Ch. Bonner's Celebrity Q O'Crystal

Pictured here winning Best of Breed under Judge Kathleen Kolbert. "Sunny" came to us three years ago from noted Pomeranian breeder Dorothy Bonner. He was finished at Western Reserve later that year under Judge Dawn Vic Hansen.

Sunny has been quite an asset to our breeding program, producing coats "to die for." He has one champion son and two others who are pointed.

He weighs 5 pounds and is a total "ham" in the ring. We've speacled him a little this year. He has several BOB's and a Group 3 under Judge Ed Dixon to his credit. We joke a lot about his many Group 5's.

Sunny is at stud, but we do not accept shipped bitches as we are too far from the airports.

Thank you, Breeder:

92-11-02: Margaret McKee moves that we purchase from Dolores Watts 128 back issues of the Pom Review at a total cost of $1024.00. Needs a second.

92-11-03: Jean Schroll moves that we publish the ratings of Poms in the Pom Review. Seconded by Happeth Jones.

Comments:

Noelle J. Pilat, Mary and Kenneth McKenzie, Wilma J. Hill, and Linda Rae Flint have been elected to membership.

The Board has received a letter from AKC regarding their February 1993 issue which will pay tribute to influential stud dogs of the past. AKC requests we send in a name of a stud dog to so honor.

Darrell Baker and Dolores Watts have sent in their acceptance letters for judging the 1994 Specialty.

The By-laws' committee has submitted their recommendations for updating the Constitution and By-laws of APC. This has been a major undertaking and it will take the Board a while to review carefully their recommendations. The major change in the Constitution would be to allow APC to hold the Annual meeting and therefore the Specialty outside of New York. When the Board approves a final draft, it will go to the membership for voting.

Webfoot Report

by Jean Schroll

This has been the year of the worst drought in Northwest History, so this is not much of a Webfoot report. I think webfeet have dried up and gone away.

There has been very exciting news in poms in the Northwest. We have had our National Specialty in July. What an exciting time that was. Over 100 dogs at all three specialties. The class wins were divided among several winners. The most consistent winner was a gorgeous bitch owned by Tommi Hooban. She finished at these shows. She also won all three sweepstakes either best or best opposite.

Robert Koepel has a new special that is lovely. He won the American Pomeranian national under Leslie Rogers--also all three all-breed shows winning the group every day and Best in Show at Willamette Valley on Monday.

Victoria Lovely's Ch. Lovely Jessie Sais So won the Columbia Pomeranian Club Specialty, and Anna LaFortune's Ch. Sungold's Short Circuit won the Puget Sound Specialty. Congratulations to all the winners.

I did not go to many shows in August so I don't have a lot of news. September began with a 5 day circuit, and there were wins by several different specials, and at least one class dog won the breed. There were not many group placements either.

We have a new show added to the Wenatchee/Ephrata Moses Lake weekend making three shows at one place. I was not able to attend, but I understand the location is beautiful. Maybe next year.

Sharon Masnick has a Pom in the NW, and he traveled to Canada and completed his championship in 3 shows winning the group one day to finish.

Sharon's Pom won 4 BOB's in Idaho, but, unfortunately, went to Canada again and did not have such a good time.

The Canadian National was held this time in Canada, with several California folks coming up and different dogs winning the breed each day. Natalie Dunfee's sister's dog won the breed two of the five shows.

Much Ado About Anything

by Sally Baugniet

A Puppy Mill--Who Me? or Who's a Knockin' at My Door?

Evidently in their quest to get at the Puppy Mills, AKC will also get after us. Exactly what the animal "rights" people want! Is AKC playing right into the hands of the animal "rights" fanatics? I will not deny the need to raise dogs in a clean environment, insure protection from the weather, provide proper food, water, love, training and exercise for our dogs, but I have yet to see or hear the official AKC definition of a Puppy Mill. Is it a place that raises over a certain number of litters a year? Is it someone that owns more than a certain number of dogs on their premises? Is it denying the normal needs of a the dog? (Define "normal") Is it a person who thinks that a dog does not need love, training and exercise? Just what is and what is not a Puppy Mill? The animal "rights" people don't want anyone to raise any animal. They want every animal to be in the wild, not for any use except just to look at.

...I have yet to see or hear the official definition of a puppy mill.

Obviously someone that does not own a dog is not a puppy mill, or--is that not so obvious? Someone who puppy mills might have dogs owned, on paper, by different relatives or friends. They may even have those dogs on the property of those friends or relatives. What ever it is, you had better put your books in order and get identification on your dogs. You seem to be treated exactly like a Puppy Mill.

A few months ago the AKC delegates voted to have people inspect the records of those persons who raised ten or more litters a year. As I understand it, that has changed without a delegate vote. I have no idea how that happened, but it seems as though anyone who breeds even one litter is subject to the same scrutiny that an AKC inspector demands or requires. We don't even know the qualifications of these inspectors or where they come from. Who, when, and how have they been trained? Do they know anything about dogs? Are we given any credit for knowing anything about dogs? If someone comes to your house requesting to see your dog records and has to be able to identify each of your dogs without your help, must you let that person into your house? If you don't want to be suspended by AKC, you do. Is this really America? Shades of the Nazi gestapo!

