Thank you Ray and Anna LaFortune for taking her to Arizona and getting her first major for us at Kachina KC under judge Mildred Bryant.

She then came back to California to be owner handled to 4 straight wins: Malibu KC under Mr. Edward Loebe, WB, BOS for 2 pts.; Rio Hondo under Mr. Fred Young, WB, BOS for 2 pts.; Cabrillo under Mr. Leslie Rogers, WB, BOW for 1 pt.; Del Sur under Mr. James Moran, WB, BOW for 1 pt.

We send our love to Edna Girardot.

We are thrilled with our new addition of gorgeous Scotia Poms. Watch for —

Ch. Scotia Denis' Inspiration

He finished at 8 months with two 5 pt. and two 4 pt. majors.

Soon to be specialed.

Cover Story

"It's hard to be humble when you own a Pomeranian!" We're all felt that way about our special, fluffy fellows, but when Ch. Wee Heart's Bit O' Gold Dust was born, his owner/breeder Cassandra Ready knew something exceptional was in store.

Dustee sensed his destiny, and with great flare he finished his championship before reaching the age of nine months, a mighty feat indeed! He has continued to perform beautifully, receiving several BOB's to date.

The result of a father-daughter breeding, line-bred heavily on Sungold's Gay Cavalier, Dustee is producing nicely with our related bitches as well as being out-crossed with our Great Elms line.

While relaxing at home for the summer, Dustee is keeping busy with his duties in the harem, and is producing a beautiful new coat. Watch for him to arrive on the scene again in the fall as a Special.

Our thanks and gratitude go to the many people who played a role in Dustee's being here, and those who fostered his show career, helping him finish at such an early age. He flourished under the care and attention when he was in your possession.

Special accolades also to the judges who saw his potential and admired his form. He obviously knew you liked him and responded. That's Dustee!

P.S. Special thanks to Molly Gray for hours spent taking photos of Dustee for the cover.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Sue Goddard
19719 Rice Lake Ln.
Houston, TX 77084
(713) 492-0849

Several letters addressed to the Board in recent months prompt this message. It may be time for us to review the reasons we have a club. Basically our purposes, as stated in the Constitution, are to promote this our chosen breed by continually trying to upgrade the quality seen in Pomeranians, by holding shows which help us to evaluate the dogs we are producing, and to encourage area clubs. We elect Officers and Board Members to help guide the club, to coordinate our shows, to conduct our business and to hopefully represent the membership. We should not be a policing body and it is not our job to arbitrate disputes. Most of these matters must be settled by the individuals involved, or can clearly be AKC affairs regarding registrations. Additionally we have had quite a bit of correspondence regarding the color issue, most specifically the particular Pom. From the earliest descriptions in our standard, we have listed and described the parti as an accepted color. Whether you choose to cultivate the rarer colors or not is an individual decision. Disgruntled sales will surely occur from time to time, but this is exactly why you should buy from someone you know and trust, as well as someone who understands your particular wants, if you possibly can. Even good friends discussing a dog right in front of them may perceive the dog differently, and what might be super important to one, may be of lesser importance to the other. In the final analysis you must trust in the person with whom you are dealing. We have all signed a Code of Ethics (if we are APC members) which states that a buyer has 48 hours to notify the breeder if a dog is unsuitable in some way and will be returned. It is, of course, so much better to go and see the dog if you can, knowing that the perfect Pomeranian has yet to be produced. Many breeders insist on this in preference to shipping on approval. In several cases we have had complaints directed to the Board regarding dogs that have been purchased months and even years before. No one who is human (and hopefully that includes us all) can predict exactly how a puppy or even a pointed adult will turn out, and no one is expected to give lifetime guarantees. Any time you are dealing with a living thing, it is subject to mishap and that is part of the gamble you must be willing to take.

As this is the stud issue I would like to interject a purely person (not Board) opinion. I feel very strongly that we have a club, and we are members of this club, to help each other. Probably no breed is more difficult to produce, and if we can help each other, we are helping to fulfill the obligation we have taken to promote Pomeranians — not just our Pomeranians, but the breed as a whole. I am opposed to advertising a stud dog as "not a public stud" unless it is an aging dog whose stud services must be restricted. I also have a rather negative feeling about the "to approve bitches only" stricture. Presumably anyone willing to pay the fee and other expenses (shipping, vet care, etc.) with a healthy registered bitch, is trying to do the best breeding possible; to upgrade or perpetuate their quality. You may be able to recommend one of your studs over another to compliment that bitch's pedigree, or in some cases to even recommend another line because you honestly feel that it would be a better breeding for that dog, but to deny breeding entirely is another matter. Yes, I know that often the stud takes the brunt for any mishap or poor result, but he also takes most of the credit when it is successful. Personally I believe that in most cases the bitch has more to do with the result than the dog. My daughter raised Quarter Horses, and I know they had a saying that "a horse is only as good as his mother." I wouldn't go that far regarding Poms, but I do think she is very important. I don't feel that we can justify failing to help our fellow breeders to improve their stock and be honestly subscribing to the stated purpose of our Constitution. Now I'll get down off my soap box. I won't have too many more opportunities anyway.

Hope to see a bunch of you in Washington.

SUN FOX

Sun Fox Life's A Party

(Ch. Edney's Moe-Best Special Order x Sun Fox Lennis The Right Stuff)

"Lil Chance" will be shown this summer on the New England circuit. We have high hopes for this stunning, richly sabled boy. He has been bred to our foundation brood, Riki Teqi Tar of Lennis and to our lovely producer, Kennors Lady Trina. We look forward to two exciting litters. Inquiries are welcome.

We thank Terri Moebuis for the opportunity to acquire Sun Fox Moe Best Sinsation, a half sister to Lil Chance. She will be an asset to our breeding program. Also, congratulations on your two litters from your Sun Fox girls.

Best of luck to Debra Mohan and Sun Fox Steely Danielle. We hope she produces many nice pups for you.

Best of luck at the shows.

Congratulations to all our winners and a big "thanks" to both our judges and our many exhibitors for their contributions in making this another very successful show.

Thanks also to our club members and committees for all their hard work: Show Chairman, Billy McDonald, Trophy Chairman, Margaret Mobley; Advertising Chairman, John Hendricks; Entertainment and Hospitality, Peggy Bush and Peggy Hendricks; Ring Steward, Susan Ferguson.

Our After Show Dinner was held at the Holiday Inn-Midtown just a few blocks from the show site. The room was filled with many guests, who served themselves from a Texas-sized Bar-B-Que Buffet. The food was excellent and everyone had a great time.

Officers for April 1986 through March 1987 are: President — Peggy Bush; Vice President — Billy McDonald; Treasurer — Carol Sherry; Recording Secretary — Marti Bradford; Corresponding Secretary — Peggy Hendricks, 418 W. Grenoble, Grand Prairie, TX 75051; Board of Directors — Margaret Mobley, Rowdy Steinmetz, Officers of the Club.

The Dallas-Fort Worth Pomeranian Club will host a Fall Specialty, Thursday September 18, 1986 at the Dallas Convention Center, West Hall in Dallas, TX. Mrs. Michelle Billings will be our judge, with the Sweepstakes being judged by Peggy Bush. This show will be held in conjunction with three all-breed shows on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

See you all in September.

BAY COLONY POMERANIAN CLUB
by Claire Flesner

The Bay Colony Pom Club has had a busy spring. In March we held our Spring match in Oxford, MA with 17 Breed and 7 Obedience entries — not a bad entry for a snowy day.

Breed judge Jack Wells picked Carol Aubut's Tanglewood Muffit for Best Puppy and Carol's Sun Fox Private Stock for Best Adult and Best in Match.

In Obedience, judge Al Misuraca had 3 qualifying Poms. Two were in sub-Novice. Fran Richardson's Honeybear's Megan was first with a score of 156. My Silver Meadow's Mr. Randy was 2nd with a 139. In Novice A with the High Score for the match, as 12 year old Brandy Richardson and her Smokey Joe.

On May 10 we held our Annual Specialty Show in West Springfield, MA in conjunction with the Springfield Kennel Club. This year the show was in memory of Mary Casey, who died 10 years ago. The entry of 30 Poms was the highest entry we've had in well over 10 years. The judge was Mrs. Jacquelyn Klein. Her choice for Winners Dog was Tommi Hooban's Tomho Apricot Strut. Reserve Winners Dog went to Claudia and Ed Braczyk's Sun Fox Life's A Party. Winners Bitch was Tommi Hooban's Tomho TimTu, Reserve went to Barbara Paine's Millbrook's Sue Ainna.

Mrs. Klein's choice for Best of Breed was Jessie and Barbara Young's Ch. Daisy's Little Bit of Jabil. Best of Winners and Best of Opposite Sex went to Tommi Hooban's Tomho TimTu.

There were two Poms in obedience at the specialty show. In Novice B, Marie Smith's Surprise Echo of Manchester had a score of 193 which gave Echo his 3rd leg and his C.D. In Novice A, Brandy Richardson's Millbrook Honeybear had a score of 190++ for a 2nd placement in Novice A and a 4th insurance leg for his CD

After the judging, everyone enjoyed our famous annual buffet. So many goodies! We all helped Ina Kniffen celebrate her 82nd birthday. Her cake was decorated with a Pom. To make Ina's day more memorable, she won the raffle of a music box with 3 Poms on a see-saw that was made and donated by Amber and Frank Burns.

As this was also our Annual Meeting, the election of officers was held with the following results: President — Gladys ykstra; Vice-President — Jessie Young; Secretary — Alberta Mooney; Treasurer — Edward Mooney; Board of Directors — Amy McKay, Barbara Young, Sally Misuraca, Tommi Hooban, Garrett O'Dell and Claire Jesner. Annual award plaques were presented to those members who finished their dogs' championships and obtained obedience titles. do not have the list of winners, but will try to report them in the next issue.

On June 21, we'll have our annual picnic at the Mooney's summer camp on Baptist pond in South Chelmsford, MA. This is always a fun day. It is an ideal place to hold a Pom picnic. It is beautiful there with oodles of room (and trees) for our furry friends as the grounds are in a pine grove. Fishing is available. Howard Mooney spends most of the afternoon taking everyone, Poms and people, out for boat rides in the lake.

Our Fall match (our matches are always AKC sanctioned B-OB matches) is scheduled for September 13 at the beautiful home of Amy and Charles McKay in Foxboro, MA with Breed Judge Don Gills and obedience judge Frank Farinacci.

Any Pom people who happen to be in our area at the time of one of our get-togethers are always most welcome to come and join us.

Have you hugged your Pom today?

COLUMBIA POMERANIAN CLUB by Emily Untalan

July is fast approaching and this issue will be out before our Specialty, however not in time for our entry deadline. I should have mentioned several items in the previous issue. All persons needing transportation for themselves, dogs and paraphernalia, please feel free to telephone Jean Schroll (503) 655-4975, Laura Untalan (503) 284-2446 or Emily (503) 684-1730. We will be more than happy to meet you at the airport and transport you the ten minutes it takes to get you to your motel. The motel is new, quite large and approximately 15 minutes from the show area. Banquet reservations can be made by calling Laura. There will be large RV's on the show grounds (grouped together) for your convenience. This area will not only provide a welcome meeting area but also protect us from the rain or heat. Your evenings will be filled with various activities so don't plan on getting any rest until you return home!

The premium list just arrived and how lovely it looks. The Club has a unique symbol. Being a new member I take pride in admitting they do everything quite well. Also, a sincere thanks to Laura for a job well done on our back cover ad on the April Pom Review.

The last two months have been quiet here in Portland. There have been many shows going on, however, they are some distance from here and my schedule has not permitted participation. Therefore I don't have much news. With June fast approaching, my business will lessen so hopefully Laura and I can become more involved once again.

How about the Premium List for Vancouver B.C.? Quite impressive. How about the cost to park an RV without hook ups? Quite ridiculous! It's a shame that with a Worlds Fair there has to be such inflated prices. Forty dollars a day is a high price to pay for a piece of ground 12' x 30' and with the show schedule unknown, how much of the Fair could one hope to glimpse — even in six days!

