COVER STORY

CH. JAN-SHARS MOUNTAIN DEW

Dewey has indeed been a dream come true! I first saw him on a video at 6 months of age sent to me by his breeder Sharon Hanson. I knew he was the dog for me! Many of you saw him in NY, his first time as a special; winning an APC Award of Merit, and many fans. He has since won numerous Group placements, as he is learning how to be the ultimate show dog. Most important is what he will do as a sire. We currently have some gorgeous pups out of him, to be shown in early 1993. I would like to thank Agus Kosasih (Indonesia) for trusting my judgement on Dewey, and for your constant support. To his breeder Sharon, thanks for sending me your best! Last, but not least, thanks to my good friend Sue Malek for handling Dewey to many wins while I'm on "Maternity leave."

UPDATES By Mary Vickers

I am going to ask you to play a little game right now as you read this. What I am asking you to do is read the following three paragraphs, then sit back and think about it before you read further. Fantasize a bit. Let your imagination run wild. Make sure you are comfortable.

Begin now...

Wherever you are sitting at the moment, look around you. Are you drinking coffee or soda? Look at the glass, the cup. Look at the furniture in your room. Are there pictures of your favorite Pom around? Your family? Look at them. A TV? Look at it. Is there a lamp on? Think about the light that comes from that lamp. Will your telephone ring interrupting your reading? Are there books around? Magazines? Paperwork -- things like AKC registration forms that you were going to fill out and send? Letter to friends or bills you are intending to pay later? Look at your collection of Pom figurines. Pick your favorite, the one you would not give away for love or money. Look at the clothes you are wearing now.

When you have looked at all the things around you that you take for granted, imagine, if you will, that the only thing left in your room is you; the clothes you are wearing; the chair you are sitting on. All else is gone!

Think about that for awhile and then continue reading.

You can try but you can't really imagine how it feels to have all your possessions, all the things you take for granted, gone. Those who have been through something devastating can.

Hurricane Andrew damaged Southern Florida and parts of Louisiana in late August. There are no members or subscribers of the APC or Pom Review in the "tent city" area of Florida. Well-known Pom exhibitor, Tony Cabrera lives right on the fringe. He had no electricity or useful water for a time, but escaped almost unscathed.

Morgan City, LA is a different story. There are 3 APC members there, Jerrie Freia, John Lewis and Brandy Williams. THEY ARE FINE, all have minimal physical damage of some sort, but that has been corrected. Some psychological damage probably remains.

I do know that all 3 heeded the evacuation order. Jerrie and Brandy went to their respected families, John & Adam headed for a motel in Baton Rouge. I know that Jerrie packed her car with Poms, some dog supplies and their AKC papers and didn't pack any clothes. One of her many wishes during her "exile" was a dry pair of shoes. All three were worrying about what they would find on their return -- if anything. As both Jerrie and John live in mobile homes, the possibility that nothing would exist was strong.

As each drove back to their developments, spirits sagged as they saw the devastation. Some houses, some places they knew well were not there or not livable. Luckily, both mobile homes a few blocks away from each other were up-right and in place. Trees were down, fences swayed and doors were hard to open, but they were intact and personal possessions remained. The damage was controllable.

Brandy Williams lives in a brick house, she lost a roof, or part of one, but it was replaced by the time I heard the report that she arrived home.

The disaster did not stop there. It continued for weeks.

Electricity was non-existent. Jerrie whelped two bitches hoping her supply of batteries would hold out. She finally got a generator that made things much more bearable but not near normal. John already had a generator on his premises. Brandy survived by hooking up to a neighbor's generator.

Water coming from a damaged supply was questionable. Was it contaminated? Who knew? But without air-conditioning try keeping Poms cool & hydrated in the heat and humid swampland of the South.

How do you cook without electricity or gas? You don't. You eat out of boxes and cans, especially if you have a manual can opener. You could barbecue outdoors. But when your meat supply was refrigerated or in a freezer without power for days, you dare not use that. If you have gasoline you drive to the shelter for a hot meal. Remember that electricity is needed to pump gas. Gas was in short supply.

Phone service was erratic. Many of us could call into the area sometimes getting a connection, but maybe not the house you wanted. Weeks went by before they could call out. Even then there were disconnects.

They are surviving. They are very lucky. As you read this life probably back to normal.

Although we have no members or readers in Florida, their plight continues and will for a long time. Considering the large number of Poms in the country, there must be Poms there somewhere. If not Poms, other dogs. If you haven't already done so, open your pocketbook. Call 1-800-AKC-TELL and ask where to send your donation. Sit back in your easy chair in your comfortable room with all your familiar belongings around you and hope that nothing like this ever happens to you.

Club business... The APC Board this year overturned a long standing rule that a member can not be the editor of the Pom Review. With the next issue Dudley Roach (Queenaire, Reg.) will take the reins of this magazine. Many things are in store for the readers. A return to the original size and COLOR. Dudley has a lot up his sleeve. Give him a call at (209) 529-5270.