Have you noticed all of the people printed in the July Gazette who have been suspended by AKC for failing to comply with the record keeping and identification or practices as required by "Chapter 3A of the Rules applying to Registration and Dog Shows"? Thirteen persons paid or must pay $500 each for a month's total to AKC of $6500. This will probably pay for costs of the inspectors and AKC's record keeping. I don't know how they collect it. These people are suspended for a period of from 5 to 10 years.

What are some of these people doing? I have noticed a lot more Shih-Poos, Peek-a-Poos, Lhasa-Peek, etc. ads. It probably will come to the point where the letters "AKC" before dogs advertised in the paper, or elsewhere, will disappear. That is not to say "Pure-Bred" dogs will not be bred; they just won't be registered with AKC! The pathetic part about this is, those people will get the same price as those of us who breed for show, and sell those that aren't show quality but make wonderful pets. You know that every pup in a quality litter is not of show quality.

It probably will come to the point where the letters "AKC" before dogs advertised will disappear.

I called the National Dog Registry for information on a tattoo machine. It costs $350 initially for the kit. I suppose you would have to shave the hair off the place you would tattoo. A Pom is so small it would be hard to get ID numbers on its inside flank. Supposedly, tattoo discomfort is OK, but animal "rights" people think tail docking and ear cropping discomfort is not. The pain endured for spaying or neutering is OK, though, because it serves the animal "rights" people's purpose is to spay and neuter until the companion animal is spayed and neutered out of existence. We are getting double standards, folks.

Do some of these things bother me? They sure do. Wait until the criminals find out they can get into your homes by telling you they are here for AKC and flash their fake badges. I wonder how many dog people will be robbed, molested, killed, etc. by impersonators. I wonder where AKC will be then? Has AKC become an anti-American animal-rights organization, or have some of those people infiltrated that club and worked their smooth talk on officials just as they have in the political field and on the general public?

Thought for the month: If it wasn't for the hot water, the tea kettle wouldn't sing.

Obedience News

by Linda Gallacher
1990 Ridgeway Drive
Eugene, OR 97401

Once again the Pom Review has a new editor. I'm anticipating many changes for the better. One welcomed change is the return to the smaller sized publication. Dudley, best wishes and congratulations!

I've had very little correspondence from readers lately. Lois Campbell wrote to confirm her UD on Ch. Moonshadow's Eye of the Tiger, UD...

"We made it! UD! Bogie and I have shown from 3/91 to 7/19/91. The first leg was earned on January 23rd, 1992, with 45 dogs entered--4 qualified. Bogie was fourth place. The second leg was May 31, 1992, and the third leg on July 19, 1992, where he was second place with a 190 score.

"When I got the motivation together, Bogie got his obedience together. What a team! NOW he loves to work. I had control all along, I just didn't know it. Learning to read your dog and what makes him a happy and willing worker is 90% of the team work.

"My first UD--I learned so much! I love obedience and how close it brings me to my Poms. I did not know what 'Happy Heeling' was until Bogie DID IT!"

Congratulations, Lois!

Lois Morkassel writes...

"Labor day weekend was very exciting for us. A labor of love so to speak. Kassel's Dandelion Down, Am/Can CDX, CGC, ROM, AD, finished her UKC CD on Saturday. She had 2 legs from the previous April shows. Her scores were 192, 188, and 191 1/2 (three shows in a row). Her son, Kassel's Gar-De-An Sir Plus, Am/Can CD, CGC, also finished his UKC CD in three shows the same weekend! His scores were 189, 189, and 184 1/2.

"UKC is really fun, and I think it is a great complement to training for AKC and CKC events. Instead of the group down after the group sits, there is an honor dog (the dog does the down stay with the handler across the ring while the working dog does the heel on leash and figure 8). The recall is done over a solid jump once the height of the dog. These are the only differences in the Novice class. There are more differences in the Open and Utility classes.

"This makes a nice transition to AKC and CKC Open classes with jumping and out of sight sits and downs. If anyone is thinking about showing UKC, I strongly urge you to go ahead. More titles for your training!"

Thanks, Lois, and congratulations! I have been showing a little bit in UKC shows also. It's a lot of fun and the atmosphere is more relaxed than at AKC shows. I've been recommending that new exhibitors show UKC first to gain some formal ring experience before going on to AKC shows. It's also nice to get a Novice dog out more before that long stretch between Novice and Open.

I finished a CD on Bow (Dover-Holihouse My Best Bow) at our local Emerald Cluster Shows with two legs and scores in the low 190's. I'd like to tell you a little bit about this wonderful little dog.

I was contacted by Ingrida Gasaway early last summer regarding a dog that had been returned to her. Ingrida had originally gotten Bow from his breeder, Kathy Hartz, and then had sold him to an 8-year-old girl as a 4-H Dog Obedience project. Bow lived and trained with little Amy for more than a year; then, serious family problems caused the dog to be returned to Ingrida. Ingrida told me that she and Kathy would like to see Bow earn his CD title and did I have any ideas for an obedience home. I didn't have the time to take on another obedience dog (I already had 4 in active training at that time), but I kept thinking about the little guy. He had been a pampered house pet and was now back in a kennel situation. I finally told Ingrida that I would take Bow and try to find him a home. Shortly after bringing him home, I discovered that the dog was terrified of anything moving behind him and scared to death of large dogs (anything bigger than a Pom)! In checking with his former owners, Ingrida was told that Bow had been attacked and seriously injured by larger dogs earlier in the year.