Good luck to everyone in our Specialty. We look forward to this occasion and hope you will enjoy our beautiful state while you're here. There is much to do and see, so feel free to impose on us. We'll love it.

POMERANIAN CLUB OF GREATER HOUSTON by Connie Tellez

Several of our club members are getting all excited about attending the Summer Specialty Show in Portland, OR this July. We are especially looking forward to this wonderful trip as we have never been to that part of our beautiful country. It will be our vacation and I'm sure we will be very happy about resting and meeting many Pom lovers and exhibitors in that area. I'm especially looking forward to long visits with those two very nice and special ladies, Jean Schroll and Shirley Bradley.

Congratulations to all the winners in New York! Sorry we couldn't come, but we heard a great time was had by all and the Poms were beautiful as always. Don't know if our club will ever be the same without two very dedicated people, Tim and Sue Goddard. They are moving to Louisiana and everyone in Houston is sad and will miss them terribly. Tim and Sue, don't forget us and come visit, you hear!

Congratulations, Sue, on finishing "Magic."

It seems some Hollywood director approached Ron and Carolyn Crockett and asked if they could use their home for making a movie. Of course they said yes. Their home really is beautiful and unique and they had all kinds of people and cameras everywhere. We all wanted to move in with them and see if we could be "discovered." Anyway, Carolyn said they had a ball but are glad all the people are gone and once again there is peace and quiet.

Jean, keep up the good work on the Summer Specialty and order good weather for all those days. See you soon.

A little reminder — don't forget our Houston Pom Club Specialty Show August 7, 1986. We're looking forward to seeing all of you again and we promise double good time from last year. We Texans celebrate BIG. Y'all come!

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA POMERANIAN CLUB

by Ruth A. Bugbee

Although you haven't heard from us in a while, NCPC is alive and well. As clubs are sometimes prone to do, we hit a big slump after our 25th Anniversary Specialty in February 1985. But the "never say die" group, spearheaded by the Pressers, Anne Hayden, Doris Weaver, Sandy and Paul Logan and other loyals, took some aggressive action and recruited eight new and eager members.

We welcome them and take pride in introducing them to all of you in the Pom world: Janet Porter from Clovis, Nancy Parker of Bethel Island, Sue Chewing and Cheri Fleming, both from Tracy, Pam and Larry Galat, Clovis and Julia and Richard Harding from Pittsburg.

Chuck Reynolds, a charter member and past president, joined us in January and enjoyed meeting some of our newest members. It's always a pleasure when Chuck shares his company and knowledge with us. Ruth Dotson (Sun-Dot) is another old timer who has volunteered to become our award statistician this year. That's volunteering with a capital V and sets an example for all of us to follow. And it's happening!

New members are volunteering to work with older members on committees to put on our next independent specialty. Pending AKC approval, it is planned for Thursday evening, November 20, 1986 at the Fairgrounds in Turlock, CA and leads into the 3 day Turkey Circuit. Mark your calendars now and help us build four days of majors. Dudley Roach is already hard at work on trophies which promise to be special. Trust us! You'll really want to bring the dogs to vie for these lovely prizes.

Although we have been hard at the work of the NCPC, we do "play" at our favorite recreation — the shows. Lillian Muller has "played" with her Ch. Muller's Encore, who was the #2 special as of February 1986. He's continued his winning ways into March, taking BOB three days in a row on the Raisin Circuit. He will probably have done more by the time you read this. On the same circuit, Paul and Sandy Logan's Moonshadow's Eye of the Tiger took WD/BOW for 5 points at Sequoia KC. New member, Janet Porter has done her handling and grooming homework very diligently, resulting in two 5 pointers (at Sunmaid KC in March and Sacramento KC in April) on her orange youngster, Moonshadow's G Wiz Wee-Bad. Wiz now has 15 points. Another newcomer is Sue Chewing who has handled her red sable bitch, Apollette My Joy Kneesa to a total of 5 points with a 3 point major. The third new one to make a mark is Cheri Fleming with Apollette Charley Ann at 8 points including WB/BOW for 5 points at Sacramento K.C.

It's been great for all of us to share their enthusiasm and excitement. It's the next best thing to winning yourself when one of your own members brings home the bacon.

Ruth Dotson has returned to showing with a bang. Her bitch Sun-Dot's 'Sho Stuff I is got in stride as WB for 2 points at Wine Country KC on April 18 and followed through the next day (Chief Solano KC) as WB/BOW/BOS for 4 points. Lillian's Ch. Sungold's Gay Caballero took BOB at Sir Francis Drake on April 20, ably handled by Anna LaFortune, whose own Sungold's Dyn O Moe Rider received 4 points as WD/BOW. Even though Anna isn't a member, she's always a welcome face when she comes north. She was a guest at a recent meeting and offered some very useful suggestions to us. Thanks, Anna. Come up more often.

Every now and then there are members who get "on a roll." Marlin and Marlene Presser have been doing exceptionally well this season. To list their wins could be a whole column in itself. Some of their achievements include their cute 16 month old red bitch Apolloette Miss Classy Roxy, who learned her leash work one week and then turned it on to start and finish in the next week with 4 majors, such as WB/BOW/BOS. She's been BOS twice as a special. Apolloette Bimbo of Starlight, a young red sable male finished a day later with a 3 point major. Ch. Apolloette Ever Ready Rocky, co-owned by Marlene with Jerry Moon and Gary Ferrgus, is making headlines with breeds and group placements up in the Northwest.

And then there is "old Zack," Ch. Apolloette Foolish Pleasure, who celebrated his 5th birthday in April with back to back breeds and a Group 3 at the Salinas and Santa Cruz shows. Five BOB and 2 Group placements since March and to think — Pressers had talked of retiring him last Fall! This dark sabled red is so sound and typey and sure a showman. He's really fun to watch. Congratulations, Pressers.

Yes, NCPC is alive and well and looking forward to seeing you at our Specialty.

One final note: NCPC is proud of Marlene's election to the APC Board. She's a hard worker who will serve the Pom world well.

PUGET SOUND POMERANIAN CLUB

by Jessie Stephens

We have done it! Our first "A" match is planned for May 17.

The last year has been a busy one, and under the guidance of founder/member Phyllis Andrews, we have been able to show AKC we are capable of having a point show in the future. Lots of research and an excellent resume was drawn up. Getting down to business in the right way is the only way to get things accomplished. I am sure that all who knew the club in its beginning will be happy to know that we are on our way. Our own specialty in Washington State will become a reality. Thanks, Phyllis, for all the sorting out you did. I lost track, but she stepped in and put everything where it should be — files, resumes, etc. Getting after us really got results. Thanks to Tom Stephens who worked so hard on the last match getting the right format on Premium lists and catalogs; and to Irene Harbin who is working along with Pete Castaneda and Phyllis on this one. To our President Dana Plonkey, what could be a better birthday gift than an "A" match on the 17th? Happy birthday, Dana. Everyone's input has been appreciated, no matter how little, it has gotten us there.

I hear Randy Gemmel and Dana Plonkey's bitch Valcopy Wakhan High Style is just looking for a major now. Congratulations to Virginia and Bernard Niehouse on winning the bitch points both days at Whitbey Island and Monroe. This homebred girl is named So Hi's Special Firefly. Irene and Sylvia Harbin's Am. Can. Ch. Harbin's Time To Pop The Cork did three in a row in Canada by winning the group all three days. Our club members are doing well and we are proud of them and their wins. Congratulations to you all.

We all hope to have seen everyone at the Summer Specialty (which will be old news by the time this gets out) but we are looking forward to this event, combined with the Columbia Specialty. Keep right in there and we'll see you at the shows.

POMERANIAN CLUB OF MICHIGAN

by Dorathy Barnes

The new officers for 1986 are President Rollie Conley, Vice President Dorathy Barnes, Secretary Janet Griffith, Treasurer Evelyn Conley.

Our Specialty will be held Sunday, May 25, 1986 at the Kalamazoo Fairgrounds in Kalamazoo, MI. The judge is Jane Kay from California and the Sweepstakes judge is John Allen from Michigan. There will be a free hospitality snack provided. Please introduce yourself and join us. Everyone is welcome.

Several of our APC members attended the Detroit Kennel Club show, which was held this year in memory of the well known professional photographer, Martin Booth.

Winners Dog went to Linrose Spark of Hope, owned by Linda Blasko. Winners Bitch went to Hilane's Sonja of Mai T Toi, who later went on to Best of Breed under judge Mr. Richard Guevara. She is owned by Jerome Cushman and Angela Nesbit.

The dog show game may be easier if you remember this simple motto:

Good, Better, Best, never let it rest,

Till the Good is Better, and the Better is Best.

Good luck to you all at the future shows.

We're equally proud of our LLL Trapper's Gold Daiseymae, handled and co-owned by our friend Donna Megenhardt. To date Daiseymae needs only a few single points to finish. We want to thank their breeder, Janice Luginsland, for allowing us this lovely purchase.

"History in the Making," "History Being Made." Two very familiar phrases to us all. We don't know now who will win the National Summer Specialty, or how much fun will be had by all who participate, but by the time you read this it will be history. So I congratulate the winners, thank the workers and praise the exhibitors in advance. Those of us who plan and work to make it memorable, a really special experience, say thank you for coming.

More history in the making. A most exciting and special event in Seattle will occur Saturday, May 17 at the Lake City Community Center. The Puget Sound Pomeranian Club has been approved by AKC to hold a Sanction A-OA Match. Anyone who has ever worked to organize a new dog club knows what this means — years and years of hard work by truly dedicated people. The Puget Sound Pomeranian Club is full of such people. I remember them all and thank them, because through their efforts the Northwest will have its second Specialty club. The Columbia Pomeranian Club, with its hard working members, has provided the Northwest with two specialties a year, and now you will have another stage on which to present your Poms.

I want to thank some special people in the Puget Sound Pomeranian Club. First, the charter members, the ones who got the idea and put it all together, especially the five who are still on the active list. The five are really more because AKC counts only households, not individuals. I'm having trouble deciding who to write about first because none is more important than another, so I'll do it alphabetically. Phyllis Andrews, who helped draft the original constitution, and her late husband Clyde, who brought a special quiet dignity to the ring. He is greatly missed. Viola and Vern Children, who never stopped loving Poms. Ray and Norma Higbee, who brought the Higbee bunch to the Jr. Handling and Obedience rings as well as the conformation ring. Erin and Phil Hundley, who never wavered in their dedication to the goals set out by the original group. Virginia and Bernard Niehouse, who both always attended meetings and served on the Board, as officers and in any other way they could.

Many others have joined and given their own talents to the club. The Harbins, Irene, Ralph and Sylvia, joined soon after we were organized and have always given unstintingly of themselves, keeping the enthusiasm alive when others were ready to give up. Tom and Jessie Stephens are also long-time members whose knowledge and precision have kept us on the right track. A long list of hard working members have each added their bit to this new great achievement: Marjorie Bear, Katherine Bartos, Marianna Bissonnette, Pete Casteneda, The Defords, Terry Fisher, Bobbie Fraser, Ingrida Gasaway, Randy Gemmill, Virginia Hall, Linda Jackson, Bob Johnson, Elsie Kurtz, Molly-Jo Larson, Julie Lindgren, Dana Plonkey, Florence Ryals, Marie and Ray Smith, and one more special member who, though far away, gave her encouragement and support generously — Edna Girardot.

Many more have come and gone and will be remembered. Dr. Charles Wilson, also a charter member, died last January. The Yakima Kennel Club held their last show in his honor. Dr. Wilson was the owner of Washington's first black champion, Ch. Midnight of Point Loma. Clyde Andrews, Ralph Harbin and Robbie Higbee have gone on ahead and will be watching us from on High.