Tales To Tell By Gail A. Garvey

from the Editor

For those of you who may not be aware, my two year contract as Editor of the Pomeranian Review is complete. The APC has chosen a new editor starting with the January/February 1993 issue, Mr. Dudley Roach (address below). I wish Dudley all the luck in the world for a successful reign.

I would like to say that I have enjoyed editing the Pomeranian Review and have met many nice people along the way. I would be lying if I said it was all smooth sailing -- it was not -- yet, the good feelings and new friendships I have gained have far out-weighted any negatives we had to deal with.

There are many that have supported me throughout the last two years, by your continued advertising, and supportive letters that have helped me immensely. I'd like to take the opportunity to name a few: Mary Allan (Allayn), Jeanne Blank (Absolute), Marie Carlough (Rickgarbob), Evelyn & Rollie Conley (Lyn-Lee), David Edwards (ShrDa), Nina Epps (Oakridge), Ken Griffith (Lenette), Sharon Hanson (Jan-Shar), Bonnie Harris (Tresstique), Chris & John Hertz (Chriscendo), Maria Kneisler (Kneisler's), Anna Liselli (AN-JO), Sharon Masnick (Golden Aires), Evelyn Newyear (Neujahr), Marlene & Frank Penney (Marshire), Rosemary Regoni & Deena Swinney (Dar's Foxridge), Mary Rosenbaum (Bi-Mar), Lisa Smart, Brenda Segelken (Fame), Linda Teresko (Timberwood), Brenda Turner (BrynRose), Dave & Dolores Watts (Watts), and the list goes on and on, too many to mention in so little space, so forgive me for not continuing. You all have my sincerest thanks!

When we started publishing the Pomeranian Review it was merely to prove our expanded capabilities. We needed to prove that we could produce and deliver a timely, quality publication. We succeeded in doing that long before composition restrictions were placed on us that have asthetically hurt the magazine.

I enjoyed doing a dog breed magazine so much, that I am now pursuing another breed magazine. We are even 'toying' with the idea of an all toy breed magazine. Who knows what the future will actually bring, yet I hope that some day our paths will cross again!

Please send all material for future Pomeranian Review issues to:

Recording Secretary Report By Happeth A. Jones

August/September Agendas:

- 92-06-06: Motion to drop the monthly reports from AKC on breed titles was adopted. 5 yes, 4 no, 1 abstain.
- 92-06-23: Motion that any comments by Mr. & Mrs. Garvey be subject to Board approval before being published in the PR was adopted. 10 yes, 1 no, 1 abstain.
- 92-06-09: Is an incorrect number. the motion is number 92-07-09. The motion to approve a by-law committee was approved. 9-0.
- 92-07-10: Motion that ads damaging someone are to be reviewed by the board was adopted. 9-0.
- 92-07-13: Motion to approve a sunshine committee was adopted. 9-0.
- 92-07-16: The motion to notify winners of our election before the general meeting was amended to notify the nominees of the results before the general meeting. This amended motion now number 92-07-16a was adopted. 8-1.
- 92-07-17: The motion to have our 1994 Winter Specialty at the Kentucky cluster was first ruled to be out of order so did not go up for voting. On further review of the constitution it was revealed that the constitution does not compel us to hold the Specialty in NY. So the motion goes back into the Agenda for voting. It has been seconded by Frances Stoll.

Motions:

- 92-06-20: Jean Schroll moves to accept Dudley's offer to do the Pom Review in the color cover, smaller size. To begin when our contact with Expedition Publishing expires. Seconded by Sally Baugniet. Motion adopted. 8 yes, 3 no, 1 abstain.
- 92-07-32: Margaret McKee moves that we contract with Dudley Roach to edit the Pomeranian Review. Size and color of future Pom Reviews to be decided at a later vote. Seconded by Happeth Jones. Motion adopted. 5 yes, 4 no, 3 abstain. (Motion 92-07-32 & 92-06-20 conflict with each other. Our Parliamentarian says that in a case where there is a direct conflict and no set rule the motion receiving the highest number would take precedent. Therefore motion 92-07-20 will be the one implemented).
- 92-07-31: Margaret McKee moves that we notify Expedition Publishing that we will not renew our contract with them to publish the Pomeranian Review. Seconded by Jean Schroll. Motion adopted 12-0.
- 92-09-01: Happeth Jones moves that with the start of the new Editorship and size of the Pom Review, we reduce our current price scales for members and non-members to the following: (Price amounts to be mailed out on separate flyer) This scale is to be tried for the first three issues and if found to be non-supporting will then be revised as necessary.

Seconded by Al Williamson. Vote done by telephone poll. Motion adopted.

- 92-09-02: Jean Schroll moves that we revise the amount of the full page ad. Seconded by Happeth Jones. Vote done by telephone poll. Motion adopted.

