an attorney about bringing legal action against us. Based on those bizarre occurrences, we decided to protect our printer from the same type of incidents. We have an excellent working relationship with our printer, and do not need that relationship affected by someone within the APC.

I have succeeded in getting other copies since then, but always with the name of the firm blocked out, and only a total figure.

One copy did have a breakdown, which showed the halftones or something were being overcharged for, and for which we were given a credit of a few hundred dollars. There is no way of knowing how frequent this may have unknowingly occurred.

EP: The last TWO invoices Al has received show a breakdown of charges. This is prior to his making this statement. By the middle of August, he has received three. The correction he refers to was the result of our disputing the invoice once those charges were evident. We have no way of knowing whether or not this has occurred in the past.

The statement "no one ever asked anyone here for the name and address of the printer" is totally incorrect. I have no proof, however, as all this was handled by phone.

EP: Our original statement is correct as printed in the last issue.

The last statement is correct, as I have never yet been able to talk to Gail, as only Leo takes calls.

EP: Gail has had as many substantial phone conversations with Al as I have.

As for their last paragraph, Happie was not at the meeting when Leo handed out his letter, and she probably never received a copy. I would agree with her comments that the notes taken at that meeting were not sufficient to be classed as minutes, as I have a copy of them as given to her. There was no one at the meeting really qualified to take minutes, considering the way the meeting went.

Sally did the best she could, probably better than anyone else could have.

EP: While we have no idea of content, there was plenty being written during that meeting. We dismiss the notion that any board member at that meeting was not qualified to take minutes.

Happie, Sally, Dolly, you girls move over. Whether or not the above comments are accepted and/or published, I'm sure I will now become a member of your club. So be it.

EP: We are not aware of any current difficulties with either Sally, or Dolly. Possibly this new club also needs a magazine? :)

Addendum

submitted by Al Williamson

As expected, a phone call arrived which resulted in a very long protest of the above statements as being incorrect. Supposedly I did not state in exact wording "I want copies of your printer's invoices" when I asked that terms of our contract be fulfilled, as I needed a breakdown of printer's costs in order to prepare a financial study. These words were not specifically spoken for several months, until after an audit of my books began. Leo keeps saying that such information is not needed in an audit, only their invoice is enough. I'm not a lawyer and am going on experience I had in my previous work. I found the government can and do ask for unbelievable things. He keeps saying that APC did not ask for the contract to contain that statement, but was put in by Expedition Publishing. Regardless, if it's in there, do it.

EP: During our first year of publication, Al never referenced our contract, nor imply that terms of our contract be fulfilled in any shape, manner, or form. We believe we had a very professional relationship with Al, and worked for many months trying to get a better breakdown of our printers costs for him. We have complied with the printers' invoice clause for the last four issues and will continue through the Nov/Dec 1992 issue. If we continue after that time, the clause will be removed.

I did not say that he used the words "It is none of your business" when he was refusing me the information. I said "In quite plain terms" so that the meaning was very plain.

EP: Unfortunately we read that as we were very rude, which was not the case.

I do apologize to Gail for the statement concerning her. I had forgotten that she had called me to see if I had certain information in my files, and I had called her back a couple of times concerning that. After 75 years of acquisition, my memory bank is running on overload and I have found no way to add more chips. It does cause a very slow response at times.

Leo seems to feel that Happie should have received a copy of his letter, as he brought 14 copies and there were only 11 of us there. Nothing was said about could one of us get a copy to her, and I am sure none of us knew of his concern that it be published until after we had an opportunity to read it after the meeting.

EP: As a portion of that letter addressed problems we have had with the Recording Secretary, in addition to problems with the APC in general, we can't conceive why that letter and minutes from a three hour meeting would not be distributed to every elected officer. When the letter was first discussed in our meeting, I stated that we wanted this letter in the APC archives.

I know that I talk very slowly for Northerners, and I admit that I type even slower, so sometimes my brain gets ahead of my 2 or 3 fingers and words may not convey my meaning. In the future there will be no phone calls, only letters, and these will be carefully read and corrected as necessary.

One final comment. Leo states that he did tell MV and me that he would show us the originals of the printers' invoices at the 1993 Specialty if he was there. I do not recall hearing that, but what good would it do a year after they were needed? I seem to be on a totally different wavelength. My apologies for such length.

EP: The offer was made to dispel any potential rumors from some that the copies you have received are not actual copies, period. The offer was made to Al and Mary as they are two elected officials we have dealt with from the start that we respect. After reading Al's first letter, I had a hard time believing we ever had the SAME phone conversations. At least the second letter attempts to clear, or explain some of the differences. There are still too many for our liking, and we offer no explanation, yet stand by our statements. -- L.G.