I tried taking Bow to classes but he became so frightened by the other dogs moving around him that he could not even sit in the middle of the room without screaming and flinging himself at the end of this lead.

I would have placed Bow in a quiet, adult home at that point except for one thing. Bow's favorite thing in the world is his obedience work! All of my dogs love to do obedience, but when I put a collar and lead on Bow, he would radiate with joy. I found that little Amy had done a fantastic job of training him and he knew all of his Novice exercises. All that was needed was a bit of polish, and I had a dynamite obedience dog on my hands. Just one little problem--at this point in time, they don't send obedience judges to your home and give you titles for work done in your back yard. (Too bad, huh?)

Ingrida, Kathy, and I decided to enter Bow at the upcoming Pom specialties and also entered him at the Portland Dog Fanciers show the weekend before the Specialties. I stayed with a friend in her motorhome on the show grounds and took Bow into the building the night before. He was very frightened of the barking dogs, but we played ball and did some fun training, and he relaxed a little bit. The next morning, I took him into the building early and let him have plenty of time to adjust to the noise and the crowds before he went into the ring. Bow was very nervous, but I did a little heeling around the outside of the ring, and he calmed down some. Luckily the obedience end of the building was much quieter and less crowded than the breed ring area.

In the ring, Bow was nervous and kept turning around when he heard the judge walking behind him. On the recall, he twirled around when he got to me and sat with his back to my legs so he could see what was coming behind him! I was worried about the stays, but he was steady and qualified that day with a 191 1/2!

The Puget Sound Pomeranian Club Specialty show was held the following Wednesday. The show was outside and Pomeranians were the only breed of dog on the grounds that day. Bow was a star and worked like he does in my back yard. He ended up with a score of 197 1/2 for first place in Novice B and High in Trial.

At the APC Specialty, he again worked well. I had another dog entered in Novice so had a friend handle Bow on the stays. He went down on the sit stay. I don't know why; it was just one of those things that can happen. At the Columbia Pom Specialty, he did a beautiful job. By now there were many other breed specialties going on. While we were doing our group down, several Boston Terriers got into a big fight right outside the ring where the Poms were lying. I could see how nervous Bow was getting--he finally sat up just seconds before we were sent back to our dogs.

I entered Bow twice on the local Emerald cluster. The obedience rings are in a separate building from the breed rings but draw large entries and huge numbers of spectators. Bow was very nervous and again kept spinning around in the ring to see what was behind him. He also turned his back to my legs on his recall each day. Despite this, he still managed scores in the low 190's! I'm so proud of his previous owner, Amy, who did such a wonderful job of training him!

New obedience titles from the September and October issues of the Gazette are as follows:

New UD

Ch. Moonshadows Eye of the Tiger, UD, owned by Lois Campbell and bred by Paul and Sandy Logan.

New CDX

Animation's Simon, CDX, owned by Carole Bray and bred by Lorinda Vasuta and Darren Lane finished his title with 1 firsts and one second place! I'm looking forward to hearing about these two in utility next. Keep up the good work.

New CD

Baggy's Golden Nugget, CD, owned by Sandra and Wayne Bagnall finished with a 193 for 1st place, a 191 1/2 for third place, and 196 for 1st place all from Novice A!

Bilfrosts See 'N Choco Spots, CD, owned by Jayne Hoemke were showing in Novice B and earned scores of 195 for 3rd place, 195 for 2nd place, and 189. I wish I knew what color this dog was; I love the name (Chocolate Parti maybe?)

Pinx Frolic in Fur, CD, owned by Helen Leavenworth earned scores of 196 for 3rd place, 190 1/2 for 1st place, and 180 for 4th place. There was also an insurance leg with a 190! Good Job.

Wee Ruff 'N Tuff, CD, owned by Sheila Wheeler and Eloise Peterson first earned two scores of 190 in 1991. Then, in May of this year, he came back and earned another two scores of 185 1/2 and 191.

Animation's Ben Ali Gator, CD, owned by Carole and Misty Bray finished his CD with scores of 191, 183, and 192. This dog was bred by Lorinda Vasuta and Darren Lane. I think Misty was the handler. Please correct me if I'm wrong. Congratulations!

Del Sol's Harbor Patrol, CD, owned by Noelle Pilat and bred by Sue Conlee. I had the great pleasure of watching this team at our summer specialties where they earned their CD. They have a record of one first place, 2 seconds, one third, and one fourth. They are very close to being ready for Open, but Noelle is going to be showing Bubba at the Gaines Regional, so will hold him out of Open for a while.

Maranatha's Lil Petra, CD, owned and bred by Gloria Carlin finished her CD with scores at each of the Pom Specialties. Petra is a beautiful little dog and a steady worker. Hopefully, Gloria will go on to Open with her.

Souvenir Country Charm, CD, owned by Donna Haworth and bred by Nan Shartel is another beautiful little Pom that turned in lovely performances and finished her CD at the Summer Specialty shows. They were High in Trial at the Columbia Specialty!