Pending Motions:

- 92-09-05: Al Williamson moves that if we do poll the membership for their wishes on the size of the Review that such information as the above (regarding cost effectiveness that he has given the board) be given to them, as few people would think of it, otherwise. As Treasurer he is quite concerned. Needs a second.
- 92-09-10: Sally Baugniet moves that the Sunshine committee include sympathy cards for the death of a member or member's immediate family as defined by AKC. Needs a second.
- 92-09-11: Sally Baugniet moves that if 92-07-16a is passed, that the Officer and Board of Director nominees of the APC are to be notified prior to their election status, providing they first agree to keep that status confidential until it is announced at the Annual meeting. Needs a second.
- 92-09-13: Sally Baugniet moves that we approve the committee sheet and the potential visit list for kennel visits. Needs a second.

Comments:

The Board received a bid from Dudley Roach to edit the Pomeranian Review. He offered lower costs, color option for cover, two color center spread and is working to try to get a color cut for inside pages. He offered to merchandise the magazine and search for suitable articles and contributors. He advised the Board that he has plenty of filler to take care of empty white space; that he views the Board as his employer and it is not his place to editorialize or censure. He further advised the Board that he considers himself a professional person and will go out of his way to be objective, helpful and courteous to all advertisers and subscribers. The Board accepted his bid.

The Board has adopted a motion to reduce the advertising rates in the Pom Review for three months. If enough volume in ads and member support keep the magazine from losing money the rates will stay reduced.

There is some discussion about taking a poll of the entire membership regarding their feelings on the size change of the Review.

The Board has approved Audine French, Pamela & Warren Yongen, Theresa Vieregge, and Nancy Smith for membership in APC.

The Corresponding Secretary reports that the results of the election for 1994 Winter Specialty judges were Darrell Baker for the Regular classes and Dolores Watts for Sweepstakes (pending their acceptance).

The Treasurer sent in a six month summary that shows so far this year we have taken in more receipts than expenditures.

The A.P.C. Summer Cluster

By Sally Baugniot

What's new in clusters? The American Pomeranian Club Summer Specialty clustered with two other Pomeranian Specialties. That's what!

Three Pomeranian Specialties were held at the same show site on three consecutive days. Wednesday July 8th the Puget Sound Pom Club held their Specialty show, Thursday the APC Summer Specialty was held, Friday was the Columbia Pom Club's Specialty. These were followed by three all-breed shows on the next three days. This all took place at Brush Prairie, Washington at an outdoor show site owned by an all-breed club.

Jean Schroll was the coordinator for the APC July Specialty and being President of the Columbia Pom Club, had double-double duty. It was truly a most enjoyable cluster. Jean and her crew did an excellent job.

Wednesday night Jean and Nadine Hersil took charge of presenting a Pomeranian Seminar as the first part of the Judge's Study Group. It was open to Judges, breeders and exhibitors. I understand it went well, with lots of discussion, a variety of colors in Poms there for examination, and a great educational experience. I was unable to fly in until later Wednesday night, due to circumstances beyond my control.

On Thursday, APC's show, Nadine, Bessie Pickens and I were the mentors for ringside discussion with those judges who were there for the Judge's Study Group. This took place during the actual judging. The exhibitors of some of the excellent quality Poms were gracious enough to allow the studying judges to go over their Poms after the judging and picture taking was over. Thanks to those exhibitors, also. Thursday evening was the banquet, which was very well attended. We even had the honor of the presence of our AKC Representative, Pom lady, Janice Luginsland. She was bright-eyed and bushy tailed! But then, who wouldn't be, surrounded by all of us Pom breeders and exhibitors? Let's hear it for us! Do you know what is nice about us? We can still have smiles and a good time even when we don't win. That is what counts with a real Pom person. If you haven't reached that point, you are missing something. Work on it! By the time you have become a real Pom person, I'll bet you will be a winner too.

"Breezy"

GG's Summer Breeze of AN-JO

(AN-JO Dancin' Autumn Spectrum x GG's KP Extraordinaire)

Breezy is a beautiful, extremely sound puppy with personality plus! We are looking forward to getting her out in the show ring. Her pedigree is a Showstopper/ Great Elms combination. Breezy's mother "Cookie" is a 4 1/2 pound, very tippy, orange sable. Her sire "Spec" is a handsome, red sable with a gorgeous head that he is passing on to his get. Spec lacks only a few points for his championship. Breezy's sire, grandsire and half-brother's photos can be seen on pg. 27 of the July/Aug 1992 Pomeranian Review, her dam's puppy photo can be seen on pg. 30 of the July/Aug 1991 Pomeranian Review (Puppy Photo Contest Ad).

Heating Pad Tragedy

By Evelyn Blake

The most horrifying experience of my life happened to me on Saturday morning May 9, 1992. The weather person had predicted rain for the day and it had already begun to sprinkle, so I settled back on the couch for another cup of coffee, hoping the rain would not last long or maybe go around us.