Dragon is shown above taking Best Puppy In Sweepstakes at the Beverly Hills KC, supported by the City of Angels Pomeranian Club. Our sincerest thanks to Mrs. Dorothy Keller (co-founder of the City of Angels Pomeranian Club and a highly respected breeder) for this prestigious victory. A special thanks to Mrs. Barbara Jarmulok on Dragon's Reserve Win at the San Diego Pomeranian Specialty the day before, over a competitive entry of 14.

Many years of intense research and strict breeding practices are exemplified through the quality of our show winning progeny. Individualized attention and training have put forth the glamour that our dogs exhibit. Type, soundness, and huge coats culminate to establish the GOLDCREST line.

and Charly Hamilton and bred by Jacqueline Klein finished his CD from Novice B with scores of 177, 186, 194 and 186.5.

Congratulations to all of you!

Before I close this column I'd like to pass along a training tip I picked up from a Lee Pulis Seminar. This idea has really been working wonderfully with a couple of my dogs (and not at all with a few others). Try it on on your own dog and see if it helps. Anyway, one of my new Novice dogs could only do a nice front if my hands were in front of me, no hands - no front or he would sit way too far out. Lee's idea solved the problem in just TWO TRAINING SESSIONS! Make yourself a square using 2 pieces of PCV pipe 13" long and 2 pieces 9" long (adjust the size to fit your own dog) attach together with 4 elbow pieces. you teach your dog to do his front into this square which is placed in front of you in the front position. If your dog hesitates about getting into the square which is placed in front of you in the front position. If your dog hesitates about getting into the square, teach this by removing the 9" end closest to the dog (this makes a chute) gently guide the dog into his chute on leash until he is comfortable with it. Next use your flexi lead or long line to teach him to enter the chute from a distance. The next step is an off lead recall. When he can do this with no problem close the end of your chute. The dog must now come into the square to do his front. When you can do recalls off leash with the dog coming into the square, paint the pcv pipe a little at a time to match the color of the surface you are working on. These squares can also be used to polish your finishes. I just love using these! They are light weight and easily come apart to fit into your training bag. They sure save a lot of wear and tear on your back (though if your Pom sits slowly you will still need to bend over and enforce the sit).

Next issue we'll have a complete run down on all the Specialty Shows.

Happy Heeling!!!

I wrote this myself.

submitted by Al Williamson:

Expedition Publishing Note: Our comments are in italics, preceded by 'EP:'

The following comments are being faxed in hopes of beating the July 1 deadline, as my July-August PR has just been received. In this current issue some statements by Expedition Publishing (July/August -- Page 6) require rebuttal.

Audit Committee: I categorically deny ever being told that I could see the original printer's invoices. I had asked several times for copies of these to be furnished, in accordance with terms of our contract and which was not being done.

EP: 1) The offer to see the original invoices was made to Al. 2) At no point in time during 1991 did Al ever refer to our contract, or ask for copies of our printers' invoices. Al did request we provide him with a better break down on charges from our printer, which we were working on.

My interest was to get a break-down of the printers' charges to use in preparing a study of our costs in the magazine. All I was getting was a line item of the EP invoice listing "Qty 1 Printing/Binding of 1000 copies Pom Review plus Half-tones, stats, tones, X dollars". When my books began being audited, the Committee questioned these unsupported charges and wanted more information.

EP: The support for these charges are provided by OUR invoice. That is what the APC pays, our invoice, nothing else.

Eventually I succeeded in getting a copy of the printer's invoice to them, which also consisted of a single line similar to the above. I was told that he would not furnish them with a breakdown of prices.

Surprisingly, the heading of the printer's invoice, giving the firm's name and address, was covered when the copy was made. When the reason for this was made, I was told in quite plain terms that such information was none of our business.

EP: In the simplest of terms Al was informed that it was none of the Audit Committees' business -- There is a difference. I was very careful not to make any references to Al directly, nor the APC in general, as we had no cause to be at odds with Al. The Audit Committee is confirming expenditures made by the APC. If an invoice matches a check amount, then the transactions can only be confirmed as correct. The copy of our printers bill, whether the name is blocked or not, is only a supporting document that complies to the terms of our contract. It's amount is issued on our invoice, which is a complete invoice for all services performed by Expedition Publishing. The clause that specifies we supply a copy of our printers' bill, in addition to APC copyright protection was installed by us to show above-board operations and to protect the APC. We have suffered repeated petty accusations by some within the APC leadership, and one APC Officer advised us she had consulted

Obedience News

By Linda Gallacher

I have good news and bad news to share with all of you -- first the bad...

APC President Mary Vickers lost her precious HUGGY (ANNONS HUGGY BEAR FROM SCAMP UD) this spring. Although Hugs had some health problems, this still came as a shock to all of us. My sincere condolences Mary, I know Huggy will be greatly missed.

