 1971, members felt that trimming of straggling hairs, for neatness and sanitary reasons, should be permitted around the anus. This was never intended to result in the very unattractive overtrimming to which you so strenuously object! Trimming "at the base of the tail" was purposely NOT PERMITTED, because of the equally unattractive amount of overtrimming then quite usual in that area — many tails were shaved all the way around the base like a Poodle's sometimes the thinning shears used heavily on the Pom's back UNDER the tail to make it lie flat. In the East, at least, overtrimming is still very much in evidence, with skirts (breechings) blatantly chopped off and coats sheared away from the tail base to (hopefully) make the Pom look shorter. We would like to think that all exhibitors tried to be careful in their trimming efforts, to conform with the standard: Trimming FOR NEATNESS ONLY and not to alter or conceal the Poms conformation. Of course, the standard can be changed — but only by two-thirds majority vote of American Pomeranian Club members.)

THE POMERANIAN STUD DOG

by Pauline B. Hughes

Reprinted from July, 1971, Issue

The Pomeranian Stud dog should have a productive life of from ten months to twelve years provided he is strong, healthy, well cared for and no accidents occur.

Conditioning of the stud begins before the puppy is born and should involve a dam of a good bloodline, show type with very few faults and in the ideal four to five pounds category. She should also be in the pink of condition and have a normal season. She should be bred to a champion from a top producing line of show dogs. The sire should be strong in any weak points found in the dam. (No dogs are without faults). I prefer the sire to be under four pounds.

The bitch should be fed a rich well balanced diet with the extra pre-natal vitamins required, and whelp easily.

Our future stud from this litter should be allowed to grow with other puppies — rough-house, romp, and play. His expressions of sex impulses should never be restricted. Many males have refused to service bitches because they were scolded as puppies for expressing this natural impulse. The puppy in addition must learn to associate with people and be accustomed to handling, cuddling, and playing. Any growling or biting must be stopped at the first sign. (It could be cute to have a pup bite, growl and act fierce but as an adult Pom it is something else.) Dogs persist in actions that were approved when they were puppies. Leach breaking and show training should be started even as young as six weeks and should be continued throughout his early months.

The average Pomeranian male will be ready for service sometime after nine months. A few will show little interest until they are sixteen months. Any stud that matures later than that age is probably best sold as a pet because it is to the best interest of a breed to have virility as a part of the genetic makeup.

The first service of the young male should be carefully planned. Ideally the bitch should be quiet and experienced and the mating done in familiar surroundings. If the male knows the female it is even better. This bitch should be held and a firm footing provided for the dog. An old rug can be folded for him at the height needed. If the first try is satisfactory then it may be repeated after 36 hours. (DO NOT use the male more than these two times if you want him to have a long productive life). It is recommended that he not be used for several weeks afterwards and only rarely until he is over a year old. Inasmuch as a popular stud will be used on bitches of many sizes it is necessary for him to accept help. If you are a novice, then get tips from some breeder of wide experience.

Occasionally a male will refuse to try to breed a female if anyone is looking. The only resource in this case is to have a very cooperative female and then once they are tied, sneak up and hold the bitch petting and reassuring the male during the copulation. It is too dangerous to leave the dogs to their own devices in our breed. The bitch can easily injure the male if she is exuberant he smaller. Then too, without a visible tie how can one even tell that sperm was deposited in the vaginal passage? Generally after a couple of breedings the male will be willing to breed any female, and with assistance.

The stud should be used wisely and not too often. Sperm is said to remain motile in the female for 36 to 48 hours so it is a waste of the male to repeat the breeding before the third day. Two services are enough — (one is often all that is needed). More brings on the danger of a litter with both premature and over-due puppies and all of the problems that are present in that situation.

The male should be kept quiet after a service for at least an hour. Check by all means to be sure that no hair is in the shaft. The irritation could easily cause a serious infection.

Fairness to outside bitches and their owners should be of primary concern to the owner of a stud. The sperm count of an overworked male will drop to the point where there is little chance of a pregnancy taking place. The owner of the bitch has the right to know how often the male has been used in the week preceding the prospective service.

If I were shipping and paying a price for the service of a top dog, I would not want him used at all in that week or at the most only once. If two females seem to be due for service at the same time, often arrangements can be made to give only a single service to each, and the experienced breeder can often tell which one to breed a day early and which a day late. It takes 36 to 48 hours for the sperm count to build up after a service, longer if the animal is weak sick or run-down.

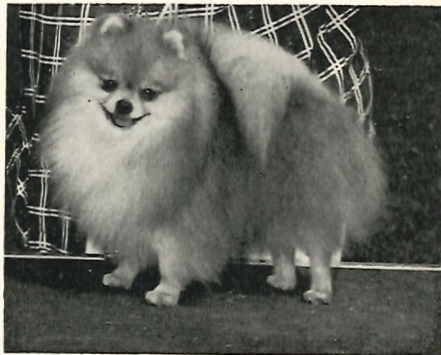

Exercise, nutrition wisely balanced, love and good care are essential to keep the stud in the pink of condition, so that he can pass on his quality to many future Pomeranians.

INBREEDING

Inbreeding is essential to establish a prepotent type. It is fraught with problems — lethal genes, sterility, fewer puppies in a litter, and decrease in the size of the puppies. It is not to be recommended for the beginner. He is apt to give up in discouragement. Our breed with such tiny litters does not allow us the system used generally in inbreeding — that of saving the few good ones in the litter and culling the rest — What rest? Two puppies and are they the good ones or the culls?

Ch. Adonis (top producer) was the result of breeding two Poms (both from small parents) very much alike, each strong tho where the other was weak.

Complete outcross! Adonis has Twelve Champion kids finished so far. Nine were complete outcrosses. One was father-daughter, two remotely related. It needs to be added that in every case the dam of those champions was an excellent bitch from a very good bloodline.