Some wonderful Poms have been loved in this land of evergreens. Ch. Sungold's Rebel, the first champion offspring (male) of Ch. Sungold's Gay Cavalier, bred by Anna LaFortune and owned by Viola and Vern Children. Cav's last champion offspring, #66, (a bitch) Ch. Scotia Cav's A Tisket A Tasket, bred by Edna Girardot and owned by Clyde and Phyllis Andrews. The Northwest's first black and tan champion, Ch. C.J.'s Isadora, bred and owned by Pete Casteneda and Bob Johnson, and of course, Dr. Wilson's Midnight, the northwest's first black champion. And so many more. Some would have finished if there had never been a Puget Sound Pomeranian Club, but most would never have been exhibited. A breed club does so much more than just hold specialties. It instructs, encourages, promotes and helps.

Ch. Queenaire Whizzle Stik

Guys N Gals proudly announces Hawaii's
#1 Pomeranian for 1985
#5 Toy Dog for 1985

Whizzle Stik is shown winning his second specialty at the Pomeranian Club of Hawaii's show on April 19, 1986 under judge Mr. Fred Bassett. We are proud of his accomplishments which include one Group 1, one Group 2, two Group 3, two BISS.

Whizzle Stik is handled to perfection by my friend Yvette Oganeku.

Guys N Gals Dolie Patches

Thank you Dorothy Welsh for WB, BOS and 3 points. I need one more point to finish and I will be my breeder-owner's second champion. Thank you Clarice Oganeku for getting me my first 5 points at the Pomeranian Club of Hawaii 3rd Specialty under judge Mrs. Julie Moreno. Thank you Shirley Ann K. Leu for your loving care and the 9 points you have put on me under judges Mrs. Elaine Young (3 pts.), Mrs. Frank Haze Burch (3 pts.). I was bred to Ch. Queenaire Whizzle Stik and free whelped a lovely daughter.

ALONG MYWAY

by Molly Miller
P.O. Box 717
League City, TX 77573

I find myself getting into trouble when I have a preconceived idea of what will or should happen. When I expect the usual, I am not ready for the unusual and am slow in my response to it. Two such things happened recently.

Most humans are subject to flattery, particularly when their attention is divided. I fell into this trap at a recent show. As I was grooming my open dog and puppy bitch, a strange woman began to admire them and ask questions. I answered with part of my mind and the other part pondered the approaching ring experience and the much-needed major. As usual the stranger said she would like to have a Pom and questioned prices. I gave her a general price range and then broke it down into show-pet-breeding categories. This did not satisfy her. She continued to admire my male and asked what he would cost. I explained to her that he was not for sale. I was planning to use him in my breeding program; he just needed a few points to finish; his first puppy was now in the ring. Still the stranger persisted. Restating that he was not for sale, I gave her a price range for such a dog. Suddenly the stranger's attitude was different. She stiffened and was strangely alert. The change in body posture was different enough to shock me out of my inattention. I looked at her face. There was an alert watchfulness that I had not seen before. She no longer looked casually friendly. A voice in the back of my head said, "She is going to steal this dog."

I continued to groom, and the woman drifted away looking at other dogs. Occasionally I noticed her glance at me. I was very glad that I had only the two Poms with me that day so that we could all go to the ring together.

Poms had an afternoon ring time. After showing, I stayed at ringside to visit with some friends and have a picture made. When I returned to my set-up, all of my Pom friends who had been near were gone. I did not see the stranger, but I did not like the idea of leaving the dogs to get the car from a remote parking area. I packed dogs and equipment on my dolly and took it all to the set-up of my handler friend and told her why I was concerned. She watched the dogs until they returned.

Perhaps I was wrong, but each season several dogs are stolen from shows. Usually these thefts come after a conversation that has established the dog's value to the owner (if it is to be ransomed) or its market value if it is to be used or sold. I see two things that we can do to help protect our dogs. We exhibitors can be more alert than I was and never establish even a general value on the individual dogs at the show. In addition we can be alert to helping each other watch dogs when handlers need to be absent for brief periods of time.

In addition to being ready to question strangers, a breeder must at times question usual medical procedures. I recently had my bitch whelp three puppies. The middle puppy was born dead. The vet had administered oxytocin to bring the dead puppy. The first and third puppies were delivered easily. Several hours after the whelping, the bitch's temperature rose to 104.2°. I called the vet to ask what procedure he wanted to follow. The vet was involved; I asked the assistant to relay the information and my question. The assistant returned and said just to watch her. Oxytocin sometimes caused temperatures to spike.

I was worried and this did not sound right to me. I insisted that the assistant return and ask specifically which symptoms were considered dangerous and what temperature was dangerous. The vet came to the phone. He said he considered 104° a fever even when oxytocin had been given. The bitch was placed on medication and in a few hours her temperature was normal, and she was healthy and bouncy self again.

I am convinced that if I had not questioned I would have had a very sick bitch. I feel strange questioning a man whom I know is good. Perhaps this time he was distracted with other work, or perhaps the message was not relayed properly. It was acceptable for such a thing to happen to a questioning person like myself, but what if this had happened to a novice with his first bitch? He could have said

Ch. Bev-Nor's Toastmaster

"Master's" first born son hits the show ring causing quite a stir. "Rambo," Bev-Nor N Southland Rambo, owned by Sharon Hanson and Jane Fleshman is the little guy everyone's talking about. In his first time out he was BOW for 2 pts., then BOW for a 4 pt. major, and then BOB and Gr. 2 . . . and THEN BOB and Gr. 1 — all at 8 months of age! Watch for Rambo with Charlotte Creed.

For sale — a Master son, 8 months old. Dam: Ch. Janesa's Roulette. (Pictured in the April '86 Pom Review.)

Ch. Great Elms Prince Charming II

Winning the Toy Group under the well-known judge, Mrs. Wilma Hunter at the Fayetteville Show in Raleigh, Prince also won the Group at the two shows prior, Durham and Raleigh.

On his way to his championship, Prince went Winners Dog at the APC New York Specialty and Best of Winners at Westminster the next day.

It is unbelievable how Maynard Wood took Prince at 7 months old — clipped to the skin, got a new coat on him in 5 months and won Group 2 with him from the puppy class at his first show. Thank you so very much, Maynard!

Prince will be at stud with Maynard to approved matrons. Contact Maynard at Park Station, Box 2296, Waynesboro, VA 22980 (703) 943-6905.

“I Remember When . . .”

by Dorothy Bonner

Since my association with Gladys Schoenberg was close, most of my breeding was to the Aristic studs through the early years. The outstanding prepotency of Ch. Aristic Wee Pepper Pod was realized in the late 1950's. Even with one Best in Show to his credit, he was not sensational in conformation but nice — a cobby, five pound red-sable with indisputable soundness. His one fault, which had limited his get, was his stubborn preference in bitches at breeding periods. Often there were none who pleased him enough to make the effort involved, but once a breeding was accomplished the quality of the result was amazing. When these facts were discussed with Gladys, she dismissed my conclusions with the argument that her other champions produced as well and were much easier to breed. Unpopular at home, he was always available to me and I determined to find ways to use him with my girls. So Pepper Pod became my foundation stud (almost exclusively) during his few years of activity — his prepotency unrealized by other breeders until too late. Other Aristic champions, including his son, Ch. Aristic Flaming Cherub, surpassed him in beauty, but none came near him in the quality of get. Among his Best in Show sons were Ch. Bonner's Peppersweet Red Pod (his daughter, Peppersweet, bred back to him), and Ch. Bonner's Stylepepper Preshus (from a Pepper Pod breeding to a granddaughter). He sired many other Bonner champions and Group winners. From careful line breeding to retain his genes, his influence is evident today, especially in conformation and coats. It was well worth the innovations practiced to secure breedings, and is thankfully remembered.

The usual procedure was a short trip to Aristic Kennels with a Bonner girl, hopefully offered to Pepper Pod. After a quick sniff, she was usually disdainfully ignored. The kennel-mates in season were introduced, and at a time, until a decided preference was indicated. For success, this female accomplice had to be cooperative and non-nervous as was also the Bonner victim. A three standard build was anticipated with an insufficient number of hands to maintain. So I sat on the floor with knees pulled up to hold the accomplice on top of my Bonner girl, as my hand was needed under her with the other hand ready to be used behind the male to pull or lower or push. It was not easy. Temporarily lowering allowed Pepper Pod to smell only the Aristic girl on top, but both were lifted and mounted so that the lower layer could receive the injection while his front legs grabbed the upper. Once penetration was achieved, resulting in a tie, pressure on the female's structure could be eased, letting the Aristic female down, although remaining in the vicinity to maintain the illusion. Pepper Pod never seemed to question afterward why the stranger-Pom remained there as long as

by Brenda Hutton
102 Tudor Lane
Lansing, MI 48906

The first thing I would like to do is correct the misinformation reported in the last issue of the Pom Review. Those of us involved with the 1986 Obedience Demonstration were under the impression that we were the first group to perform in a group obedience event at the APC. We were not. Gladys Dykstra from Easthampton, NJ was the first. She and some of her friends gave such a demonstration during the February 1976 New York Specialty. Those of you who keep your Reviews forever will find an article on it in the April 1976 issue, page 10. If anyone still has it, I would sure appreciate a copy of that story. Our apologies to Gladys and friends. Maybe she'll be available to be part of a 1987 Demo?

Speaking of Gladys, did you know she's been in Obedience with Pomeranians and Borzoi for many years? Since 1950 I understand she has earned in Poms alone 2 Am. UD's, 3 Am. CDX's only, 1 Am. CD only, 1 Can. CDX's only, and 1 Can Championship only. Also in the Borzoi she has 3 Am. UD's, 3 Can. UD's, and 1 Am. Champion. That's quite a record! Anyone care to guess how many thousands of hours of hard work went into all those titles??

Recently we mentioned Claire Flesner and her knee surgery. She writes: "I'm doing just great! Can't run yet! Can climb stairs and have no pain!" Claire also reported on a fun match held by the Bay Colony Pom Club. There were 12 entries and 3 qualifying scores. Finishing 1st in sub-Novice was Honeybear's Megan owned by Fran Richardson with a 156/165. 2nd was Silver Meadow's Mr. Randy, owned and shown by Claire with 139/165. It was Randy's first time in an Obedience ring with very limited practice because of her knee surgery. He had a perfect score in the sit and down exercises. Since it took her six years to get a qualifying score with her first OB Pom "Pepper," because he thought the 3-minute leg down was only 2½ minutes, this was quite a feat! Maybe we'll see Randy during the fall season in Novice. The winner of Novice B and High Score in Match went to Smokey Jo, owned by Brandy Richardson with a 188/200. Brandy is only 12 years old and Claire says works like a professional "It was a pleasure to watch her and her Pom," Claire reported. I've never even seen 7 Poms in one Obedience event until New York, and she's got them in a fun match!

Claire also reports that there is a new CD Pom in the club. Evelyn Farinacci's Fahnley's Pom Pom "Jodi" finished leg #3 with a 192½ from Novice B at Holyoke KC. Interestingly, he had a run-off with another Pom! Then for insurance Jodi got leg #4 at the Merrimack Valley KC with 193½/200. Congratulations to Evelyn.

Also from the Bay Colony Club is Jennie Martin. Condolences go out to Jennie on her recent loss of Chipper who was 12 years old. Chipper was an Am/Can/Bda UD with many High Score in Trial awards. He once was HIT in Bermuda for a whole week of Trials! I'm sure he's sadly missed.

Did you make it to the Richmond Gaines shows? I didn't, but sure wish I could have. Margaret McKee started the week by being featured on three local television programs before going into the Trials. She and Val were asked to show their stuff to the TV audience to give them an idea of what Obedience is all about. Then they went to Gaines scoring 176½, 184½ and 190. Diane Bauman was also there with Abra scoring 199, 169½ and 199½. On Sunday Abra was "Sunday's Best," meaning that she was the High Scoring Dog for the Day. Congratulations to both Margaret and Diane, both APC members, on a job well done!