On a brighter note -- Alice Lessard reports that her ZANNIE (CH. LESSARD'S SHANGRILA OF JUBILEE) has earned her UD!!! In July of '91 Zannie had earned her first UD leg with a 199 and HIT. Then, after a few problems in the ring Alice put her back in training. This spring at the Santa Rosa show (Alice did not remember the dates) Zannie earned a 193 1/2 for her 2nd Utility leg and a 2nd place. At Bakersfield she was 1st in Utility A with a 196 to finish her UD. Two insurance legs were added in Reno with a 193 1/2 for 1st place the first day and another leg with what Alice called an "unmentionable" score. It seems that Zannie was pulling some of those typical "Pom things" like trying to go straight to finish and not wanting to sit, so Alice decided to correct her in the ring! Needless to say, the judge was less than pleased and their score reflected this. Congratulations to both of you! Alice and Zannie will be working toward their OTCH now. Hopefully they will start picking up some points when they head to Oregon and Washington for the summer shows and Specialties.

Jimmie Lawrence and her CRICKETT UD went HIT at Baytown KC, Inc with a 198 from Open B! Keep up the good work you two! That first Open B 1st toward your OTCH is a real milestone.

Barbara McClatchey writes that her ANJING CDX earned her first UCDX leg with another HIT! Barbara and Anjing are getting close to being ready for Utility. There is also a youngster waiting in the wings at the McClatchey house. TUFFY will soon be making his debut in Novice.

I received a very nice letter from Lois Morkassel which I would like to share with you.

".....I'd like to let you know that I have realized a dream that I have had since 1986 -- to have all my Poms earn their Am/Can CDs. As of April and May, CINSULA'S CYMORIL (CYMER) has earned her Am/Can CD. That makes all 8 -- a "full house."

"We started in 1990 with preparing her for Novice, and in Nov. her knee joints were grossly swollen so we quit. In July of '91 her joints were back to normal and my time was my own again so we started back in Novice. I had her entered in a Sept. show which was really too soon, but we had our first goal met under difficult conditions when she didn't leave the ring to go to my husband. (She is my husband's dog!) She did every exercise but our heeling wasn't spectacular. The judge must have thought we were nuts! I was so excited with my "NQ" because she stayed in the ring. A month later we earned our first leg with a 189 and 'Dad' was outside the ring."

"We were signed up for the Nov. 2nd and 3rd shows in Minneapolis, but because of the blizzard, we couldn't get there. The following weekend we were signed up for the Duluth, MN show. The day before we had rain and ice so I started out Sunday morning to see if we could get through. We made it in and Duluth was still digging out from 30" of snow from the previous weekend. The judge started the ring a half hour early, which I didn't think they were supposed to do. Cymer qualified with a 190! It really helped the long drive home."

"Then with the weather and our business I didn't show her again until April 4th at the Minneapolis shows. She earned a 185 1/2."

"On May 8,9 & 10th we showed Mid-Canada Dog Shows in Winnipeg. She earned a 192 (3rd in Novice B) the first day, 190 1/2 (5th) the second day, and 192 1/2 (5th) the third day. Quite a rewarding trip for a 7 year old dog."

"Diane Bauman's methods really helped and special friends that I train with have been great problem solvers and support while we worked with 8 very different personalities to achieve our Am/Can CDs."

"Reading about others efforts in the magazines is always an inspiration. I appreciate the people who will report wins that have scores below the 190s, not everyone can have high scores, and when the CD is printed after a dog's name, it doesn't list the scores or the placements. That someone cares to work with a dog is SPECIAL. That someone will take a NQ and learn from it -- evaluate how to get your point across to the dog is VERY SPECIAL. Not everyone can have high scores. All dogs are not the same, nor are all trainers and exhibitors the same. If all dogs could get high scores the testing would be re-evaluated and made more difficult. A 171 can be very special and exciting. Please keep reporting all scores when possible."

Thanks Lois, your letter is a real inspiration to all of us! We should all try to remember that an Obedience title, regardless of the scores earned, takes dedication, hard work and a special bond between dog and trainer. When the shows are over, all of us, those that earn high scores and those that earn a 170, all have the same reward. A very special companion that because of the time, training, and love we have put into him, is a joy for life.

There were no new UD or CDX titles listed in the May or June AKC Awards. Our new CD's are as follows:

JOHN-CODY'S MISSY CRUMPET owned by Carlota & John Cloney and bred by Leigh Bruner finished her CD from Novice A with scores in the mid 180's.

SMOKEY'S ELVIS PARSLEY owned by Garrett O'Dell and bred by Ina Kniffin finished his CD from Novice B with scores in the mid 180's and a 3rd place at the American Pom Club Specialty in February.

HEARTLAND'S TYLER ELFKIN owned by Judy Collier and bred by Rose Hartman finished his CD from Novice B with scores of 192 - 177 and 186.

Pom Club of Michigan, Inc. Specialty Show By Evelyn Conley

The Pomeranian Club of Michigan, Inc. held its annual Spring Specialty show on Sunday, May 24, 1992 in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Although the weather left a little to be desired, the Specialty was very successful with a total entry of 60 dogs, with two lovely ladies for judges, doing sweepstakes and regular classes, what more could you want? And to top off a fine show, a hospitality room was available where exhibitors, breeders, judges, fanciers and friends got together for lots of good food and a good time.