Sun-Dee's Second Chance, CD, owned and bred by Dorothy and Jack Keller finished their CD with scores of 187, 179, and 178 1/2.

Congratulations to all of you!
Until next issue....Happy Heeling!

The Importance of Attitude

by Barbi Kutilek

Many exhibitors often fail to realize the importance of attitude in the ring. Even though grooming and presentation are key factors, it is your attitude that transmits to your Pom and affects his behavior. That leash is more than control; it works like an extension cord, linking your feelings to those of your Pom. Consequently, your Pom knows when you are happy or upset. And he knows when you're not paying attention to his every move.

Since you have only a few short minutes to portray all that has been taught to your Pom and all that you've learned yourself, there is no time to fumble or to forget when your number is called. Be happy and proud of the Pom you've worked with so hard, and express this to the judge by smiling at your Pom. Smile at the judge also, but smile courteously and briefly, since the Pom is the main reason why you are in the ring. You don't want the judge to notice your face, you want him to notice your Pom! Don't keep continual eye contact with the judge, because you want him to keep his eyes mainly on your Pom. If you keep your eyes on your Pom and smile nicely, the judge just may take that extra glance needed for him to decide upon giving you and your Pom that blue ribbon.

Experiment with your Pom's emotions. Find out what makes him strut his stuff, and what makes him misbehave. When your Pom pleases you in the ring, praise him! Tell him you love him, or how beautiful he is. If you are uncomfortable with verbal praise, talk to him with your eyes, or tell him by touching him. And if he acts up a little, correct him gently--and reassure him--he needs this too! And if all else fails--SMILE!

News from Juniors

by Sarah J. O'Brien

Beginning with the January issue, we plan to do a column dedicated to Juniors. My intent with this column is to give some insight on Junior show people. It is my hope to achieve an awareness of what it is like for Juniors out there, whether it be in breed or in Junior Showmanship. I also hope to inspire, through this column, more juniors to get out there and show their dogs, and to get more adults to encourage these young people who are so eager. It is the juniors who are the future of this great sport! With the guidance and support of enthusiastic and knowledgeable folks, the sky is the limit.

I myself, have just started showing within the last year. The first Pom I ever saw was Ch. Great Elms Prince Charming II when he took the Garden. My passion from that moment has been Poms. I have a lovely red sable named Whitley, who I am showing in breed and in juniors.

We tentatively plan to ask guest junior judges, selected breed judges, and other junior handlers to contribute to this column. Our purpose is to get more juniors involved and get them in the breed ring. Some of the topics I wish to touch upon are: etiquette, what junior judges expect, dress, class conflicts, and the like. Please, as a junior or "other," feel free to write me with suggestions or experiences you have had.

I would like to thank Dudley Roach for giving me the opportunity to do this column, and Fred and Pat Dieball for their guidance, and Patty Griffin for Merrymont Kiss Me Quick.

Write to me if you have news for this column at: 5869 Kingfisher Lane, Clarkston, MI 48346.

Color Genetics as Applied to the Pomeranian

by Shirley Ann Hoffman

It is difficult to condense this complex subject about which volumes have been written to a few pages. Certainly, no attempt will be made to cover all facets of the subject. Since each of the sciences gives rise to vocabulary unto itself, it is almost impossible to avoid the use of terms with which the uninitiated is unfamiliar. At the risk of appearing repetitious, I will attempt a brief description of such terms in parenthesis subsequent to the term in question.

Coat color in the dog is the result of the combined chemical activity of a number of hereditary units (genes). There are at least ten pairs of chromosomes (units which house genes in cells) on which more than twenty-four types of genes in various combinations affecting coat color are located and, without a doubt, many modifiers which have, as yet, remained unidentified. Combinations of known factors make possible over one thousand colors and color combinations in the German Shepherd alone.

Coat color in the dogs is not a result of blending of pigments as one would do in mixing paints. Coat color is the chemical interaction of, or combined, or related action between gene pairs which affect the visible color of the animal. As an example, one would not breed a black dog to a white one always expecting to produce blue coat color in the resultant get, although a blue animal could result from such a mating providing both parents possessed the recessive gene designated a for blue dilution and each parent transmitted a to the puppy. The blue gray coat of the progeny would not be produced because of a blending of the black and white colors of the parents, but because each parent endowed the get with gene a for blue dilution which is recessive and must be present in a pair in the individual which exhibits this color, provided the genes were present in the parents for transmission. These same dogs could just as well have produced black, white, parti-color, orange, sable, beaver, chocolate, or cream. Obviously, every Pomeranian does not carry all genes for production of every color possible in the breed.

As a general rule, little can be determined about the full coat color producing potential of a dog by merely observing his visible color appearance. The reason for this is that a certain gene for a color factor can produce one color when inherited along with one given group of color influencing genes and can manifest an entirely different color in the animal when as few as one gene in the group is inherited in a manner which would alter this arrangement in another individual.

In order to avoid confusion, symbols, explanations, and quotations will be according to the book authored by Little, Inheritance of Coat Coloring in Dogs except when otherwise noted.

Genes come in pairs. One gene of the pair is inherited from the sire; the other is inherited from the dam. Members of a pair of genes can be alike or unalike.