Jo Ellen Corley's I'm a Wee Bit Flashy has finished his CD by earning leg #3 3/22/86 at the Ft. Worth KC with 193½, then leg #4 on 3/23 he got 194 at Ft. Worth DTC. Pretty consistent. Earning two legs toward their CD were Marie Smith and Surprise Echo of Manchester. Marie and Echo got leg #1 at St. Petersburg KC with 170 and leg #2 at Tampa Bay KC with a 179. Kristen Kvamme from the Columbia Pom Club has just earned a CD on Cedar Glen's Piccolo Pete. Pete received leg #1 at Sammamish KC with a 170, leg #2 at Puyallup Valley KC with 186½, and leg #3 on 2/23/86 at Seattle KC with 187. Also earning a leg on 2/23 was R. Domingo with Hy Jan-Lee's Archie of Ardee in Novice B. Theirs came with a 187 at OTC of Hawaii. Does anyone know anything about this pair? Has Hawaii ever had an obedience titled Pomeranian? Apparently R. Domingo showed a Pom for 2 legs prior to this, but no one knows if they ever received the 3rd leg.

Ch. Sugar Plum Fairy, owned by APC member Roz Goltz, earned his first leg Feb. 22 with a 195 at the 1st Dog Club of Northern NJ. He then earned the second leg 2/23 with 195½ at Bayshore Companion Dog Club. Good luck, Roz, as she's now working on a Dog World Award. Peppy Von I, owner unknown, earned leg #1 Feb. 22 at Monterey Bay DTC with a 178. Both these dogs were in Novice B. Lessard's Little Geisha Girl UD also received a 192 on Feb. 22 at the Monterey Trial winning the Challenge Trophy for the second time. She's slowly working on her OTCh. So far Alice Lessard reports Geisha has 6 points and counting toward the 100 points needed. Diane Bauman and Noah's Abra Ka Dabra CDX received a 2nd place from Open B 2/22 at 1st Dog Club of Northern NJ with a 198½. She also won High in Trial with a 199½ from Open B.

Alice Lessard has been busy indeed this spring. Besides showing Geisha and working on the OTCh, she has now begun Novice B with Lessard's Natsu Takara, who is also 1 major away from her championship. She writes, "Natsu works far superior to Geisha and she really enjoys obedience. I entered her in the Fresno KC, Bakersfield KC and Chief Solano KC shows. At Fresno she got a 195, at Bakersfield a 197½, and then a very upsetting 192 at Chief Solano. Oh well, there went a 'Dog World.'" And she just reported earning a 198½ at Mt. Diablo DTC, good for High Scoring Toy! That's sure the way to earn a CD, isn't it Alice?

Last month I mentioned that I think it's hard to get a Utility title and consider each qualifying score as solid gold. Alice writes about the other side: "I love to brag about my dogs, and when you asked how long it took to get a UD on Geisha, I had to laugh since that was the easiest title of all for us and the most fun. Since everyone had told me how hard it was to get a UD, I expected to be working on it forever, but with six months of training and five shows later Geisha was a Utility Dog. I would have gotten her UD in three shows, but she got confused between going out for articles and the "go outs." If I would have known it at the time, I would have trained Geisha longer for perfection instead of jumping the gun and putting her in the ring so soon. Many people had told me horror stories about the Utility ring, that I wanted to get it over with in a hurry. I figured my dog would be ten years old still going for its third leg. The moral of the story is, do not listen to do people during the out-of-sight sits and down in Open B. If your dog has a good foundation to build upon, then each step, CD to CDX to UD should not be harder, but instead easier."

BK's Sir Spunky earned his 2nd leg on his UD in United Kennel Club on March 1 with a score of 189. The second day he blew it, but managed to redeem himself in Open B. I had entered Open that day for fun, and darned if the monkey didn't tie for 2nd with a very nice working Sheltie and won the run-off. BK's Sunshine Supergirl also made her first appearance in sub Novice. Being six weeks in whelp she managed to pull a 3rd place and 158/165 to make yours truly very happy. Be looking for her as soon as she drops her litter!

And this club has done it well.

How did it finally happen? I asked Phyllis Andrews what she thought was the key to AKC approval. She said, "Organization." AKC has set out guidelines and you must follow them in a clear, well documented way giving a complete resume of activities, clearly labeled and arranged in an easy to read manner; a complete list of members' breeding and show records; a record of club property and exactly where each item can be found and who is responsible for it; the educational programs, promotional material and everything the club has done to present the breed to the world. Becoming a sanctioned club involves a lot of hard working, dedicated people. Congratulations, Puget Sound Pomeranian Club!

Turning Back The Clock

by Mary Vickers

A long time ago, millions of years ago, man did not dress the way he does now, nor did he have his faithful companion the dog. Actually he lived in fear of many animals. But times change. Man decided to wear clothes and make friends with the creatures around him. One of the animals, Tomarctus, changed also. Part of his family became known as Canis familiaris, or the familiar dog which befriended man. Man and his companion the dog freely roamed the earth. They appeared in Germany, Africa and even Wyoming. They adjusted to each other, each attending to his own needs, but eventually relying more on living and surviving together.

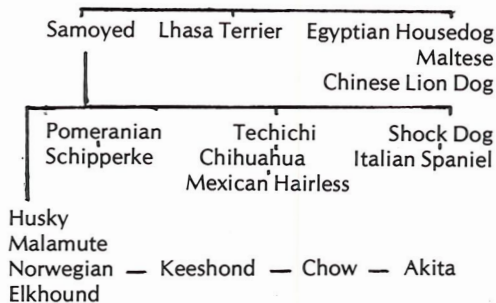

"At any rate, by 12,000 B.P. (before the present), at least four recognizable subspecies of domestic dogs are identifiable in Eurasia, each of which reflects a long period of domestication and structural change. These are the polar dogs, the gazehounds, the drahlah-dingo, and the mastiffs." (1)

The polar or Northern dogs are perhaps the best known and, as Pomeranian breeders, should interest us the most. "These dogs are the wolf-like dogs roughly inhabiting the areas enclosed by the Arctic Circle. Similar to wolves, most of these dogs have banded guard hairs and consequently "wild" coloring, erect ears, broad and powerful long-snouted skulls framed by display ruffs, robust trotting builds, and an air of jolly independence. By Neolithic times, (5,000 years B.P.), several varieties of polar dogs had appeared in response to the increasing applications being developed by man. In addition to the huskies (Siberian, Norwegian husky and elkhound, and the Alaskan Malamute) this group includes the Samoyed, the Pomeranian, the Schipperke and other members of the "Spitz" family. Also associated with this group is the more easterly, but still Arctic dogs, the Chow and the Akita." (2)

Scientists have grouped these dogs in the following order:

TOMARCTUS

*canine familiaris

Scientifically this stands today, unless one is a dog breeder who wishes to debate the scientists, particularly if one is a Schipperke breeder who disavows any relationship to the Pomeranian. But scientists have their bases in facts, mostly from the study of bones and teeth unearthed in archeological digs. Their records and research cover eons. Breeders have their history too. Some of it is written, some pictured, some of it verbal and much of it lost, unfortunately.

People did not become interested in "pure-bred dogs" until the mid and late 1800's. At that time in England, Northern and Central Europe, people started to breed dogs because of existing desirable traits, physical likeness and structure, as well as ability and personality. Prior to this time some tribes of people, for instance the Nentsi, were long-time dog breeders. For the majority of breeders however, human intervention into dog breeding is less than 150 years old. Stud records and pedigrees began at this time. Breed clubs came about shortly thereafter.

The Samoyed is widely credited on canine genealogical charts with being the "top man on the totem pole" — the first historically known progenitor of "spitz" dogs. (3) The Samoyed is the direct ancestor of the Husky, Keeshond and the Pomeranian. An interesting fact is that in Rickett's book, "The New Complete Pomeranian," there is a picture of a Greek wine jug from the 4th century. It is stated that the dog pictured is a Pomeranian. This same picture is also in a Samoyed book and their historians say the dog is a Samoyed. The Keeshond book also presents the same picture, equally claiming the dog to be a Keeshond! The breeds as we know them today have changed but their resemblance remains. It is easy to see and understand how the physical structure of these dogs has been changed, but there is an interesting sideline that has been lost. That of the color of the northern dogs.

Picture a Samoyed. It is a white dog standing as high as 23 inches tall, right? Well, the first Samoyed to be imported to England by the breed's founders, Mr. and Mrs. Gilburn-Scott, was a chocolate-brown male. Writing about the breed in 1889 the Gilburn-Scotts state "we must recall that at this point in time they (Samoyeds) were not necessarily the spectacular all-white variety. They included black and tan, and black and white Samoyeds." Further description of the different color of Samoyeds includes brindle, white, white with spots, black with white, white with black patches, reds, yellows, yellow spotted and red spotted. The Prince of Wales (later to become King Edward VII) had a Samoyed that was all white except for its black head. Also, a noted dog authority, Mr. Frank Sewell, reportedly owned an all sable brown Samoyed. (4)

Two types of Samoyed tribe dogs existed. One belonged to the nomadic tribe, the all-white Bjelkier dogs. Bjelkier means "white that breeds white" and is used in reference to many animals. The pastoral tribes had dogs which were white, some black and white, and white with other colors. Both of these types were bred together. The first standard adopted for the breed showed colors as pure white, white with slight lemon markings, brown and white, and black and white. This was later changed to pure white, white and biscuit and cream, which is the standard that the Americans adopted when the Samoyed was admitted to the AKC.

In the United States today, a black or brown Samoyed cannot be found. However, Samoyeds that are white with biscuit or white and cream, besides the pure white are available. Look closely at their markings. They occur similar to the markings that the Pomeranian carries today. They can have cream or biscuit face and body markings (eyebrows, chins, under the neck and patches of color on their bodies besides shadings in the coat).

The Keeshond itself has a colorful history, which is not well known and directly relates to the Pomeranian. Evidence from many sources shows that over a long period, several varieties of Spitz dogs evolved in Germany, ranging in size and coloration from the 'Great White Spitz,' the 'Grosse Grau Wolfsspitz' (large, gray, wolf-colored) to the smaller 'Pommer' (Pomeranian). In 1899, the German breeders formed the German Spitz Club, which established a stud book. Published in 1913, but covering the period from 1891 to 1898, those listed were 247 white, 222 black, 221 wolf-gray, 1 orange, 7 red and 1 particolored. This covered all varieties. (5) In Holland, where the Keeshond became nationally and internationally famous, the Grosse Grau Wolfsspitz was commonly white, but also existed in black and in gray as well as other colors. As recently as the 1970's, Keeshonds that are all white, all black and entirely pale-orange-to-liver colored without a gray or black hair on them, had been accepted in Holland and Germany for years. (6) Orange-to-liver colored pups have been whelped in this country in amongst gray-to-black littermates. This same gene pattern is known to occur in Norwegian Elkhounds. (7) Neither is allowed by the breed standard.

"The Complete Keeshond" by Clementine Peterson gives much history of both the Keeshond and the Pomeranian in England. In it she quotes the C.M. Hicks book, "The Pomeranian" (England, 1906), which tells the story of the first "shaded sable Pomeranian" shown in London in 1899. This dog had been sent to a Miss Beverly in Britain by friends in Holland. Those in Holland called the dog a Keeshond. The British dog fancy had a field day, calling the dog a Pomeranian, a Keeshond, a Wolksspitz or a Spitz. (8) It fit all those categories!

So what of the Pomeranian?

Among the first written references to the Pomeranian occurred in 1570 in the treatise, "De Cannibus Britannicus" written by the founder of Caius College in Cambridge, England. At that time the Germanic Pomeranian Dog was under 30 pounds and seen in all colors — solid, shaded, brindle and spotted.

The Pomeranian in the 1800's is described by Taplin writing in the "Sportsman's Cabinet" (1803). "The Pomeranian is 18 to 20 inches high with a long, thick, and rather upright coat forming a tremendous ruff about the neck, but short and smooth on head and ears .

... mostly pale yellow or cream in color and lighter on the lower parts. There were white specimens, a few blacks and very rarely a spotted Pom." He mentions that "the tail is rather large and bushy, and invariably curled up a ring above the back." (9)

Stonehedge, one of the most famous dog historians, wrote in the 1850s about two classes of Pomeranians. The larger, the Pomeranian Wolf Dog, bore a striking resemblance to the St. Bernard, although the head was smaller and more fox-like. He was brown in color with black points. The smaller Pomeranian, or Spitz, or Loup-Loupe, was white and closely resembled the Samoyed. Those found guarding flocks of sheep in Pomerania were usually black. However most of the dogs imported to England were white. (10)

The Germans were the first to miniaturize the Pom. Their normal variety was in the 18 to 24 pound range, but the smaller variety captured the hearts of many and the Germans capitalized on this dwarf version.