Our show started when Ms. Nadine Hersil entered the ring as our Sweepstakes judge. For her Best In Sweepstakes, she selected Tomho Strutting Muskrat, owned by Tommi/Sandi Hooban, and shown by Robert Blank. Her choice for Best Opposite Sex in Sweepstakes went to Jan Shars Color Me Fancy, owned by Jeanne Blank and shown by Ron Feyh.

To show our thanks for doing such a tough job, Nadine Hersil was presented a plaque from the club.

Then the Regular Classes began with Mrs. Clover Allen, a very lovely person and gentle with the dogs. For her Winners Dog and Best of Winners she selected Larron Mark Mo' Dust owned by Judy Shearer and shown by Ron Feyh. This nice win finished Mo. The Reserve Winners Dog went to Mercer's Mostly Duke, owned by Evelyn Conley &

Evelyn Newyear and shown by Rollie Conley.

Best in Specialty went to A/C Ch.

San Diego Pom Club Specialty

By Margaret Ontiveros

The theme for this year's Summer Specialty was "The Pomeranian: A Timeless Tradition." Naturally, the trophies had to reflect the theme, so clocks made of California redwood were beautifully made and lovingly presented to all who received ribbons. The three top awards were clocks made of dark red burlized redwood. The winners and reserve winners received 10" Anniversary Clocks. The first placings received large Pomeranian silhouette cutout clocks and the second through fourth placings received medium Pomeranian silhouette cutout clocks.

After the close of the show, all exhibitors and Pom lovers gathered between the motorhomes of Fern Rodrigues and Daniel & Margaret Ontiveros for a sumptuous potluck feast and gab session. It was followed by a money-making drawing for many items including a Pom bed or two, food and grooming aids. In the evening, some of the attendees participated in a potluck barbecue and continued the gab fest until late in the night. A good time was had by all.

all your dogs and your entire house and kennel. Yours is a private home, not a public place of business. It is certainly all right to keep sick or out-of-coat dogs or bitches with puppies in the nest out of sight.

If the buyer says he does want the dog, offer him a chance to go home and think about it (especially if he has never owned a Pom before). Discourage spur-of-the-minute, whim buying. (That's what pet shops rely on). Most people, however, don't want to let that adorable little fuzz ball get away.

If you are dealing with someone long distance, all information must be exchanged by mail or phone. Most likely, the prospective buyer is looking for a show dog or breeding stock, and knows something about Poms. It is essential that your description of the dog be as detailed and HONEST as possible. Tell why you are selling the dog. Include any flaws in your description. Then let the buyer decide whether he can live with big ears or light eyes or a tail that cuts to one side. Better that than have him discover when the pup gets off the plane that it has the one fault he hates the most and the poor puppy must be shipped back. Send several pictures of the pup, as well as pictures of the sire and dam when you send the pedigree.

SENDING THE PUPPY HOME: Once the terms of the sale have been agreed upon, try to answer fully all questions on care and training. You will, of course, urge them to take the puppy to a veterinarian within forty-eight hours as required by our code of ethics. (The Commonwealth of Virginia's Consumer Protection Act gives buyers ten days for this vet examination).

I provide the following to my pet puppy buyers:

1. A complete health record including shots, fecal checks, etc.
2. A pedigree.
3. A list of instructions on how to feed and care for a puppy.

Make suggestions on how to help him adapt to his new home and how to housebreak him. Warn them about the 4 month old 'uglies,' if your line goes through this leggy, coatless stage. Tell them what to expect at teething time. If you sell a lot of puppies, have these instruction sheets photo copied.

4. A pamphlet on obedience training, including when and where to sign up for puppy classes.
5. A few baby pictures
6. A "goody" bag, containing sample sizes of the dog foods I recommend (picked up at the shows), a pin brush, a rawhide chewstick, and a few Milk Bones.
7. The aforementioned bill of sale.

I show them the kinds of collars and leads I use and suggest places where they can be purchased. I explain the use of crates and urge the purchase of one. I show them the various books on Poms, the Pomeranian Review and general dog care books.

Finally, I ask them to bring the puppy back at seven or eight months so I can give the owner grooming lessons. This also allows me to see how the puppy turned out. "In the meantime," I tell them, "call me any time you have a question."

Keep in mind that your goal for every sale is NOT the money, but that both purchaser and puppy be happy. □

*$70.00

*Special advertisement rates are in effect for those Poms that placed at the APC Summer Specialty (1st thru 4th, points, BOB, BOS, HIT, Sweeps) or participated in the Parade of Champions.

You may place a full page advertisement in the November/December issue for the low rate of $70.00, and that includes photo processing costs. This advertisement must be run on the Pomeranian that makes the placement, or participated in the Parade of Champions, but the picture does not need be from the specialty.