- The various forms of a gene which can occupy the same site (location--locus) in a chromosome are called allels.
- In the dog, four loci for coat color have been identified which may contain any one of four alleles and six loci which contain two each.
- It is important to remember that the "masking or concealment (dominance)" of a gene is often but not always imperfect or incomplete. Where this is the case, an animal possessing two different members of a gene pair shows visible and simultaneous characteristics dependent on each of them.
- Hutt--"One feature common to all polygenic characters (a group of genes which collectively control inheritance) is that individual animals show different degrees of the inherited trait, and in a large population one usually finds a continuous gradation range." Color is influenced by modifier genes in the color gene complex.

Color is also influenced by the degree to which a gene is able to function. One gene, A_s for black, may cause intense black pigment to be laid down heavily in the hair while another A_s gene may lack the strength to cause such intense laydown in pigment because of some minute chemical difference in the two genes which are basically the same and perform essentially the same function. The number of genes and the myriad combinations into which they may be manipulated by nature plus individual gene strength must be taken into consideration.

Several genes influence a dog to be cream, orange, red, or sable; it would take chapters to explain. Briefly, there are creams, oranges, and reds which have little or no shading of the same color from dark to light because of a pair of recessive genes which also prevent any black hairs appearing anywhere in the coat. Because of the restriction of black, these dogs can be basically black, sable, orange, red, or black and tan; however, without a breeding test they cannot be distinguished from the A^y orange in which black hairs can form in the coat but need not be present. A^y types are in the majority in the breed. Since A^y animals make up the larger population in the breed and since black can appear in the coat of an otherwise orange dog of this type, black hairs and light sable shading should not be penalized. Dogs of A^y constitution have shadings of the same color from dark to light on the belly, chest, underside of the tail, breechings, and leg feathering.

The difference between shading on the muzzle of an orange sable and a black muzzle of an orange or sable and a black muzzle would be difficult indeed to determine. This would be due to modifiers present in acting consort with the causative genes and gene potency. While many animals carrying the dominant genes for masking may have black hairs at the roots, more will have shaded muzzles which are light at the root with black tipping. Some animals will exhibit such little gene strength as to have a mere shadow across the muzzle which would be difficult to discern.

It appears that judges and breeders prefer an absolutely jet black Pom with no hint of other color present. I would like to quote Little in connection with the masking factor E^m and the black A^s . "When $E^m E^m$ (black mask) is found in combination with $A^s A^s$ (dark pigment over whole body), a superb black animal should be produced."

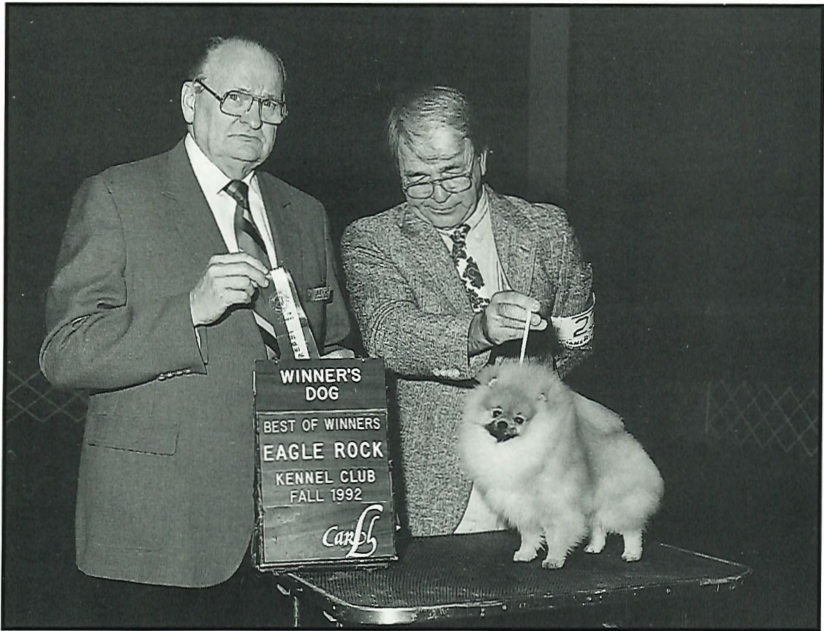

Little: "When E^m replaces E in tan-pointed ($a^t a^t$) animals, the tan areas disappear from the head."

Dallas-Fort Worth Pomeranian Club Specialty Show

by Mildred Patrick

On Friday, September 18, 1992, the DFW Pom Club held its 33rd Annual Fall Specialty Show. Sweepstakes began at 2:00, followed immediately by the Regular classes.

The Sweepstakes judge was Carolyn Crockett of Houston, Texas. She had a total of 13 entries. Carolyn had a great time judging these babies--they were all so beautiful, and she did a wonderful job.

Regular classes were judged by Dorothy Nickles of Fort Worth, Texas. Dorothy was interviewed by our local ABC affiliate prior to the judging, and she wore a microphone during the judging. The following Monday evening, highlights from the Pom Specialty were shown on the 6:00 news. They also gave her background and her activities as a judge (such as being the ONLY judge to be licensed as All-Breed in conformation and licensed for ALL Obedience classes. She is eligible to judge all over the world.) She was, of course, her lovely, adorable self and did a tremendous job of judging.