At this time in the morning I would normally be letting my Poms out for their morning run and into cleaning for a couple of hours before lunch. It was 8:20. I heard a commotion coming from the back porch where I keep the girls with puppies. It is unusual for such a disturbance from them. They don't bark at each other. So I left my good tape that I had started to watch and headed for the porch. As soon as I got through the door between the living room and dining room, I spotted the flames on the porch. I said to myself, "Oh God, No. Don't let anything be wrong with my dogs." A friend had just gone through fire in her home from an electric heater in her bathroom. The heater was automatic but had not shut off and had overheated. They were both pretty badly burned trying to rescue their Poms and some of their belongings. The Poms must have panicked and hid so it was too late for them. There were three lost that day.

I still had that on my mind when I saw flames coming from where my dogs were. I opened the door that leads out from my kitchen and the room was dark with smoke, but I saw immediately where the fire was. "Dolly," a bitch with 3 puppies in her box, with a heating pad under it, was standing on her back legs hugging the cage door, trying to stay away from the flames. All of the girls were scared and barking. I opened the cage door, Dolly flew out and disappeared into the kitchen. I reached into the cage hoping to get the fire out and save those puppies. I knew the box was flimsy and the sides were in flames, so I dumped the contents on a throw rug in front of the cage, and threw the box out the door to the patio, leaving the door open to clear the smoke. I hurried back and found the puppies stuck to the remains of the heating pad. I gathered them up and headed for the phone. I tried to call my Vet at home but the line was busy. The puppies were screaming with the pain and I didn't know what to do. I went to the bathroom and let cold water run on the worst part of each pup. The largest pup, a female, was the worse. She had a piece of skin gone from her left leg and her stomach was blistered. The small female had parts of her upper lip gone and her stomach was also burned raw. The puppies were one week old that Saturday and I had been hand-feeding the small one from the beginning.

I was in a state of shock and still trying to think of what to do! I tried again to contact my vet... line still busy! I was still holding the puppies close, wrapped in a towel, still crying in agony. I was crying too, and in a frantic state. I ran to the bathroom, hoping to find something for the burns. I found a tube of Desitin and put some on the stomachs of both and the leg of the one with the skin gone, headed for the phone again, but called the Vet Clinic this time. It was now 8:55 and he opens at 9:00. Bunny, his receptionist said he wasn't in yet. I told her to have him call as soon as he came in because I had an emergency. She began asking questions about what had happened. I didn't have time to tell her so just asked her to be sure and have him call. She wouldn't have known what to do any more than I did! My husband came in to the house for a cup of coffee, smelled the smoke and asked what happened. I told him and he told me of an old burn remedy his mother had used. He said to peel a potato, scrape it real thin, and put the scraping on the burns. I figured it was worth a try. I put the potatoes on a paper towel and laid the puppies on the potatoes. They began to quiet down.

It had now been one hour since I saw the flames and my Vet had still not returned my call. I decided to call again. Bunny said he was with a client. By that time, I was boiling mad! I told her that I didn't care if he was with 50 clients, I wanted to talk to him NOW! She could tell by the sound of my voice that I was really upset and after what seemed like hours, he finally came to the phone. I told him I needed to know what to do for these burned babies. He started to tell me just to put them down but knows from experience that I am not as quick to do that as some people. He told me to do most of what I had basically already done, but to give them electrolyte water to replace the fluid they had lost and start them on Amoxi-Drops for infection. He said if they lived five days, they would probably make it.

The puppies seemed to be resting much easier now, so I took the time to see if I could tell what caused the fire. The heating pad was lying on the throw rug where I had dumped it, but when I picked it up, the cord was lying about 6 or 8 inches from where it goes into the heating pad. All the insulation was burnt away, leaving bare wires, and the whole corner of the pad where the wires connect, was burnt away. My husband drove me to a nearby store where I purchased 8 new heating pads, a heavy duty extension cord, and an enclosed steel multiple outlet. When we arrived back home, the smallest female could not drink nor take the Amoxi-Drops, so I decided to put her down. Maybe I should have done this sooner, but life is so precious to me, especially when it's a "fur ball." Anyone who knows me can tell you how many sleepless nights I have spent trying to save a puppy. Shortly after returning from the store, the largest female died. She was so full of fluid, she was three times bigger than normal.

Tomorrow will be a week since that awful day and the little male is still living. His coat was scorched off and he had two real bad burns on his back. I'd like to think that the potato may have helped his burns. I found out later that putting anything greasy on a burn retains the heat. I have made a lot of mistakes since becoming involved with these little Poms, and will probably make a lot more, but each time, I learn from them. I know that we must keep these babies warm until they are older, but I have not felt relaxed enough to use my new heating pads. Maybe... in time... I don't know, I'm scared! I can't force myself to put them under my babies. What if that happens when I'm not home? Or maybe just out at the kennel, like I normally would have been that morning. I shudder to think of what might have happened.