Normal deadlines apply (see back page). If your show photo has not arrived by the deadline, you may submit the advertisement WITH an alternate photo. You will have an additional TWO WEEKS to submit the show photo (September 15th). If the show photo does not arrive at Expedition Publishing by that time, your alternate photo will be used in your advertisement.

buyers that your price is too high. (I always point out that the ugly Poms in a nearby mall are going for twice as much). Or a Pom breeder may accuse you of undercutting prices. It is a hard choice between "what the market will bear" and not "gouging the public."

ADVERTISING: How you advertise your puppies depends on the area you live in, whether they are pet or show, how many you have to sell, and the media available to you.

1. The best method is word-of-mouth or the breeders' grapevine. Let all your Pom friends know what you have to sell -- how many, sex, color, pet or show, and price. This assumes that you gladly return the favor by referring puppy buyers to them. Also pass the word to people who have bought puppies from you.

2. I haven't found ads in the local newspapers to be worthwhile; I've never gotten a single serious buyer from one. Most of the callers felt my dogs were too expensive. Perhaps if you have a lot of pups to sell, or if you are in a large metropolitan area, you may feel differently.

3. If they are show quality, by all means advertise in the Review. It's not really the best place to advertise pets, unless you are taking an ad anyway. Same thing is true of show catalogues.

4. Local dog clubs may allow notices on bulletin boards or ads in newsletters. But check and see if it is permitted. My obedience club strictly forbids ads for the sale of dogs. Many pet shops and grooming shops have bulletin boards where you can put up a notice.

5. The Virginia Federation of Dog Clubs and Breeders annually publishes a breeder directory. Under each breed is the name of the parent club's corresponding secretary. For each breeder, the name, address, phone number, and codes for "puppies occasionally," "stud service," "champion stud service," etc., are given. To be listed in this directory, a breeder must be a member of a Virginia dog club and be sponsored or approved by that club. Not everyone who applies is approved.

These directories are used by dog clubs, veterinarians, and grooming shops to refer puppy buyers. Most of my phone calls about puppies come from this source. And it costs me nothing!

Remember, pet buyers will be local. Few people looking for a pet are willing to travel to get it. They'd rather spend $600 in a pet shop for a mediocre dog than drive two hours up the road to pay $400 for a nice one. Someone looking for a show quality dog is usually (but not always!) not only willing to pay more, but are willing to travel or have it shipped.

THE INTERVIEW: Your initial contact with most buyers will be over the telephone. As much information as possible should be exchanged at this point to save time and disappointment later. You can tell if they're vaguely shopping for a small dog, or whether they're just dying for a Pom. If they ask for a female, find out if they're really adamant. More than once people who have wanted a pet bitch have bought males (and been thrilled with them) after I assured them that a neutered male is a super pet and just as clean as a female.

If the price, sex, color and age seems to be what the caller is looking for, set up an appointment for an interview. Ask that the whole family come if possible. Do not give your address to anyone who suggests he might just drop in. For Heavens sake, don't appear too eager to sell the puppy. Of course, you will straighten up the living room and bathe the pup before the appointed hour. Be sure there is no lingering doggy odor in the house. You might want to get a sitter for you own small children that might distract you during negotiations. Get out your photo albums, the puppy's pedigree and shot record, the registration paper, and the puppy's baby pictures. Brush up the sire and dam. Place framed championship certificates, obedience certificates, and rosettes strategically around the room. Type up a bill of sale which includes the following information: breed, sex, date of whelping, color, sire's name and number, dam's name and number, litter number or AKC registered name and number and price. Date can be added later. Such a bill of sale should also include any strings attached, in addition to the purchase price -- such as requiring that the animal be neutered, attend an obedience class, be shown, or that the breeder get a puppy back. Think twice about such strings, as they are difficult to enforce. I once required that a puppy be spayed before she was a year old. To "enforce" this, I kept the papers and told the owners I would refund $50 on proof of spaying. I still have the papers and the $50.

When the prospective buyers arrive, offer them a cup of coffee. They will probably want to see the pup immediately. While they play with him, ask any questions. Have they ever owned a Pom before? Why did they pick this breed? Are there any other animals in the home? Number and ages of children in the home? House or apartment? Is the yard fenced? Are they interested in obedience training? Do they plan to breed? You will have to use your instincts to try and decide if these are genuine pet buyers or are they just posing. Sometimes people claiming to want only a pet are really looking for breeding stock but only want to pay a pet price. They may be fronting for a puppy mill or a pet shop. This has happened! A woman in the D.C. area advertised a Siberian Husky puppy in a local newspaper. Returning home on a Sunday afternoon, she found that the daughter had sold the dog in her absence to a Mr. Harrison (not his real name). Something about the situation alarmed her and she began investigating. The next morning she phoned area pet shops. "Yes," said a clerk at one store, "Mr. Harrison works here, but he's out right now." She hightailed it over to the store and there sat her puppy in a cage! She got him back, while Mr. Harrison grumbled that he shouldn't have used his real name.