Most of the exhibitors and judges attended the after-show dinner at Robert's restaurant, a few blocks from the show site. It just happened to be Bronya Johnston's birthday (didn't say a word about how many, Bronya). Several of her friends had a birthday surprise for her--her very own gorgeous male stripper! She was not prepared for this and when she looked up there was a policeman coming through the door. She made a comment about "real" policemen don't wear their hair that long. Anyway, he came over to her and started his routine! She was a very good sport about it all.

The members of the Club would like to thank all the exhibitors and friends for supporting our show--you make them, after all. Also thanks to the Show Chairman and all of the Show committee for a job well done.

In Memoriam

The Officers and Board of the American Pomeranian Club regret to inform the membership of the deaths of three of its members--Mr. Robert Goodrich, Mrs. Lisa Smart and Mrs. Ann Hayden.

Mr. Robert Goodrich (Bob) originated the famous Model's Pomeranian Kennels. Dogs of his breeding figure prominently in many of the leading bloodlines of today. The 1993 American Pomeranian Club Specialty is dedicated to his memory.

Mrs. Lisa Smart was an active supporter of the Pomeranian and the American Pomeranian Club. She unselfishly dedicated much time to their promotion. She and her husband, Bill, exhibited several BIS Poms over the years.

Mrs. Ann Hayden's original fame was gained from the breeding and exhibiting of Yorkshire Terriers under the prefix Roban. Ann was a long time member and worker for the NCPC. For the last few years, Ann enjoyed judging the Toy Breeds for which she was licensed.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy and condolences to the families of these three highly regarded individuals. They will be missed!

Award

Our obedience club gives out annual awards at our Christmas dinner, but there is one award that can be given out at any time of year--the Golden Poop Award. This award was created by a small group of members and meant to be an inside joke, but rapidly grew in popularity. There was certainly a need for it. The actual award is a small pile of extruded concrete which looked a lot like you-know-what, and it was gilded and sprinkled with glitter. It is given to someone who has just said something insulting, catty, or tacky. It is given by the current holder, and the recipient must keep it until he or she can properly award it to someone else. All those hearing an unkind remark may cry, "Golden Poop!" but it can only be awarded if the current holder is there. That's one of the drawbacks of the award's rules. Two of our members are no longer eligible for the award as we have declared them to be professionals.

The existence of the Golden Poop Award has been healthy. We can call attention to hurtful, inappropriate remarks but do it in a humorous way. Most of us are a little more careful in what we say. The American Pomeranian Club could use an "award" like this. The vast majority of Pom people are wonderful, generous, kind people. However, it sure would be nice to have a gentle, humorous way to chastise someone for a tacky remark.

Alarming Trend

This year I have noticed with alarm a trend by shows to forbid crates at ringside. Premium lists have for many years had a line about crates must be confined to the grooming area or no crates at ringside. We toy people have assumed that this meant you couldn't set up crates by the ring and leave them there all day. We took our crates to ringside only long enough to show the dogs, then returned them to the crating area. lately, more and more clubs ignore common sense and safety and are rigidly enforcing this rule.

At Gloucester Kennel Club's spring show, they had set up a small tent between the grooming tent and the rings. It was called a "staging area," where crates could be left for only a few minutes (I think it was 20 minutes) and were marked to be sure the time limit was observed. Crates could be carried no closer to the rings. When I tried to do so, I was told by a committee member that AKC required them to enforce this rule. I'm sure AKC doesn't care. I had 3 entries in Poms, all class males. I had to rush back and forth between the ring and the staging area to get each dog. The judge had to wait while I and others did so. What was alarming was the path from Ring 2 to the staging area was filled with a herd of Rottweilers scurrying through them with a furball in my arms.

What makes this so annoying is that 2 to 4 stacked crates at ringside takes up a lot less room than 2 or 3 extra people holding the dogs and certainly less than my Greyhound lying on a towel. The rule apparently doesn't apply to those short-legged grooming tables. No one forbids them at ringside. Show committees had better wake up and smell the ground roast or they're going to lose entries from small dog people. If this happens to you, don't just fume. Seek out the show chairman and calmly tell him or her why it makes sense to permit small crates briefly at ringside, and assure him or her that if they persist with this misguided policy, you will take your entries elsewhere.

On the Road

Traveling is stressful. Some dogs travel better than others. It is an owner's or handler's job to do everything possible to keep the dogs happy and comfortable when on the road. Carry enough water from home in plastic jugs to last the trip. At the end of the day, try to find a secure area where they can get out and run. Exercise is a good way to relieve stress. I won't stay anywhere unless I can take the dogs in the room with me. I carry foods that I think they will find irresistible. It is important that the dogs keep eating.

Your Success

You have done it! You've achieved that lofty and long-sought goal. Of course you deserve your success, whether it be your first homebred champion, an OTCH, a BIS, or a national ranking. But I can say with certainty, that you didn't do it by yourself. While you're enjoying your moment in the limelight, take time to thank those who helped you get there.

Your long-suffering spouse or partner. While your spouse may not share your passion for competition, he or she has given emotional and financial support. She's been tolerant of late dinners or has taken care of your dogs in your absence. He's put up fences or built jumps or whelping boxes.