In 1859 England became the sponsor of the Pomeranian as at that time the first stud records and pedigrees began. Pomeranians were not able to be shown until 1871, however. At the June show a trio of white dogs were shown, which were in the 12 to 20 pound range. By 1891 the Pomeranian Club was formed. The Pom's tail had straightened out a bit to lay over the back and the "in" color was black, followed by chocolate, blue and the whites. Whites ran the gamut from pure white to biscuit to cream. It was also at this time that the Pom got smaller. Many times the show dogs were in the 8 to 14 pound range, although there were specimens weighing in at 1½ pounds. The Pomeranian Club started with divided classes for those over and under 8 pounds. Later the weight was dropped to 7 pounds and in 1916, they eliminated classes for those over 7 pounds.

By the turn of the century the Pom was the breed to have. Although getting smaller, a uniformity of type began to evolve, but there was still great variety in style, size, color and coat. Royalty greatly helped publicize the Pomeranian. Queen Victoria had her Windsor Marco and later the Duchess of Windsor had her portrait done with her particolored Pom. Painters such as Thomas Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds and George Stubbs immortalized many colorful Pomeranians in family portraits. Gainsborough is credited with an orange and white particolored with a little girl, a young boy with his black Pom, and a family with a black and white parti and their chocolate Pom. George Stubbs did an interesting painting entitled "The Prince of Wales' Phaeton" which depicts the Prince's black and white dog. (11) Although most of these paintings were done in the 1700's, many rushed to have theirs done in the same manner.

By 1914 a Pomeranian left an indelible mark on our present day Poms. English Champion Mars captured the attention of many. He was a strange colored Pom and the first orange to garner a title. Fortunately he was a prolific stud and passed his flashy orange color down to us. (12)

Poms were imported to the U.S. in the late 1800's. Most of these firsts were chocolates, wolf sables, blues and whites. The first Pom entered in the AKC stud book was 'Dick' (by Texas ex Foulette). He was a white born in September 1888 and owned by J. Jamison from San Francisco. (13) We were to have the same problem breeding Poms as England had, especially with the whites. They were big — some staying around 28 pounds. The orange color became the rage and seemed to breed true. The orange Pomeranian took over, although several breeders continued to try their hands with the different, ancient-colored Poms.

Today in the AKC show ring, there are only whitish Samoyeds, black-to-gray Keeshonds and Norwegian Elkhounds. The Pomeranian standard however, does call for many of the colors and patterns in its heritage. Color breeding continues to be frustrating, but gains have been made. Sometimes you have to look behind you before you can move further ahead.

Breed The Perfect Pomeranian?

Well, we all know that perfection is impossible, but at the Sooner Pomeranian Club of Oklahoma City, Inc., that's what it's all about — striving to breed the perfect Pom.

The club today is made up of AKC Pomeranian breeders with over 50 years combined experience dedicated to the breed. Monthly lectures on obedience, conformation, whelping, breeding, nutrition, grooming, etc. are hosted by professional handlers, veterinarians and breeders.

We think you will find our club fun and very worthwhile. It is our hope to soon be AKC recognized and hold sanctioned matches. We would like to invite breeders as well as Pomeranian fanciers to join with us. Watch for our Pomeranian obedience and conformation fun match coming up in November (in conjunction with the Oklahoma City cluster shows).

Obedience Profile Jo Ellen Corley

The children have graduated from high school and basically left home. That is, they are still around, they just don't live at home any more. The family dog, restricted to the back yard because of unruly behavior is lonesome. "Maybe with all this time on my hands, I should take him to obedience school. It would help get him under control and then Kenneth and I could live in peace." So thought Jo Ellen as she paged through the Sunday paper about three years ago. The ad she found was for the Companion Dog School of Tulsa. "Classes would start in a few weeks.

Getting ready for class, Jo Ellen thought that it might be nice to have a dog all her own; a little dog, a lap dog, something cute and cuddly.

Training classes went well. The family dog, a German Shepherd-Irish Wolfhound mix, enjoyed the work as much as Jo Ellen. But soon a cute, cuddly Pomeranian puppy came to live with the Corleys. The family came to see the new addition. Confusing the Pom's heritage with the Peke, as some people do, the AKC registration form was filled out giving the puppy's name as Midnight Shogun. His call name would be Hopsing.

The little black ball of fluff finally grew old enough to enter school. A year later, he had his CD title with scores of 195, 183 (a real bad day), and 195½ (1st place). Resting on their laurels, Hopsing and Jo Ellen took the summer as vacation. Open training awaited them in the Fall.

Hoppi (when he's good his name is shortened) had absolutely no problems in Open. He jumps like mad, dashes out to retrieve and drops very quickly. Jo Ellen had the problems. She had grown, learning much about dogs, training and psychology. She recognized that Hoppi is not a 'natural retriever.' He did not play retrieve. He would chase. If something were thrown out for him, he would run off with it. She dreaded the time when dumbbell retrieving would start. Hoppi was doing well on all the Open exercises but not retrieving. Her instructor kept asking, "When are you going to pinch that dog's ear?" Not wanting to deliberately cause her dog pain, she kept making excuses. Finally, she did it. Wonder of wonders, Hoppi opened his mouth and took the dumbbell. From then on, he retrieved! He went after his "X" and in three straight shows with scores of 186, 196 (1st place) and 193 (3rd place), became a Companion Dog Excellent.

But life for Hopsing is not restricted to the obedience ring. Jo Ellen firmly believes that he is her companion, but that also he should be a good ambassador for the breed as well as a good representative of dogs in general. He goes with her everywhere and they have yet to hear a discouraging word. Most of the time people compliment his beauty and his manners. Jo Ellen also has this love for children. She has raised four and is a school teacher of 12th grade English. Perhaps that is why Hoppi is a Registered Therapy Dog (Therapy Dogs International). Together they visit schools for the retarded where the kids love him. At first, Jo Ellen was very enthused about these visits, but then became very discouraged about how the children would try to treat the dogs. Soon though, a program was planned that would allow the dogs to perform tricks and afterwards some of the children with supervision would be allowed to visit closer. Hoppi may have his own fan club because of these children, but he also has his favorites. Much joy abounds on the day that Hoppi and the kids visit.

Many feel that Toy dogs should jump, bark, and be a general nuisance; they should not be obedient. Not Jo Ellen, nor her friends and instructors at Companion Dog Training School of Tulsa. They have been out tracking several times. Jo Ellen encourages everyone to try tracking. It makes the dogs so aware of scents. Tracking is something that they do naturally and is enjoyable for humans. Once while out in the fields, everything stopped as all watched four deer wondering what was going on. Hopping began Utility training while in Open. The tracking and the scent discrimination exercises made Open retrieving much easier for him. In Open at a show, if the grass is too high or the ground slopes off, Hoppi will put his nose to the ground and scent-find the umbrella. He knows to look for it, if it is not readily visible.

Hopping is trying for his Utility Degree. Presently he has two legs. This level is proving a bit more difficult than the others. Jo Ellen feels that Utility is the ultimate in training. The training itself has gone fairly smoothly and is enjoyable, but can be very frustrating. They have an excellent instructor in AKC Judge, Gail Brown, and receive much encouragement from her. One of their problems is that there are few matches in Oklahoma. This is a handicap, as in many cases the dog knows the exercises inside and out, but ring conditions (and handlers' nerves) can cause lots of zeros.

The Corley household now has other dogs. Luke, or I'm A Wee Bit Flashy CD, is a Hopsing son. Other than both being black, they have little in common. It is said that your second dog is easier to train. Not so in this case. Luke is Jo Ellen's frustration point. He has been known to cause her much embarrassment by just doing his own thing. But when he worked, he did well getting his CD with 193½, 194 and 193½. His bumper tag, since the pressure was off and he knew it, was a 196½. Luke will now try his paws at tracking and also visits the kids as a member of Therapy Dogs International.

Another Pom, Dandy, resides with the Corleys. He hasn't begun training yet as Hopsing's U.D. degree comes first. His time will come.

It was thought that after the kids left, life would settle into a peaceful mode. Ken and Jo Ellen could have leisurely vacations of hunting and fishing. It hasn't worked out that way. Evenings are spent working the dogs or at class. Weekends and vacations are combined hunting, fishing and dog shows. Ken always wanted a dog of his own, too. He wanted a bird dog, so a Brittany named Trooper was obtained. At 8 months of age his training has begun. But now the Corleys have to stop at the Brittany ring to see how the rest of the litter is getting along.

Obedience Questions & Answers

by Judy Green
822 Parkside Blvd.
Claymont, DE 19703
(302) 798-5962

Question: Since I will be showing in both breed and obedience in the near future, how should I handle a conflict with having to be in two places at the same time? And how can I tell when I'm due to show in breed or obedience?

Answer: This has happened to me more times than I care to remember and, fortunately most judges are very considerate of this and try to be as accommodating as possible. The key to doing both at the same time is organization! Here's how I handle doing both.

The first thing I do when I get my judging schedule is see when I'll be in the breed ring. Most breed judging schedules are cut and dried. However, if there are other breeds before you, figure on judging 30 dogs per hour and you can get a rough idea of when you'll be in the ring. Look at your number in obedience and count up how many dogs are entered before you. A guideline (and this is only a guideline) is 8 dogs per hour are judged in Novice, 7 dogs per hour in Open and 6 dogs per hour in Utility. Also, check the judging schedule and see if they have included a sketch of the show grounds, and if so, locate your rings.

For example, this past weekend Poms were being judged at 12:45 in Ring 4 after 9 Papillons. There were 5 Pom dogs and I'm showing a bitch. To be on the safe side, I wanted to be at Ring 4 no later than 1:00. However, there were 20 Open dogs being judged starting at 11:30 in Ring 15 on the other side of the show grounds. Jeffrey was eighth in the class and, according to my calculations, Jeff should have been in the ring about 12:30. This is cutting the time too close for me, not leaving much room for delays. I would probably show in obedience, go get Amber, take Jeff and put him in his crate and get to the other side of the show grounds with possibly only seconds to spare. Therefore, I arrived at the show grounds early and at 11:25 I was at the obedience ring waiting for the judge. When he arrived, I explained to him that I would probably have a breed conflict and, if at all possible, could I go out of turn — any time that was convenient for him. Thankfully, he said that it was no problem and I could be last in the class. I thanked him, told him how understanding he was and went on my way. If he had said no, I had to go in order, I would still have thanked him and made arrangements for someone to stand by to either show one of the dogs or make sure they were ready to go in the ring.

I feel the key to successfully exhibiting in both breed and obedience is organization — when you will be in breed, when you will be in obedience and where the rings are located. If timing is "iffy," don't take a chance. Ask the obedience judge if you can go out of turn. And remember, it's the judge's ring and he can do whatever he pleases. He is not obligated to accommodate you because of a breed conflict. If he does let you exhibit out of turn, let him know how grateful you are and, by the same token, if he wants everyone in catalog order, thank him for his time anyway and in the future, either just show in obedience under this judge or don't show under him at all. Remember — always be a good sport and SMILE!

Until next time, you all take care and happy heeling!

and watched as his bitch grew desperately ill or died. The veterinary assistance available to breeders today is wonderful, but the breeder is still the one who must make the final decision. To make the best possible decision, the breeder needs to question whenever his information sounds illogical.

I was fortunate in both of these instances, but they were good reminders to me and I hope, to you. We breeders must be alert to people around us and to instructions we receive.

Lacy finished with a five point major at Sahuaro State KC on March 2, 1986. I wish to thank all the judges who gave Lacy her points. A special thanks goes to Mary Rosenbaum for allowing me to have Lacy. She is a natural little showgirl and always showed like a dream for me, a novice. I also wish to thank Anna LaFortune for all her wonderful help, as without her I would be nowhere. She has taught me more than I can ever repay, teaching me about good breeding lines and helping me show my dogs. She is instrumental in helping me produce a very fine line of Poms. Thank you, Anna. I love you.