Editors note: Evelyn reported that after 2 weeks, the remaining puppy did die, most likely the result of lung damage.

A Novice Speaks

By Barbara McClatchey

I'm sorry to jump in like this in a column I had hoped would be dedicated to good things only, but I'd like to express a novice's distaste for the kind of bickering that goes on in the Pomeranian Review. There is no need, I'm sure, to be specific about any particular instance. It's just that it seems to me that the Review should choose between being a dog-centered magazine or a club voice. If the latter, it need not be more than a print out on somebody's word processor; if the former, then let's make it a genuinely Pom centered magazine with articles and interviews and pictures and reports on trials -- and put the club "politics" and arguments onto a print-out from somebody's word processor. It's no wonder that the competition Pom magazines are successful in getting subscriptions and ads. I feel this way in particular because I have started offering a subscription to the Pom Review as a trophy for high-scoring Pom in Novice A at my obedience club. (Brenda Hutton came up with the gorgeous gift certificate for it). But it is my experience that beginners are repelled by the bickering; who wants to join a club or read a magazine with that sort of thing going on, especially if you're not involved in it yourself? I wonder if I should continue offering that trophy. Nuff said.

To breed or not to breed; that is the question.

Whether 'tis nobler in the owner of a bitch to suffer the slings and arrows of outraged judges or to make a decision against the sea of puppies and by a spaying end them. (Not that Pomeranians produce an ocean of puppies, but parodies of Shakespeare must allow for a certain exaggeration).

Is your brood bitch worthy of breeding? Olga Baker is one breeder who, busy as she and Darrell are, always seems to make time to help the beginner. She suggests that the most important thing for a novice to look for in a brood bitch is a good, sound pedigree. Whether you think of breeding a bitch you already have, or whether you are looking for one, remember that what makes good puppies is the genes of bitch and stud combined.

If for some reason, you don't already have a pedigree to look at, get one; ordinary looking, even homely females with good background often give birth to beautiful puppies. Try not to get your bitch from a newspaper ad at a bargain price; you'll probably get the worst of the bargain, though of course sometimes miracles do happen. (You could also win the lottery). Be careful about buying from someone who sounds like a used car salesman, trying to talk you into buying, since good brood bitches are not in such great supply that they must be pushed to sell. Rather, go to a breeder whose reputation shows you can trust him to give you good advice.

Besides relying on a breeder's advice, the novice should learn to see Poms clearly for herself. One good way to learn is to buy or borrow the AKC Pomeranian video, where you can see for yourself what "cowhocked" means. A good quality Pomeranian will have a pretty Pom head, without big ears or a long muzzle. She will have a reasonably short back, though breeders frequently prefer the brood bitch to have a slightly longer back. The coat is of vital importance: a show quality coat will stand off the body, while the coat of a pet quality dog may lie flat, like a cat's hair. Pom legs should not either bow out or turn in, and the stifles should be reasonably sound, not popping out of their own accord. A brood bitch may be slightly larger than is usually seen in the ring, up to the breed standard of 7 pounds, but should not be as small as the allowed 3 pounds.

Olga also has some advice for experienced breeders when asked for help by a novice. She suggests that breeders are sometimes too quick to make a judgement call without ever seeing either the bitch or her pedigree. Like the novice looking toward breeding, the owner of a stud dog, or the breeder giving advice to a novice, should look first at the pedigree, since despite the fact that the bitch is owned by someone new to the Poms or to dog breeding in general, there may be identifiable breeding behind her. If the pedigree is not appropriate, or the female

submitted by Sharon Hanson:

I thought I should take a minute and give a little credit where credit is due, and that's to our Editor, Gail Garvey, and her husband Leo. I have always found them easy to work with, and they do a great job on the Pomeranian

Review. The extra time they spend on each ad certainly shows through. Thank you Gail & Leo -- keep up the good work.

From the editor:

Thank you Sharon, it has been our pleasure to work with you. If you read my column (Tales To Tell) you will know that we are no longer producing the Pomeranian Review, and it will be the people like yourself that I will miss most. Thank you again for your continued support throughout my two years as Editor.

is definitely pet quality, Olga suggests diplomacy. This dog is someone's adored and cherished pet, so while honesty is good, it need not be cold and insulting. (Remember the man who complimented a woman on her impossible hat by saying, "My, that really is a hat!") The novice to whom you are being rude now may be the Pom person of 10 or 20 years from now, and may even be judging your dogs.

Literary Pomeranians

If you're like me, when you got your first Pomeranian, you began to notice Poms everywhere. My own field being literature, I particularly notice it when a Pomeranian shows up in a novel or story, as in Andre Chekhov's "The Lady with the Dog." Gurov "saw, walking on the seafront, a fair-haired young lady of medium height, wearing a beret; a white Pomeranian dog was running behind her." The woman's name was not known to most of the other tourists, she was called simply "the lady with the dog."