Your children. They, too, help care for the dogs. They eat pizza one more time. They hold leads at ringside, and set up and take down x-pens. They socialize puppies.

Your boss. He understood when you needed that Friday off. She was patient when you were bleary-eyed after an all-night whelping.

Your instructor. Your vet. Your fellow club members. The statistician who keeps the records for those national rankings or the club awards.

The show committees that worked so hard putting on shows and even harder putting on obedience trials. The stewards, the parkers, the runners, the clean-up crews, the trophy donors all deserve mentioning.

Your dog. He doesn't know why he does all this stuff, just that you want it, and he loves you.

Take time to express your gratitude.

The Board

As I write this, my term of office on the Board of Directors is coming to an end. It has certainly been an experience! I have served many years on the board of my obedience club, but being on the Board of a national club is different. It takes longer to get anything done. The "Agenda," which is also the minutes, is sent out around the 5th of the month. Board members are supposed to send in motions, comments, and votes by the 20th. Thus, with allowing time for seconds and discussion, it can take three months for a motion to pass. Except for meetings at specialties, all discussion is on paper, in the agenda. This isn't nearly as satisfactory as face-to-face conversations where facial expressions and tone of voice help clarify meaning. In person, there's no need to be brief and there's much more give and take. On the printed agendas, several of the Board members rarely "say" anything. Because things move slowly, or because they can't attend meetings, many members assume the Board isn't doing anything. I'm delighted that the Review is now regularly publishing reports from the Board, but these are condensed. They are not full minutes. So most people have no idea how hard your Board has worked these past 2 years. But they have.

A new Board will assume office a few weeks after you read this. I do hope you'll give them your whole-hearted support. They will sacrifice time and money in order to serve your club. They deserve cooperation and appreciation. If you have suggestions or complaints, it's okay to talk to your local board member at ringside at the shows, but it is even more helpful if you write your comments and send them in. Volunteer to serve on a committee. (Current committees and their chairmen are listed elsewhere in this magazine.) If there is no committee to deal with a need you see, suggest a committee and volunteer to head it. If there is a problem--you didn't get an award or an issue of the Review--please don't assume that the entire Board is incompetent or that it is a personal attack on you. Pick up the phone and call the person responsible. If you didn't get your championship certificate, call the awards chairman. If you didn't get the Review, call the Circulation Manager. And if you get the chance, say "Thank you" to an officer or other worker.

I personally want to thank Mary Vickers for being at the helm at a difficult time in the club's history. In spite of health problems, Mary has worked extremely hard for you in dealing with major financial problems, forming new committees, trying to keep officers and chairmen on task, being liaison with the former editor (I can tell you that's a job I did not envy!), and on and on. I suspect that's two years she's glad to see end. It has been a labor of love, with very little appreciation and lots of criticism from the membership. Thanks, Mary!

How Do I Put a Canadian Title on my Dog?

by Marlene Penney

Have you ever thought about not only putting an American title on your dog, but adding a Canadian Championship as well? How impressive to have your dog win more than one title. But, how do you do this? Where do you start?

In order to show your dog in Canada, you must obtain an ERN Number (Event Registration Number). To receive an ERN Number, simply do the following:

- send a photocopy of your dog's registration certificate
- a Canadian money order for $35.00 (payable to Canadian Kennel Club)
- be sure to provide your full address
- faxed requests will be accepted, but, if you select this method, include a Visa or Mastercard number, expiration date, and cardholder's name and signature.

The Event Registration Number must be applied for within 30 days of the first day of entering a CKC event.

The address is:

Canadian Kennel Club
100-89 Skyway Avenue
Etobicoke, Ontario
Canada M9W 6R4
FAX: 416-675-6506

After you have your number and are at a show, the point system works as follows: A dog awarded WINNERS at a Championship show held under the CKC Dog Show Rules shall be credited with a number of championship points (ranging from 1 to 5) and the determination of the number of points to be credited to a dog awarded WINNERS shall be provided as follows:

Dogs Competing* 1 2 3-5 6-9 10-12 13+
 Points Allocated..... 0 1 2 3 4 5

*Includes the dog awarded WINNERS

To determine the number of championship points earned by a dog awarded WINNERS, total all the dogs in competition which the dog defeated, directly or indirectly, for the highest of the following official breed awards: Winners, Best of Winners, Best of Breed, and Best of Opposite Sex and then consult the schedule above. The new system provides for additional points if a dog awarded WINNERS also places in the group, as listed hereunder:

DOGS COMPETING AT GROUP LEVEL

GROUP LEVEL	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
13 or more breeds	5	4	3	2
10 to 12 breeds	4	3	2	1
6 to 9 breeds	3	2	1	1
less than 6 breeds	2	1	1	1

A class dog awarded Best in Show at an All-Breed Championship Show will be credited with 5 points inclusive of any points earned at the breed or group level. In no case may a dog earn more than 5 points at a single show.

Now that I have explained this, let me give you an example. Your Pomeranian OPEN bitch comes to a Canadian Show. She already has her ERN Number and the total entry for the show is 4-4-1-0 (4 males, 4 females, 1 male special, 0 bitch special. She wins Winners Bitch, Best of Winners, and Best of Breed so she has won 3 points. (Remember to count your own dog) She then goes on to win a Group III with 14 breeds competing, so she will win another 3 points. However, you can only win 5 points on one day, so she will receive a total of 5 points.