Sometimes I have puppies for sale — Sungold, Scotia and Hadleigh lines. Pedigrees on Request.

HELPFUL HINTS

by Margaret McKee

Goochland, VA 23063

Ah, Spring (now as I write this) and Summer (as you read it)! Fun, warmth, flowers, longer days, more dog shows, picnics, outings — and those pesky bugs! We can never be too vigilant in our war against fleas and ticks. Remember, your efforts must be three-fold — you must treat the house or kennel, the yard or runs, as well as the dogs. Read directions carefully. Don't overlap chemicals. If you dip your dogs, don't put a flea collar on them. If you win a flea collar as a match trophy, put it in the bag of your vacuum cleaner. I personally think internal medications to kill fleas — either ingested by the dog as a pill or absorbed through the skin like Spot-On — are a bad idea. They affect the flea only after the flea has bitten the dog and in the meantime, you have a toxic chemical circulating in your dog's blood. I am doubtful of their safety. If you're planning to get one of those ultra-violet lights that zap insects, don't hang it right beside the kennel but a distance away. You want to lure the critters away from the dogs, not toward them.

Last summer we gave a baby shower for two new puppies acquired by members of our obedience club. What a fun party! These were long-planned-for and eagerly-awaited puppies — a Sheltie and a Terv. When they arrived a few days apart, a party was a must. Our cookout was greeted by one of the worst storms of the season, but that didn't dampen our spirits. After a wonderful pot-luck meal, we had presents for the babies — photo albums, assorted toys, leads, leash rack, rawhide chewies, treats, even a puppy baby book.

At this party several "big dog" people admitted that they'd always thought toy dog owners were rather silly and over-protective of their dogs. But since knowing me and my dogs, they'd realized that such behavior is absolutely necessary. When I first read Molly Miller's column on this subject, I thought, "Oh no, I hope this doesn't scare novices so badly that they won't want to go to dog shows." But I re-read the column, thought over my own near-misses, and realized that we all need to be warned to be very careful.

The trouble is, no matter how vigilant and protective we are, we have little control over the actions of others. And many dog owners and handlers are outrageously thoughtless and careless. This spring I attended an outdoor all-breed show. Since I hadn't handled the special in awhile, I took him to the grass beyond the grooming tent to warm him up. Before setting him down, I looked around. No other dogs in sight. We walked about 10 feet, then turned — to see a Great Dane loping toward us. I reached to pick up Mighty, but he darted away in fear. Then the Dane knocked me down and grabbed Mighty in his mouth. It was probably only a matter of seconds, but while I was on the ground, struggling to reach Mighty and screaming my head off, it seemed an eternity — and I knew the dog was dead. Then somehow I was on my feet, straightening my glasses, to see Mighty running to the waiting arms of someone under the grooming tent. He was alive! A quick examination showed he was badly frightened but otherwise unharmed. The explanation of the Dane's owner? "I have a bad knee so when he jumped up on me, I just let go of the lead!" I must have been in shock because I accepted her apology and asked her to please get her dog away from my grooming table. It was only later that I got angry. I've thought about this incident a lot. It was just because the Lord was looking after him that Mighty was not hurt. And I really can't see what I could have done differently. The feeling of utter helplessness was awful.

I think we small dog people need to make an effort to educate other dog owners. Not just big dog owners either, because a small terrier such as a Cairn or a Norwich can be bad news as well. Perhaps you could volunteer to give a talk at your local all-breed club or obedience club. Most program chairmen will welcome suggestions. Hey, Molly, how about writing an article for Gazette? What other suggestions do you have?

Desiree's Candy Ripple

We are especially proud of her because she was sired by our first homebred champion, Ch. Desiree's Rippling Fudge, and out of our "Dedi," our little Desiree's Candy Delight who has 7 pts.

Candy continues her winning ways going BOS at Macon KC under Mr. D. Rogers for 2 pts.; BOB over a special at Classic City KC under Mrs. G.J. Warner for 2 pts.; BOB over a special at Kennesaw KC under Mr. Norman Patton for 2 pts. and on to Group 4 under Mrs. G.J. Warner.

Many thanks to these judges and to Mr. Harry Pennington for a superb job of handling.

umps? She didn't want to drive her car to the tennis court, but she couldn't carry a regular set of jumps that far. Her nephew Brad made her a really nifty set out of 1/4" plastic foam sheets, cut into 8" and 4" boards. They are put together on site with dowels and toothpicks. Last Easter when my father offered two large sheets of plastic foam to my kids, I immediately claimed them. Instead of using dowels to put together boards for the high jump, I cut one board for each height I use — 4", 8", 10", 12", and 14". Since I only have to walk out to my yard for practice, the foam boards are propped up with bricks. In addition to being very lightweight, these jumps are rain resistant, but they're not much good in wind! The price sure is right, at about $2.00 a sheet. Foam jumps would be an inexpensive make-do until you could afford the real thing. They also don't take much room in the car when you go proofing or to trials.

Thinking about the type of cheating discussed by Jacqueline Fraser (How Far Is Too Far, Revisited, Review, April 1986) it is tempting to blame judges, because we blame judges for everything that goes wrong in showing dogs. If I were a judge, I would probably be able to spot cropped ears. I can recognize over-trimming because I've spent a lot of time grooming Pom coats. Is it possible that a judge less familiar with Poms might not be sure if it is trimmed or natural? I doubt if I could tell if a dog was dyed or had orthodontia. Remember, a judge has less than two minutes per dog for his examination. Let's face it. We exhibitors must take full responsibility for this skulduggery. A judge can't put up a dyed dog unless it comes into the ring. We're the ones who doctor up our dogs and try to fool the judge. Why? Do we really want dogs with white feet or bad mouths in our breeding programs? The people who do these things simply want to win. They are impatient. It takes generations of planning, intelligence, and years of work to eliminate faults from a breeding program. A little Lady Clairol or surgery is a quicker fix. So when we can brag we've finished 39 champions instead of 38.

So what do we do about it? I doubt if the problem can be eliminated altogether. The weak, dishonest or misguided will always be with us. But we can cut down on it. The APC and our other Pom clubs need to provide opportunities for judges to learn more about our breed. We can show them what over-trimming and too much hair spray look and feel like. What about our Code of Ethics? Is it complete? Is it effective? Can it be enforced? Should the Board be more willing to hear and act on complaints of unethical behavior by APC members? Let's hear from you! What do you think will benefit our breed?

How about sending me your "Pet Peeves"? If we air them in this column, maybe someone will take the "hint." For example, I have a client (in another breed) who sends me in the ring with her dog, is delighted when we win, then takes the lead herself to have the picture taken. This shouldn't bother me, since she's paying for the picture and it's her dog, but it bugs me nonetheless. Send me your sources of irritation. It ought to make you feel better to write them down.

Exhibitors, handlers, judges and stewards are an obvious and important part of the dog show scene. There are lots of other folks who play essential roles, work very hard, give generously of their time, but may not receive proper appreciation. These wonderful people do the planning, raise funds, provide food and transportation, solicit advertising, scoop poop, type, gather and distribute trophies, put on matches, teach handling or obedience classes, run errands and on and on. It takes only a few minutes of your time to write a note or simply say, "Thank you" to let these behind-the-scenes folks know that you appreciate their efforts.

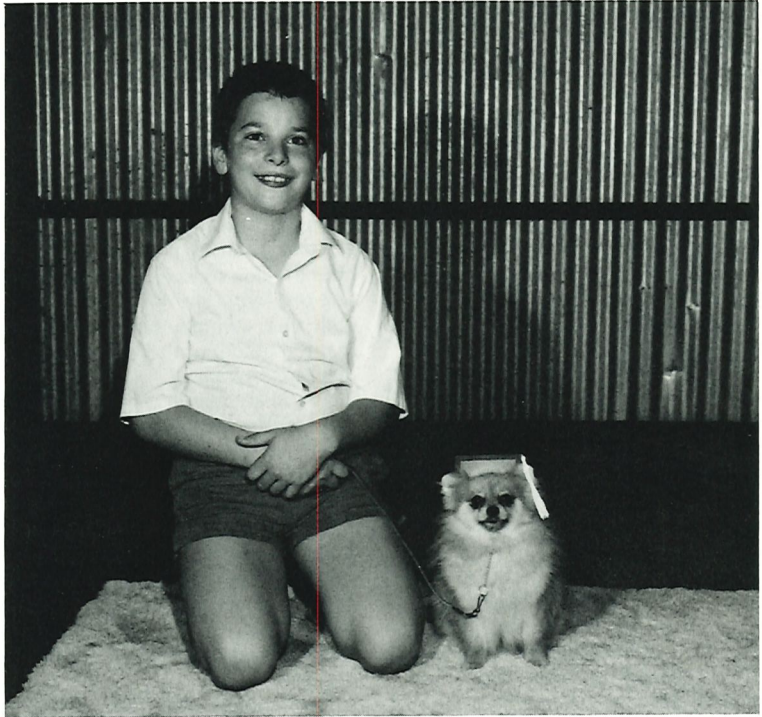

Food For Thought Department: What would happen if Group and Best in Show competition were eliminated? Wow, mind-boggling! Many of the specials would go home. Publications that depend so heavily on that advertising, like Canine Chronicle would die. Would there be as much politics? What would happen to the role of professional handler? Abolishing groups won't happen, but it's an interesting idea to speculate on.

Please write or call. I love hearing from you.

Photo Hints

by Heather Drope-Marchione

A well-done, complimentary photograph of your Pomeranian may serve many purposes for you and your kennel. It can enhance your calls when framed, sell puppies when shown to prospective puppy buyers, used in an advertising campaign or record your dog for posterity.

A professional dog photographer will do the best photo that he is capable of and charge you a fee for his time, knowledge and expenses.

If you are going to obtain the services of a canine photographer then so be it. But if you want to have some fun, and maybe get lots of shots of your Pomeranian and not have to pay a large price, then read on!

I am not going to get into a discussion about which type of camera you should have or the kind of film. You can read any photo manual on that subject. Use the camera that you already have and the film that goes with it.

What you do need is a steady hand, a couple of rolls of film, two doggy friends (human) to assist, and a day or the better part of it at your disposal.

And, of course, you need a dog!

First, start with a well groomed dog that's done out well enough for you to put in the show ring. Do any trimming you might need to do a day or so ahead. As well, have him bathed and fluffed dry. Neglecting anything will show up in the prints and may just ruin what could have been the best photo of your dog's life. Take this care even if it's a good bitch that's never been in the ring. She will be thrilled with all the extra primping and her attitude will show up on the prints.

Now that you've got the dog done out, some location planning is in order. You will want to think about an area that has a fairly simple background. No fences, posts, cars or other distracting things for your background view. Recreation areas and parks are prime spots. Ask yourself if you want woods, rocks or green fields behind the dog. Look for short open grass so as not to lose the dog's legs.

Better yet, a small size gravel is a good medium for the Pom to stand on. With those problems solved days in advance, then all you have to do is find a lead that the Pom can wear that will be approximately the same color as the background. Heavy poly fish line is see-through and you can make a lead that will be almost invisible. The idea is to have some control over the dog but not to have a conspicuous line glaring out at the viewer from the photograph and taking the eye away from the main subject.

I suggest that you have two people to help — one to hold the dog on the lead and the other to distract or get his attention. At this point I must warn you that too many attention attracting noises from your helpers will just bore the dog so have them say nothing to the dog until you are ready to shoot the photo. Only then can they talk to him. In fact, I find that the holder of the lead should say nothing at all to the Pom.

If you are near a recreation area, ball park, etc., let the little fellow look around and if he wants to bark at children or some person staring at the whole proceedings, then let him. That's when the best shots are obtained. In my case I've used my eight year old son who Poms hate on sight and stand him about 30 feet off in the direction that I want the dog looking and have him do somersaults and head stands. THAT's a sight guaranteed to make any Pomeranian stand on his toes and stare.