Observe the children playing with the puppy. Are they gentle and patient? Be especially cautious of children under eight. (I say this not only as a breeder, but as a mother of three children). Some kids are great with Poms, but others are NOT). Be certain that the wife and mother welcomes this addition to her household. She is likely to have a large share in the care and rearing of the pup. Be cautious if the puppy is intended as a surprise gift.

You have a RIGHT to find out as much as possible about the prospective owners, to assure yourself that this is a suitable home for your precious puppy. And if you're uneasy about the situation, you have the perfect right to say "No, I'm sorry."

The buyer also has rights to certain information. He should be shown the pedigree. He has a right to see the dam, the sire or a picture of him, and the littermates. Since the dam is likely to be out of coat, you should have pictures of her in full coat. Be honest in predicting the pup's eventual size and color. If you have other beautiful dogs in your home and want to show them off, that's fine. But you need not give in to any demands to see

Helpful Hints

By Margaret McKee

My last column may have seemed a little strange because every time I had said the judge would REWARD a dog, the editor had put REGARD. Those were typos, folks; I just didn't want you to think I had a weird vocabulary.

I am concerned about the accuracy of information a novice to our breed might hear or read. At a show this spring, a friend and I were congratulating a fellow exhibitor on her major. "It's about time," she said with apparent exasperation. "He ought to be finished. He's been in ten shows!" You may have read a "rule" that said something like if the dog has been in x number of shows and doesn't have at least a reserve, he isn't worth showing. Who makes up these rules? How did they choose the number x? Whether a particular dog wins is dependent on so many other factors besides the quality of the dog -- the quality and quantity of your competition, the way your dog is presented, the way your dog shows, whether the judge is playing politics or games, whether the judge is competent or not, the judge's personal preferences, and plain old luck. I can remember several years ago watching a dog (NOT my breeding) that I thought was lovely being shown and consistently losing. I finally asked the owner, a novice, if I could examine the dog. My opinion was confirmed: he was beautiful. So why wasn't he winning? I never did figure out why, but the owner hung in there and the dog did finish. It is very easy for novice exhibitors to get discouraged. We don't need to make it worse by passing on rules that aren't really helpful.

I am sure that somewhere along the way you have heard or read some breeder claim that they can pick their next big winner at birth. That may be a very daunting pronouncement for a novice. I say it's nonsense! I can only tell two things while pups are still wet: whether they are alive and what gender each is. Even color is iffy. When they are tiny, I'm not worried about whether this is the next Prince, but whether I'm going to be able to keep it alive! Of course, those that make this claim are perfectly safe in doing so because who can prove them wrong? We are not there when the babies are whelped and when they are six weeks, three months, and six months to check on their progress and to determine if the orange male in the green collar was truly the next show pup. So novices, don't be concerned as you look at those tiny newborns that don't really even resemble Poms yet, and don't feel you have to evaluate and make any choices yet. You are not stupid. There is plenty of time for choosing later.

With the May issue, I have now been writing this column for the Pomeranian Review for 14 years. Now, that's longevity! I have worked with six editors. I have never been happy with the title of the column, but I guess it is too late to change it now. I'm still not good about meeting deadlines or answering letters, and probably never will be. I do find the column a challenge and love hearing from you, whether by mail or at shows. My loyalty to the club and to this magazine keep me going, 'cause the pay sure is lousy! Your kind comments are my only compensation and are much appreciated.

The following is a rewrite of a column that appeared in the February, '80 Review.

SELLING PUPPIES

Your precious puppies have survived their first six weeks, and you've decided -- sadly -- that you can't keep them all. So now you must think about selling some. That's easier said than done. The first step is to:

GET THEM READY: Mine get a temporary DHLPP shot at 6 or 7 weeks. Now they are ready to greet the public, so I start "getting them out." I take them everywhere I can think of -- primarily to our obedience club and to relatives' homes -- to expose them to strange people, places and dogs. I ask everyone to pet and play with them. This exposure is invaluable for developing confidence. I also begin getting them used to toe-nail clipping, ear trimming and brushing.

EVALUATE THE LITTER: This is maybe the hardest part of all. I wish I could give you a neat formula for deciding which to keep and which to sell, which will be show quality and which won't. Alas, there is no such formula. It's an educated guess, at best. Most experienced breeders can ruefully tell tales of the pup they kept that just didn't turn out and the pets they got rid of that grew up gorgeous. Just resign yourself to the fact that whatever you decide, it's a gamble.

Experience in watching puppies grow up does help. If it is your first or second litter, you may want to ask a fellow breeder for advice. Try to get the owner of the sire or the breeder of the dam to take a look at them. They have a better idea of growth rates and an eye for spotting potential. For me, the best time to evaluate puppies is at eight to twelve weeks of age. At this time I can get a glimmer of ultimate size, legs, bites, shortness of back, and tail set. If any of these are bad at this age, they are not likely to improve. Temperament can change, but you want one that is basically happy, friendly and likes to be petted.