In the enlightened restaurants of Europe, dogs are allowed on the premises, so that one evening as Gurov was at his table in a garden restaurant, and the lady with the dog sat at a near-by table, he beckoned coaxingly to the Pomeranian, and when the dog came up to him he shook his finger at it. The Pomeranian growled, Gurov shook his finger at it again. The lady looked at him and at once dropped her eyes.

"He doesn't bite," she said, and blushed.

"May I give him a bone?" He asked, and when she nodded he asked courteously,

"Have you been long in Yalta?"

Another Pom I noticed recently is in Beatrix Potter's children's book, The Tale of the Pie and the Patty Pan, which includes Duchess, a Pomeranian who is invited to tea by the cat Ribby. Before going out, Duchess looks in the mirror to brush her beautiful black coat. She is "a most genteel and elegant little dog," though she does eat "a little fast -- rather big mouthfuls." Asked if she takes sugar with her tea, she replies, "Oh yes, please! and may I have a lump upon my nose?" The original of Duchess was a dog in Beatrix Potter's village of Sawrey, in England's Lake District, which was, the writer said, "never much to look at herself, though a most valuable dog."

The Smallest Pomeranian

A recent advertisement for Compudyne, a PC computer company, pictures a Pomeranian on a scale and declares, "We are to notebooks what Griselda of Skyland was to Pomeranians; the lightest, at 1 lb., 12 oz." I assume Griselda was full-grown at the time. Does anyone know anything else about her? And does she really hold the record for lowest weight among Poms?

Try this:

For bait in Conformation, or training rewards in Obedience, use "hot dog jerky." Slice a turkey hot dog crosswise onto two paper towels on a microwave safe plate. Cover with a paper towel and microwave on high for about 5 minutes, depending on your microwave oven and the thinness of your slices. Turn over once about half way through. The hot dog dries firm and grease free, and every dog I've met loves it.

Send questions and comments to Barbara McClatchey, 57 Poplar Court, Lake Jackson, TX 77566, or call me at (409) 297-7383. (If you've read this column before, you may notice that I've moved. My first act here was to get a fence built, which proved on the first day to be not yet Pomeranian proof. Anyone have any ideas on how to close a gap between wood fence and termite infested ground)?

Obedience News

By Linda Gallacher

Well, I've put the summer Specialties behind me with a big sigh of relief. Organizing the obedience, acting as Obedience Chairman and then trying to show 5 dogs, some in multiple classes, was just a bit much. I'm afraid I was getting pretty crabby as the week came to an end.

Mary Vickers has agreed to write about the Specialty Obedience and the class results so I won't cover it in this column. I do want to say that it was a real pleasure meeting all of the obedience exhibitors. What a great bunch of people! All had a great sense of humor and displayed good sportsmanship. Of course these qualities are necessary when showing a Pomeranian in obedience. The most helpful thing for all of us exhibiting was coming to the realization that we were dealing with the same problems. It would take an entire column to list the ingenious things that our little darlings did to show us who was REALLY in charge. Dogs that were nearly flawless in our training sessions thumbed their little noses at us when they got in the ring. I think I may have found one answer to this - if you show enough dogs at the same show one of them is bound to do well! My Novice dogs have yet to develop a repertoire of ring tricks so they behaved quite well. On the other hand, the more advanced dogs have their ring performances down to an art and put on quite a show (not the show I wanted to see however)! JoEllen Corley's "Luke" not only varies the Utility exercise to suit himself but has the gall to back talk his trainer in the process!

The obedience classes were video taped at the APC Specialty so if you are interested in obtaining a copy please let me know.

Following the Columbia Pomeranian Club Specialty a Canine Good Citizenship Test was held. All 8 of the Pomeranians entered passed the test and received their certificates including JoEllen Corley's 11 year old "Hoppy" (Midnight Shogun UD) and "Bubba" (Del Sol's Harbor Patrol CD) who is owned and trained by Noelle Pilat but was handled in the test by his breeder Sue Collee. Sue advised me that the dog barely knew her - never the less the two came through the test with flying colors! Other CGC recipients were "Luke" (I'm A Wee Bit Flashy CDX) owned and handled by Joellen Corley. "Rascal" (CH Mar-Vic's Dazzling Rascal CD) owned, bred, and handled by Mary Vickers. "Petra" (Maranatha's Lil Petra CD) owned, bred, and handled by Gloria Carlin. "Kody" (Kit Sans Kody of San San CD) owned and handled by Helen Schaap. "Sundae" (Sunswept Hot Fudge Sundae UD) owned and handled by myself and "Bow" (Dover-Holihouse My Best Bow) owned by Amy Wold and Ingrida Gasaway, and handled by myself. I'll be doing an article in the next obedience issue explaining the CGC test.

I received a note from JoEllen Corley with the exciting news that "Luke" (U-CDX I'm a Wee Bit Flashy CDX) has earned his Canadian CD. The dates and scores are as follows: August 4th - 192 1/2 for 2nd place. August 5th - 194, August 6th - 194, August 7th - 190 1/2 for 2nd place, August 8th - 191 1/2 for 2nd place, and August 9th - 191 1/2 for 3rd place.