Remember to start the whole session in a good frame of mind. Be relaxed, cheerful and patient. That's why you need the best part of the day. Try not to get tense. If you find yourself getting uptight then stop and play with the dog, give him a tidbit and maybe the both of you could stand a refreshing drink.

Don't do a lot of setting up (stacking) of his legs. You will get a more natural look if he will walk into a stance. There are not many dogs that will look bad if they are on their tiptoes looking and waiting for something in the distance to move.

At this point you should know which view will show off the fine points of the candidate. I suggest looking in breed magazines and trying all the angles that appeal to you. Now you can see why I said to use a couple rolls of film.

So as not to give your Pom a dwarf-like

ACROSS CANADA

Chris Heartz
P.O. Box 1259
Truro, Nova Scotia
Canada
B2N 5N2

This month's column was supposed to be dedicated to the Top Poms in Canada. Unfortunately the positions are unavailable at this point in time because they are being contested. It would be unfair to all parties concerned to make any announcements until the results are official again.

June 20th will be the First National Specialty for the Pomeranian Club of Canada. It promises to be a grand event. It is held in conjunction with the Vancouver International Dog Shows in Vancouver B.C. The judge will be the well-known all rounder, Mr. Melbourne Downing of Maryland.

Money raising projects have been going on all over the country for the event. Here in the east a group of Pom fanciers held a match on one of the worst days of winter. Money was raised in spite of it and special thanks should go to Michele and Frankie McDonald for their efforts. Michele and her mother are also Trophy Chairpersons and have been overwhelmed by the donations of cash and items received from all over the country. Since everything must be shipped from one end of Canada to the other, they are still looking for any more cash donations they can get in. Out in B.C., members Joan Grant, Till Labovich and Gerda Hill are busily working to make our first specialty a huge success.

It's still early for shows here in Canada but Natalie Dunfee is off to a good start with her Ch. Great Elms Shining Star, co-owned by Carolyn Roberts. They have recently won their 13th all-breed Best in Show! He only needs 3 more for the record in Canada. Speaking of records, Dorothy Jones recently finished her girl Ch. Onabrook's Pride and Purpose, who was our Medallion's 20th champion in Canada.

My husband John has been showing Chula's Lulabye Dragon for Rex and Betty Bell of Vermont and at this writing she just needs a couple of points to finish in Canada. This adorable orange girl was bred by Norma Gad of El Paso, TX. Norma, who has produced many good ones over the years, is one of those lovely ladies who shares her knowledge and her puppies with others.

While bathing Poms the other day I came across something that works really well. Probably everyone with Poms is plagued with that fine hair behind the ears that never seems to stay fluffy for very long. My husband uses dish detergent to get coated dogs (Lhasas, Shih Tzus, etc.) out of oil. The kind that "cuts through grease" is the best (Lux). A couple of drops lathered in behind each ear and left while you bathe the dog in your regular shampoo, and rinsed out as usual really does the trick.

Till next time . . .

appearance, lie on your stomach to be on the same level he is. There is nothing worse than a shot that looks down on the dog. All that does is show how many weeds are in the grass and make the Pom look like a weasel.

The other thing to be aware of is a curling tongue. Don't bother wasting film by shooting when the dog's mouth is open. It makes him look like he's about to expire from lack of water.

Lastly, try for an overcast but bright day. Just after a rain is great for the dogs' color but not for poor you, out in the wet grass crawling around on your belly. It would be better to wait for the grass to dry anyway, otherwise your Pom will end up with wet feet and legs in the photo.

With lots of luck and planning you should be able to take a couple of nice shots out of the rolls of film. The ugly ones you get to throw away and not let anyone else see. Just show the good ones and no one's the wiser. It's quite normal to have only a shot or two turn out well and the rest be awful. Who cares anyway? It only takes one photo to sell someone on the fact that you have a nice Pom.

Happy Shooting!

THE DOG GAME

by Nigel Aubrey-Jones

At a recent doggy get-together the mention of dogs being worthy of the title of Champion was brought up. What started it was the comment by one judge that he recently had become aware of what the "Challenge Certificate" meant at English shows. In order to become an English Champion a dog must win three Challenge Certificates under three different judges, and one of the Challenge Certificates has to be won after the dog is one year old, regardless of how many Certificates the dog wins during puppyhood.

This judge was impressed by the statement that he had to sign on the Challenge Certificate before it is awarded. The statement demands that the judge considers the dog of such merit as to warrant the title of Champion. Many of the other guests present thought this an excellent idea. Some agreed that points were often awarded to dogs for which judges would hesitate to sign a statement as to their being worthy of the title of Champion. This being true does throw some light on the merit of many of the hundreds of Champions that are made each year. Another judge felt that the majority of exhibitors do not consider the title of Champion to be anything special, as they realized that in many cases it was automatic if the dog went to enough shows.

Not that I ever pay much attention to anyone who speaks for the majority — especially in dogs. I am sure that the Championship title means a great deal to a great many people. Whether its winning could be made more important through its achievement being more difficult is another matter.

Every year more shows appear on the dog show calendar. In some parts of the country entries are on the increase — in others on the decline. With boring regularity more and more people are being approved to judge in order for the demand created by the number of shows satisfied. The dogs exhibited at these shows need handlers, and so the numbers game continues and more and more handler licenses are issued every month. In the meantime, there are exhibitors who express concern about the value of the title "Champion." Some complain that it is just too easy to obtain. Others, with just as much compassion, think that it is too difficult! Many state that judges do not withhold points often enough when dogs are unworthy of the title of "Champion." With the tremendous popularity of dogs, shows, entries, judges and handlers, it would be quite easy to assume that "Everything in the garden is lovely," as the vicar used to say. But is it?

As long as the present system exists — that of there being only match shows and point shows, with each and every one of them holding the exact amount of merit — there will always be what some people call "cheap Champions." There are only two places for the dog, the exhibitor, judge and handler to go. Once a novice has savored the taste of a lucky win at a point show, his opinion of the match show wins diminishes as he considers them nothing more than ideal training ground for puppies — which is what their original purpose was. There is no intermediate area for exhibitors, judges, or handlers — and we must not forget that one important part of the sport, the dog — to gain intermediate ring experience and do some growing up, other than in the point show. Sometimes the results are a lucky and unjustifiable win, or, in reverse, an equally unlucky and unjustifiable loss, due to a dog being out of its depth against the more mature and seasoned competition.

An "intermediate" dog show has been mentioned and discussed many times in the past. There have been many sensible and practical suggestions made regarding the importance of grading dog shows. There is a need for an area between the match show and the point show which would open up a tremendous area to gain knowledge and experience. Some countries have what they call an open show. It is a show open to all dogs, but no points are awarded toward a title. These shows have grown into large and prestigious events, and many of them are far bigger in size than some of our point shows. They allow for the "growing pains" that take

Scotia A Bit of Consolation

I wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge that Edna Girardot, due to health problems, had to close down her famed Scotia Kennels and made the decision to make her home with me and Dave this past December. Nothing could have made us happier than to have her with us. Her unending knowledge, advice and assistance will be greatly appreciated. Along with this recent move, I have acquired some of her dogs with which, combined with mine, I hope to carry on the Scotia line. As circumstances warrant, you will probably see Edna with me at the shows, either as an exhibitor or just super company. Our most recent picture of Edna is shown taking BOS at Mason-Dixon Kennel Club with Scotia A Bit of Consolation for a 4 pt. major. Also pictured is another top acquisition, Scotia Kobyko's Hobo, taking a 3 point major at Charlottesville Ablemarle KC with Sue. We will have several litters coming in the near future. place in dogs, exhibitors, judges, and handlers, without creating serious harm — which can be done when inexperience and inability are allowed to influence the careers of people and dogs when this power is prematurely granted.

What could the grading of shows mean? It could upgrade competition and increase the value of the title Champion. It could give an opportunity for learning at all levels and grant some assurance that those who are approved to award points toward the important title of Champion had done their homework and gained some sound practical experience through serving an apprenticeship at an intermediate level prior to being elevated to the top. The present system of so many dog shows, all of the the same caliber, demands that enough judges be approved to fill this need. Fewer shows with a higher standard of dogs, exhibitors, judges and handlers, would elevate the importance of the title of Champion and the quality of the judging. It would also give more importance to the winning of Best of Breed, which has been overshadowed by group and Best in Show wins. The monthly statistics issued by the American Kennel Club for registrations, dog shows, approved judges and handlers, and the number of dogs that gain their titles, clearly reveal that there is a need to study and evaluate the true position of the sport as it is and where it goes from here.

There is also the knowledge and ability available to correct the problems of growth. But authority sometimes has a tendency to fear its own strength when it comes to making even very necessary changes. If consolidation be needed, it should be remembered that had Edison not been afraid of the dark he would not have invented the light bulb. So let there be light . . . □

Protect Yourself and your Dogs: TATTOO!

A breeder-exhibitor sent a dog to an out-of-state handler. This handler, when requested to return the dog, sent a dog to the breeder which the breeder feels sure is not her dog: the markings, body shape and size, head and teeth do not agree with the breeder's memory of the dog.

This breeder may or may not be correct in her claims; however, she feels that the dog cannot be used at stud as planned, and the bloodlines, furthermore, are lost to her.

All this may or may not be true, but the point is this: TATTOO YOUR DOGS, especially if you send them away to another person in another state. It could present not only outright dishonesty or even an honest mistake, but also circumstances such as the accidental death of the handler (it has happened), illness of the handler/kennel help, the accidental switching of look-alike dogs, resulting in the wrong dog used at stud, and I'm sure you can imagine a whole lot more bad things that can happen to dog, handler and owners.

On the flip side, in that these accusations seem to come somewhat frequently, why don't the handlers insist that they dogs they receive be tattooed? It would protect their reputations, prevent mismatings, and avoid possible law suits, to say nothing of harmful gossip.

What about AKC insisting that dogs be tattooed, as they are in Europe, and numbers being checked on going into the ring? Or even being checked by vets when being x-rayed for OFA . . . and on and on . . .

CH. BEV-NOR'S TOASTED FUDGE (Toasty) . . .

#3 Stud Dog 1985 (tie). 24 Bests in Show, 5 Specialties, #1 Pom for 1981, 1982, 1983.

. . .congratulates

Ch. Bev-Nor's Statesman (Shawn) owned by Beverly Norris and Ed Jenner, shown by Susan Buckley, on his Best in Sweepstakes at the APC Specialty in New York. Shawn started his show career the week before New York and took two breeds and a Group 1 from the puppy class over specials. He finished in 2 weekends and is a multiple breed and group winner. He just took a Group 2 on May 1. He is now home shedding his year old coat and we can't wait to use him.

Ch. Southland's Toast to Bev-Nor (Black and Tan) The top winning female in 1985 and Best of Opposite Sex at the APC Specialty in New York and the Garden. Owner, Charlotte Creed.

Bev-Nor's Contessa Toast, 7 pts and Best of Breed from puppy class. Owner, Barbara Nagy.

Ch. Bev-Nor's Lady Diane, on becoming a new champion. Owner, Donna Lynnwright.

Southland's Toasted Fudge for his Best of Breed and Group 2. Owner, Charlotte Creed.

CH. THELDUN'S ALMOND FUDGE (Fudge) . . .

#2 Stud Dog 1985 (tie). Fudge is a top producer each year and now has a grand total of 26 champions to his credit, including multiple BIS, Group and Specialty winners.

Bev-Nor's Fudge's Image, on becoming a new champion. Owner, Barbara Nagy.

Ch. Southland's Happy Birthday Bil, on her championship. Owner, Charlotte Creed.

Precious Petite Terras Fudge, 11 pts. Owners Claudia and Joe Pfeffer.

Congratulations to Sharon Hanson and Jane Fleshman on Bev-Nor and Southland's Rambo. In four shows he has 3 majors, a Group 1 and Group 2, all from puppy class — and at only 8 months of age. Sharon purchased Rambo at 8 weeks of age. So glad he turned out nicely for you.

Congratulations to Claudia and Joe Pfeffer on Best of Breed at the APC Specialty and the Garden with Ch. Precious Petites Gabriel.