In choosing a pup for yourself, there are a lot of factors to consider. What do you need? Male or female? Do you want to breed it? Train in obedience? Do you need a particular color? How much space do you have? If you can only keep one, look for a promising female of breedable size. I like for females to be about two pounds at eight or nine weeks. If you are limited in funds or space, don't be tempted to keep a gorgeous but tiny female. On the other hand, don't sell a very promising puppy for a pet just because you really could use the money.

Now that you've decided which, if any, to keep you must decide whether the others are show or pet quality. Then you are ready to set a price on each one. Consult other breeders in your area. I also keep an eye on the (outrageous) prices charged by local pet shops. Take into consideration how much you have invested in this litter, the quality and titles of parents, past producing records of the parents, any faults the pup may have, the age of the pup, how many shots it has had, and the demand for Poms in your area. Here again, there is no formula for determining price. More than once I've seen breeders use a "$100 per point" formula to price older dogs, and it frequently results in an overpriced dog. Once you have set a fair, carefully considered price, stick to it. You may get criticism from pet

AKC Delegate Report By Sam Zaneoff

The AKC meeting which took place June 9, 1992 was a sheer delight. During the morning session which for the first time was conducted by new AKC Chairman John Ward, was very well accepted by the delegate body. For the first time there seemed to be an air of decorum between the delegates and members of the AKC. It was nice to witness this kind of climate.

The most important item discussed at this forum was the idea of back-to-back shows. The AKC has approved a number of clubs to hold back-to-backs. Approvals have been limited, and certain criteria have had to be met. This type of arrangement has been approved for all breed clubs. The sites used for these back-to-back shows have been in the show giving clubs area.

At the later afternoon session each delegate was handed a questionnaire form which is to be sent to the AKC.

We also discussed options by which clubs would be able to award trophies to breeders, and to have Awards of Merit which would be published in the Premium list. We put this item on our agenda for our next meeting in September.

I must say I came away from this meeting feeling quite convinced that the delegate body and the AKC are off to a good understanding with one another. Perhaps the message by the delegates have finally taken affect.

Recording Secretary Report By Happeth A. Jones

June/July Agendas

Results of pending motions posted in July/August Review:

- 92-03-04: Motion to delete words in Standing Rule V-2 was adopted. 12-0
92-05-04: Motion for Treasurer to decide the location of the APC bank accounts was adopted. 11-0
92-05-11: Motion to not charge commercial rates was adopted. 11-0
92-05-14: Motion that the Board must have time to read and discuss the PR contract before signing was adopted. 11-0

Motions:

- 92-06-10: Audrey Roberts moves that the records of the Virginia savings account be forwarded to AI. If this has already been done then this motion can be dismissed. Seconded by Happeth Jones. Motion adopted 10-0.
92-06-11: Audrey Roberts moves that Fran Stoll write to the Dallas Fort Worth Pom Club and remind them of the summer specialty guidelines and request they submit their judges for our approval. Seconded by Happeth Jones. Motion adopted 11-0.

Pending Motions:

- 92-06-03: Happeth Jones moves that before our general meeting in February a form on which one can write motions be issued to the members. The motions must be returned to the Board in time to be on the Presidents Agenda for the general meeting. This should give the membership more participation in the club. Seconded by AI Williamson. Motion up for voting.
92-06-06: Sally Baugniet moves that we drop the monthly reports on breed titles from AKC beginning with June 30, 1992. Seconded by AI Williamson. Motion up for voting.
92-06-23: Audrey Roberts moves that any comments Mr. or Mrs. Garvey would like printed in our magazine be first submitted to this board for approval. Seconded by AI Williamson. Motion up for voting.
92-06-09: Mary Vickers moves that the Board approve Jean Schroll as chairman and Dolly Trauner on a By-laws committee. Needs a second.
92-07-10: Happeth Jones moves that any ad that can be construed as an attempt to damage the reputation of another person must be referred to the entire Board of Directors for a determination before it can be published. Needs a second.
92-07-13: Sally Baugniet moves that a Sunshine Committee Chairman be appointed. Their name published along with directions to contact the Chairman with names of members sick enough to have been confined to the hospital for a period of time and/or congratulations on a new baby. Needs a second.
92-07-16: Happeth Jones moves that Section 2, H of the Constitution is and should be interpreted as referring to the public disclosure of the results of the election and does not preclude private communication of the results to the winners prior to that time. Needs a second.

- 92-07-17: Jean Schroll moves that we try having our 1994 Winter Specialty at the Kentucky Cluster and see what happens. Needs a second. (Will need membership approval also).