JoEllen also writes that they took a Brittany with them and he and "Luke" exchanged placements for each day. They came home from their 10 day trip with 2 new Can. Breed Champions, and 2 CD's. Congratulations JoEllen!

I'd like to share with you another letter I received from Lois Morkassal:

"I was so glad to see in the last issue of the Pom Review that Carol Fatheree and Dixie were written up about their agility titles."

After doing a little research, there are two other Poms with Agility Dog titles and at least one with an Advanced Agility Dog title. Charlene Fruechte with "Bear" has shown in Washington. Laura Yarbrough and "Cody" are a fantastic team from Texas that I got to see at the Lake Elmo, Mn. June event. That little dog can fly! He is working toward his Master Agility Dog title.

At that same event, Dande and I were the first dog in the first class of the day to run the starters course. We ran with no course faults and no time faults to earn our Agility Dog title. To give some perspective on the difficulty of earning titles, of the 57 dogs that ran the course that day on all levels, only 6 had qualifying times with no course faults to earn titles or legs.

This is a fantastically fun sport to be involved in. The USDAA Agility is a challenge to learn and run. We don't run qualifiers for the Regionals because I can't go to the Texas Nationals so don't want to get my hopes up on the outside chance that we would qualify and take away someone else's chance.

Dande shows in Obedience, and when it came to learning the dumbbell for Open, I am convinced that her attitude would have been totally different without Agility. When I first put the dumbbell in her mouth, she put all four feet on the bells - pushed and screamed! We worked through all that at home, but the only class I took her to during that time was Agility, as a reward. I didn't realize how smart that was until later, because we did all sorts of jumping for fun during that class. When it came to jumping the high jump and broad jump - she knew what "hup" meant and could concentrate on the form of the jumping instead of just the jumping itself. It seemed like the sessions with the dumbbell weren't so bad if she knew we were going to class to "play." She eventually accepted the dumbbell and now will pick up dimes or pieces of paper for me. Articles are no problem and gloves are a riot. I attribute a lot of her attitude and probably mine to Agility, because it gave us a game, so life didn't get too serious.

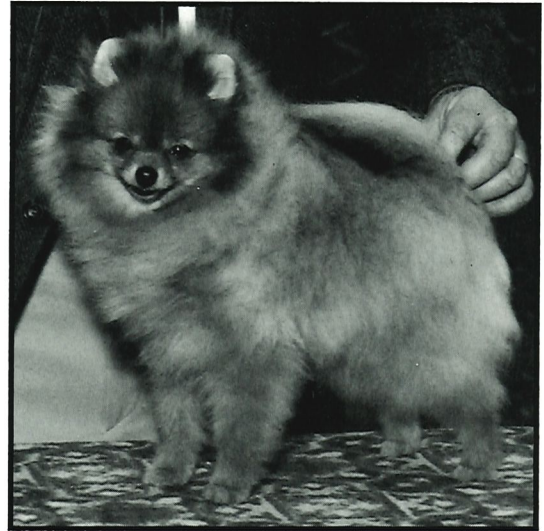

I highly recommend Agility. I have a couple of dogs who have little confidence and after learning some of the obstacles such as the dog walk, teeter and tunnels, they have a different attitude and are much more confident! I also have a couple of dogs who I won't jump because of "bad knees" that love the tunnels, dog walk, teeter and weave poles and weave loops. They do no jumping, but do all the other obstacles (I don't have an A-frame at this time, but would only use a lower setting with a mild incline for them). They are all so pleased with themselves. I actually use an agility obstacle ie: teeter, tire jump

Bi-Mar presents their new stars

I want to thank my husband, Byrl for showing Bi-Mar's Grasshopper from the 9-12 month puppy class under Dr. Houpt to Reserve Winners and the following day taking Reserve Winners on our puppy female, Bi-Mar's Foxie Lady from the 6-9 month puppy class under Betty Krouse at the Brush Prairie Clusters. This was Hopper and Lady's first shows.

My thanks to judges, Ronald Rella and Lorraine Boutwell for back to back group placements on Ch. Bi-Mar Sunny's Obsession, breeder, owner handled at the Nisqually and Olympic Kennel Club Shows.

or weave poles as a stress breaker. My dogs really have responded to this type of training with enthusiasm and "what's next?" attitudes... all 8 of them.

Also, I've learned a lot about my handling from videos of me running my dogs just for fun. I've learned to "clean up" my handling with more uniform signals and this is setting us up nicely for Utility with all the signals there.

I've learned more from Agility than anywhere else that Dande is my partner and deserves to have some say in what signals are used and what we can expect from each other. We ran unsuccessfully for the titles of Agility dog in 2 previous events. She had the speed if her handler could have made proper handling decisions, so I couldn't blame her confusion on anyone but me. She did know what to do, I just didn't tell her correctly, and that is so much more evident in Agility than I've ever seen in obedience. But each time I learned how to "fix me!"