Ch. Cheelan Chesai Star Editor

Escalating beauty, movement and magnetism intensifies with age. At almost four, Eddie is still our perpetual, loveable "brat." We are forever grateful to Joan and Bob Reilly for letting us spoil him rotten, and to Karen Holder for this lovely breeding.

Eddie has produced the same good qualities in his daughter — happy, animated and "smiling" in and out and all around the ring.

MIDWEST REPORT

by Sally Baugniet
11224 County Hwy B
Mishicot, WI 54228

Spring, Summer, Fall, Winter — each season has its own particularly beautiful look when driving through the countryside on the way to the dog shows. This spring came early for me while attending the Louisville Kennel Club Centennial Dog Show. The magnolia, forsythia, tulips and daffodils were blooming and we still had snow on the ground at home in Wisconsin. The only consolation is we don't have to mow the grass as many days as they do. This time of year I don't think snow.

The Louisville dog show site is a nice place for a cluster. There is ample room for exhibitors to exercise, groom and show their dogs. Motor homes have plenty of space with water and electrical hook-ups, reasonable priced motel rooms close by, and a relatively central location.

Now, if we could hold our National Specialty at a place like this . . . Seven breed clubs held their local specialty the day before the four all-breed shows. National Specialties could be held on the same day. As it was, four National Specialties were held the day of the Louisville Show.

Florida has a very nice circuit the first two weeks of January. This would be another nice time and place to consider for a National Specialty.

The hang-up is that our charter requires that the annual meeting be held in the state of New York. If we moved the National Specialty away from New York, we couldn't draw a quorum for the annual meeting since it is the Specialty which really attracts the members. To get around that problem, the charter would have to be moved to a different state — one in which we would have our National Specialty. It gets complicated, doesn't it? It would also involve a lot of work. Does the membership really want to put forth the effort to change or do they want to leave things as they are? Give your opinions in the Yips and Yaps column.

By the time you read this column, I will have taken four breed's Standard test. I certainly should be able to pass the one on Poms. If AKC allows me to do so, I am hoping to go into the field of judging. I will still be able to show my own dogs, but will no longer be allowed to show dogs owned by someone else. If there are some people interested in knowing the new method AKC uses to qualify judges, let me know and I'll write a short article on the subject.

Overheard at a dog show: "Are we having fun yet?"

still could smell and see his preference. With practice, most of these set-ups were finally successful with continual re-builds for protesting girls who resented close contacts with those not expected to participate. But once the right party was found, Pepper Pod was persistent and produced an entire generation that gave a line of their own to the Bonner Poms of the future.

YIPS & YAPS

JULIE MORENO

As a judge for Poms and other Toy breeds that have many colors and color variations identified in their breed standards (some being very specific) I have often wondered why our standard has not been revised to read "All colors and combinations thereof are acceptable." We can of course give specifics as we do now to those colors or combinations that might be confusing to some, but as it is now what do we do with a dog like Bonner's Pep-R-Kute Nightfire, a black and silver? I was fortunate enough to use him and saw him several times during his last years with the Queenaire Kennels. He was a wonderful example of a Pom, worthy of being in the ring and a finished champion, but for his color. It's a shame too, for I am sure that there are many dogs that have been placed in pet homes because of being an unacceptable color in the ring. I feel that for the benefit of the breed and its future, we need to concentrate on many other parts of the Pom and let the colors be, very much as quoted by Isadore Schoenberg. Sure, some judges will prefer the common colors and put them up over some of those which might be different, but we should at least provide for all colors to be acceptable and let the judges decide for themselves. As it stands there are colors and combinations on which we have no guideline . . . such as with a chocolate and cream. A chocolate sable might be excused if the judge were not familiar with the standard or the color. We have many new judges licensed for our breed and some may be confused as to what our present standard describes. I have had people come to me with Poms whose color they couldn't describe. Color, as with coat, is the frosting on the entire dog and it's time we revised our standard to allow many lovely dogs to compete who are barred due to color. Color alone should never be the deciding factor in a judge's placement.

The Pekingese fancy addressed the color issue a time ago and now their standard is far more in tune with a practical reading for their breed. The Japanese Chins are in the process of dealing with their color issue right now, but it has been about 2 years that I have been aware of their efforts. Let's not take that long and get our standard ironed out. Of course this would lead to changes within the pigment section also, as many would not be allowed if they had lighter pigment, going along with their coat color.

One other point, I still think that the ideal size for show should be raised to 6 pounds, reading "from 4-6 pounds," or eliminate all of it, except to say that the limit is 7 pounds. The Yorkie, Maltese and others are this way. We could also add, "Overall quality is to be favored over size," to reinforce the notion.

CAROL GALAVICH

It has been a year since the death of our Hope, a tiny female Pom, but I still feel I must tell what happened to her. If this caution saves one little Pom's life, it will be worth its space in print.

I know you have all heard stories like this before, but sometimes we think we are different, or it couldn't happen, but it does. I admit I was very apprehensive about the acquisition of our 2 year old female Doberman, Tasha. But after all, she had been raised by my girlfriend, around children, Pugs and Poms. Plus she was a nice, quiet, obedience Dobe having attained her CD shortly after coming to live with us. Our two house Poms, Puff and Holly really didn't like her, but managed to co-exist. Hope, a tiny premie pup, was added to our family pet collection. She was very energetic and bossy in comparison to the two older Poms. We tried not to allow Hope to aggravate Tasha, but it was difficult without suppressing her personality. After a few years, and just 3 weeks after finishing Hope's championship, I had finally grown to trust our "big girl," even allowing 12 or 15 kennel Poms to play around her in the backyard. Then tragedy struck! A tiny piece of watermelon that I dropped on the back porch was tossed out in the yard to Tasha (who loved that kind of thing) — and just that quick, with no warning, Hope was killed instantly in one bite, apparently from a broken neck. The Dobe seemed to be surprised at her own actions, but needless to say we no longer have her either.

I do not believe very large dogs and little Poms should share the same household. I will never again trust a large dog around mine.

There is just no second chance.

ANNE THEIS OYLER

I'm writing this because after subscribing to the Pom Review for a few years, I haven't read much about the Oklahoma shows. I'm here to tell you that they are fantastic! I've been going there for five days, twice a year for six years. Even though I've lost much more than I've won, I still come home happy. I finally figured out it was the people that made me want to come back. Chris McClung, Jean Sylvester, Brenda and Ray Hudson, Chris and Ron Clark, Shirley Best, Linda and Art Gustafson, and all the wonderful people that helped to put on such a great fun match. Also to make the trip more memorable, were prizes and rosettes and food. Oh! the food! What a gorgeous spread the Sooner Pomeranian Club of Oklahoma City laid out — free! Home cooked goodies too numerous to mention. It was a blast as usual. Thank you folks for your Oklahoma hospitality!

PAULINE B. HUGHES

Again I need the cooperation of many of my fellow Pomeranian breeders. I have been updating the book "Your Pomeranian" which was published by Denlinger in 1969. It needs to have pictures of our present day top winners, top producers, cute or promising puppies, and unusual situations involving Poms.

There will be no charge for using the pictures, but return postage is requested if you want them back after publication. Black and white glossy is best. The size can be 5 x 7 or 8 x 10. Good detail and clarity is important. The editors will make the final selection.

Several chapters are being added so your suggestions and personal information may well find a place in the book. I want it to be as comprehensive as possible.

Please include all picture data. Don't put it on the back of the picture where it might interfere with the reproduction. Send your material directly to me as soon as possible. The manuscript is almost ready.

CLAIRE FLESNER

First of all, my congratulations to Phyllis on the Pom Review's win in the Dog Writer's contest. Fantastic! What a way to go! You have really done a great job with the Review.

I do have a complaint. In Sam Zaneoff's account of the obedience demonstration at the Specialty Show he states, "For the first time at our National Specialty, we saw an obedience demonstration." This is not a true statement. Ten years ago there was an obedience demonstration given, narrated and demonstrated by Gladys Dykstra and her Am. Can. Ch. Topaze Lady Jennifer, Am. Can. CD, Am. CDX. Also participating were Sally Misura and her Boda's Topaze Lady Pixie CD and Dr. Pat Scelso and his Paladin Oliver L'Ami de Roland CD. The report of that demonstration can be found on page 10 of the April 1976 Pomeranian Review.

By no means to I want to take anything away from Mary Vicker's efforts and great demonstration. I just wanted you and the Pom world to know that there had been a previous obedience demonstration.

Keep up the good work.

Dear Officers, Members and Friends,

Today in Rogers, Arkansas, hobby/show breeders are in serious trouble. Due to a new animal ordinance in which there is no distinction made between a private hobby or show kennel and a commercial kennel, two of our residents have already been refused their private kennel licenses, read their rights, and told they would be cited for not registering as commercial breeders. As you know, being active in obedience and/or conformation does not constitute a commercial kennel! We need your help! We came up with the following suggested definitions:

Commercial Kennel — (excluding a boarding or training kennel) A person or persons who breed dogs or cats for the purpose of sale or resale to dealers, brokers, pet shops, and other local or non-local commercial kennels.

Private Kennel — A person or persons actively engaged in the sport of showing dogs either in conformation, obedience, or field trials in a non-professional capacity. Their primary purpose is to own and/or show dogs of champion quality by recognized standards (either AKC or UKC) and not to exceed one litter per bitch per year.

Please help us explain to our city that there is a definite difference between the two! If we can get enough responses from organizations and individuals like yourselves, we hope to be able to work with the city officials to help control over-population and uncontrolled breeding.

We feel attacked as responsible dog owners whose main concern is to love and better our breeds, and to further the interest of purebred dogs. Our dogs are our families, so please drop a line to our mayor and help us fight to keep our dogs! We never dreamed this could happen in a small city like Rogers, BUT... if it can happen here, it can happen where you live, too!

Thank you very much,
Anne Oyler, ATO's Pomeranians
Heidi Smith, Davallia Ibizans
Louise Smith, Ozarka Dachshunds and concerned others

PS. Letterhead stationary will probably carry more weight with our city officials, but ANY responses will be greatly appreciated.

Kennel Review Magazine Awards Presentation and Kennel Review Magazine's Tournament of Champions — The Winners!

Over 700 guests attended Kennel Review Magazine's Annual Awards Presentation and Tournament of Champions in Detroit's Cobo Hall on March 8, 1986. The dog game's most important celebrities and the nation's top winning dogs gathered there for one of the year's most spectacular events.

The Kennel Review Awards winners came about as the result of a nationwide poll of over 2,000 members of the dog fancy. The results were held secret until that evening.

The Tournament of Champions competition is held in 3 categories: "Showdog of the year," "Breeder of the Year" and "Veteran of the Year." One must have won a Best in Show in order to be eligible. There were 230 dogs in competition. A total of $13,500 in cash prizes was awarded. The winners follow.

Kennel Review Magazine's Tournament of Champions

Showdog of the Year: Bichon Frise, Ch. Bevon Puff and Stuff, bred and owned by Nancy Shapland of White Heath, IL; handled by Michael Kemp of Houston, TX.

Breeder of the Year: Nancy C. Russel of Sussex, Wisconsin, with her Alaskan Malamute trio comprised of Am. Can. Ch. StormKloud's Oomiak, Am. Can. Ch. StormKloud's Vanilla Snoman, and Am. Can. Ch. StormKloud's Better Than Ever.

Veteran of the Year: Whippet, Am. Can. Ch. Sporting Fields Clansman (11 years old), shown by Debbie Butt for breeder-owners Mrs. James E. Butt and Dionne Elinor Butt of Paoli, Pennsylvania.

Kennel Review Magazine's Annual Awards
Judge of the Year: Mrs. Michelle Billings of Ft. Lauderdale, Florida.

Show of the Year: AKC Centennial Show.

Best Professional Handler: Jim Moses of Lyndonville, New York.

Outstanding Journalist: Pat Beresford, New York, New York, editor of "American Kennel Gazette — Purebred Dogs."

Outstanding Contributions to Purebred Dogs: The Late, E. Irving Eldredge of Middleburg, VA.