Comments:

The following were elected for membership: Paul & Barbara Gates, Xiomara Larson, Dianne Kieffer, Barbara & Henry Weiman, Laureen Ivey, Basi Krzewicki, Marsha Hartman, Karen M. & Michael Crawford, Berthe C. Corwall, Christine Z. Caplan, Jeananne & Robert Blank. More details will be in the membership report.

The nominating committee for our next elections are Jean Schroll Chairman, Dolores Watts, and Nadine Hersil.

The Treasurer has opened up a savings account for APC. As of this writing the Treasurer still has not received an original invoice for printing costs.

The Board has received a letter from a Marketing firm claiming to be buying dogs for another country that supposedly has a diminished dog population. This firm wants us to mention their company in our publication so you the dog breeders can contact them directly to sell puppies. There is no name on this letter just an address. They want large numbers of dogs. They did not go through AKC. If a country needed dogs you would think they would have gone through AKC. BE AWARE!

If you are not happy about something please let us know. We genuinely want to do what is best for this club and its members.

Glen Iris Castle Secret

(Ch. Glen Iris Ivanhoe x Ch. Janesa's Glen Iris Sorceress)

In limited showing as a puppy, 'Secret' is well on her way to her breed title. She is a very beautiful, typey puppy and is maturing into a gorgeous bitch. She is one of our newly acquired foundation bitches and we are looking forward to next spring, when she'll be bred.

Secret would like to send 'licks + kisses' to her breeders: Dr. Cheryl Jackson, Joel Taylor and Hiram Stewart, AND I would like to say thank you for such a beautiful bitch!

I have several show prospect puppies for sale to proper homes.

UPDATES By Mary Vickers

the president*

I've been excited for weeks. Shortly after this deadline, I'm leaving on a jet plane for the Pacific Northwest. It is SPECIALTY TIME!

Brush Prairie, Washington will be the site of 3 (count them, 3) Pom Specialties followed by 3 all-breed shows. For anyone with a Pom be they in breed or obedience, that is 6 shows. Six times to show off your Pom.

Entries are pretty good. The APC Summer Specialty has 124 dogs for a total of 175 entries. Puget Sound Pom Club and Columbia Pom Club have nearly the same. Obedience at the APC has 25 entries. Of course Linda Gallacher has at least 5 of those entries. As obedience chairman she wants everyone who qualifies to get a legal "leg." Despite everyone saying they are coming, she knows things happen and it only takes 6 at a Specialty trial for official legs. So Linda is providing "insurance."

It has been six years since the Summer Specialty was at Brush Prairie. I have many fond memories of that time. Good food for one. I remember a table spread that kept being replenished for days. To Jean Schroll, who is the catalyst for this event -- Jean, that glass-blown Pom statue which was THE trophy the last time, gets dusted weekly. I can't wait to see what it is for 1992. Sincerely hope I can take one home, whatever it is.

Hockinson Field is a unique place. I can't remember if just the Greater Clark County KC was involved or if Portland KC came in, but someone purchased several acres of land just to have dog shows. It was written up in the AKC Gazette a few years back. It is very pro dogs and exhibitors. They have even landscaped so that when the trees grown they will shade the rings! Besides having a club "house" for meetings and such (like pay phones), there is THE WALL. This wall is one of the greatest places in the country to have your picture taken when you win. Many of you will remember it as the backdrop for the picture "Obedience Specialty -- Not Yet." You can bet I have something in mind for the wall and obedience this time. Especially as it will be the APC's 2nd obedience trial.

New York and even placing at the Annual National Specialty is THE place to be. Don't discount the Summer Specialties. The win is very prestigious and you can bring your family along to enjoy the local sights. In case you want to mark your calendars, rumor has it that the Houston Pom Club has just voted to come in with Dallas-Ft Worth, and the APC for another 3 days of Specialties in September 1993. Followed by 3 all-breed shows. Looks like we are doing it again.

'93 Dallas-Ft Worth -- '94 La Cajun (Louisiana) -- '95 Baltimore (Maryland)

POSTSCRIPT 7/14/92

I got to do it again. At the APC dinner, I got up and announced lower priced ads for those winning at the Summer APC Specialty Cluster.

Those winning a placement (1st thru 4th, points, BOB, BOS, HIT, Sweeps) or in the Parade of Champions are entitled to place an ad in the Nov/Dec Specialty issue of the Review

COVER STORY

CH. GOLDEN AIRES KIP A WEE HEART

On the cover we are pleased to feature our *Champion Golden Aires Kip A Wee Heart, the little guy who is helping us to fulfill our dreams...

Kip was a beautiful puppy always full of himself and demanding attention. Sometimes, his attitude and animation have been hard to contain. This youngster started his winning ways with a four point major at eight months, followed by BEST OF BREED wins over specials from the 9-12 month puppy class.

We expect great things from Kip in the specials ring this fall with JEAN SCHROLL.

He has proven himself as a producer with some beautiful babies growing up at Wee Hearts and Golden Aires.