I've also seen muscles formed that are comparable to those built up from running hills by using the ramps (A-frame, dog walk and teeters). It's a good way to tone a dog - not to mention a very sneaky way to get in some human aerobics with lots of bending and twisting.

The dog's attitudes are great and it's tough to get a handler that doesn't loosen up and get into praising their dog within 2 sessions!

Anyway, Dande's Agility Dog title makes her the first Agility dog in North Dakota, the first Pom in the midwest and the 4th Pom in the United States! (Titling events for the USDAA have been available since 1990's spring).

Dandi's full name is Kassel's Dandelion Down Am/Can CDX, CGC, ROM, AD. She was 8 1/2 years old when she earned her AD. We're now working toward our UKC titles and AKC and CKC's UD title."

Thanks a million Lois for a wonderful letter... I'm really anxious to give Agility a try. It sounds like a lot of fun and I know my dogs would enjoy it. Is there anyone else out there doing Agility with their Poms? I'd love to hear from you.

New titles in the July and August AKC Gazette Awards issues are as follows:

New UD

CH. LESSARD SHANGRILA OF JUBILEE UD - owned and handled by Alice Lessard, bred by Lorene Bradbury and Sandra Logan. She was written up in our last issue.

Rumor has it that Lois Campbell finished a UD on her Ch. Moonshadows Eye of the Tiger. I have not heard from Lois nor has this been confirmed in the Awards, so I'll have to wait until our next issue to give you more information.

New CDX's

POM ACRES HONKY TONK MAN CDX - owned by Kaye Lowe and Juanita Fiddick and bred by Juanita Fiddick, finished his CDX with two 1sts, a 3rd and a 4th placement. Great job!

TEAKWOODS TAP DANCER - owned by Patricia McMahan and bred by Laureen Ivey, earned a 2nd place while showing for his CDX. Keep up the good work!

We'll be watching for you guys in Utility soon...

New CD'S

CHARMIN'S ROYAL FLUSH CD - owned by Barb Dressler and bred by Judith Mehcz. These two really burned up the Novice rings heading for their title, two 1sts, three 3rds and one 4th placement with a 195 average.

CINSULA'S CYMORIL CD - owned by Lois Morkassel and bred by F. Gail Pell was written up in the last Pom Review issue.

COPPER PENNY XXIV - owned by JoAnn & Albert Wille and bred by Connie Brongiel was shown in Novice A and earned a 4th place while going for his title.

COPPERMIST CRUISER CD - owned by Lucille Torbett and bred by Leslie Manley earned his title from Novice A with three 4th placements and scores of 192, 189 1/2 and 191.

DAN DEE'S SPARKLING THEODORA - owned by Sylvia Dale and bred by Verla Dage finished their title in September of '91 but have just been published. A belated congratulations!

KATHY'S CASS N CARRIE - owned by Kathy Clausen and bred by Bonnie Esham did a super job in Novice A with scores of 192, 185, 191 and 188 1/2 and included a 1st and 3rd placement.

STARFISH DUSTY MILLER - owned by Patricia Miller finished their CD with nice scores of 194 1/2, 196 1/2 and 186 1/2.

MASON'S CHARCOAL TEDDY BEAR - owned by Monica Mason and bred by Rhoda Hadlock finished from the Novice A class. Good work!

TYVOLA'S DUSTY CAVALIER - owned by Cynthia Martin and bred by Susie Herron also did a nice job, showing in the Novice A classes and earning one 1st place.

Congratulations to all of you and keep up the good work.

My "Bizzy" earned her first Utility leg her first time out with a 192 and 1st place (she was the only qualifier in the class). She then decided to do Utility HER way and blew the next couple of shows. I'll be back for another try at our upcoming cluster in September.

Before I close, I would like to recommend that anyone who has not already done so - buy or borrow TERRI ARNOLD'S video tape "Attention & Handling." It is really wonderful and I've been using it with great success on my new Novice dog "Panda." The tape is $50.00 plus $4.00 shipping from J&J Dog Supplies, PO Box 1517 Dept F, Galesburg, IL 61402.

Happy heeling!

Maranatha's Lil Charity C.D., R.O.M.

(BIS Ch. Sunray's Lil Beaver x Gold Gem's Cavaliera Rustica)

"Charity Lynn" has always been a very special gal.

During obedience training and showing she became my favorite pal.

She's not only a terrific mother, but also an awesome watch dog, loving companion and friend.

Charity would even sit for hours and watch Steve pull weeds, right up to the end!

As you can see on the following page, Charity has four titlists to her name.

However, what you don't see are the numerous dual-titled group placing grand children and even a Best Puppy In Show in Canada prize claim.

Charity always shows with a smile and a twinkle in her eye when on her lead.

She certainly in every way is a tribute to the breed!!!