A Canadian Championship consists of 10 points. These points must be awarded by 3 different judges. Unlike the US shows, in Canada there are no majors involved on the road to a championship.

Also a plus that we have in Canada is puppies! We have Best Puppy, Best Puppy in Group, and Best Puppy in Show wins. You do not receive any points for this, but we do have a lot of fun with young dogs at the shows.

It would be fun to have a Canadian Championship on your dog. If you would like more information, contact Marlene Penney at 416-875-0269. I have finished several dogs for US owners and breeders and would love to handle your Pom if you are unable to bring the dog yourself.

Delegates' Report

September 15, 1992 Meeting

by Sam Zaneoff

I attended the Cocktail Party the evening before the Delegates' Meeting. I find it necessary to do so because it gives Delegates and AKC personnel the opportunity to socialize with one another.

I arrived at the Delegates' meeting at 8:45 a.m. in order to get an early start. There was an overflowing crowd of delegates from all parts of the country attending. As we sat--many had to stand--and listened to AKC Chairman, Mr Ward, deliver a slate of changes relating to AKC trophies and new procedures. This information will be published in the Gazette. However, here is a brief synopsis:

Chapter 8: AKC Trophies

(Represents option by which clubs would be able to offer trophies to breeders, which could be published in a premium list.)

Proposed (Changes in italics)

Section 6. All prizes offered in a premium list of a show, must be offered to be awarded in the regular procedure of judging for outright award to the owner or breeder of the dog. The show-giving club will be solely responsible for the distribution of prizes awarded to the breeder of a dog within 30 days after the completion of the show.

Section 9. At all-breed shows, prizes may be offered on a three-time win basis for the following awards, provided permanent possession goes to the owner or breeder winning the award three times, not necessarily with the same dog, and further provided such prizes are offered by the show-giving club itself or through it for competition at its shows only: Best in Show, Best in any one group class. The show-giving club will be solely responsible for the distribution of prizes awarded to the breeder of a dog within 30 days after the completion of a show, where they have been won for the third time.

Section 10. At specialty shows, prizes may be offered on a three-time win basis for the following awards, provided permanent possession goes to the owner or breeder winning the award three times, not necessarily with the same dog, and further provided such prizes are offered by the specialty club itself, or through it for competition at its specialty shows only: Best of Breed or Best of Opposite Sex to Best of Breed (where a specialty club considers the classes at an all-breed shows as its specialty show, there can be no award for Best of Breed in those breeds in which there are varieties), Best of Variety of Breed or Best Opposite Sex to Best of Variety, Best of Winners, Winners Dog, and Winners Bitch, and first in any regular class. The show-giving club will be solely responsible for the distribution of prizes awarded to the breeder of a dog within 30 days after the completion of a show, where they have been won for the third time.

Each Delegate was provided with a bound book entitled A Users Guide to AKC Rules for Record Keeping and Identification. This is an excellent booklet, and I asked that one be forwarded to our secretary, Happeth Jones, for our club reference.

This meeting was rather lengthy but covered much ground. I came away feeling I had gained a great deal of knowledge.

The Julo Pomeranians

by Derial Jackson

The Julo line was started in England after World War I by Mrs. Julier. She had a big winner named Julo Prince Chernie. His sire was a dog that had its name changed several times (which could be done in England at that time). In the American pedigree which I got from Mrs. McCaskill, he is listed as Hackney Perfection. In other English pedigrees, he is Chiswick Flame or Burney of Fairvert. By whatever name, he was sired by Prince Pertinax, one of the founders of the orange color in Pomeranians. Chernie was the sire of Int. Ch. Radium of Dara, American Ch. Pall Mall Sunbright Cherryman, and Julo Red Light. There were others of Mrs. Julier's breeding that were big winners, including English Ch. Goldspeck Sun, found in the pedigrees of most of the Poms of today. It is also Julo Red Light which is important to us in America, for he is the founder of the American Julo line.

In the mid 1920's, Mrs. A. T. McCaskill of Minneapolis acquired Red Light who had become a Canadian champion. Mrs. McCaskill had purchased Blegbie Sable Fairy of Pomona, a daughter of the famous English Champion Perivale Memento. When bred to Red Light, she produced Ch. Julo Happy Boy, Mrs. McCaskill's first great winner. He was shown 22 times and went BOB 15 times and 9 times best toy. He was the sire of Ch. Julo Sonny Boy, Ch. Julo Teddy Boy and many other winners. He was the grand sire of Ch. Julo Rajah, Jr., one of the greatest winners of his time (1933-1935). He was the son of Julo Rajah by Ch. Little Rajah. He was a brilliant red orange and a real beauty--unfortunately, he was not at stud. The earlier Julo Poms were criticized by some for having a rounder eye and softer coats, but admired for their beauty and small size. Mrs. McCaskill tried to correct the eyes and coats with breedings to dogs such as Ch. Little Emir and, later, Ch. Sealand Career. She was successful in this venture as one could see in Julo Career, Wee Wonder, and Masterpiece.

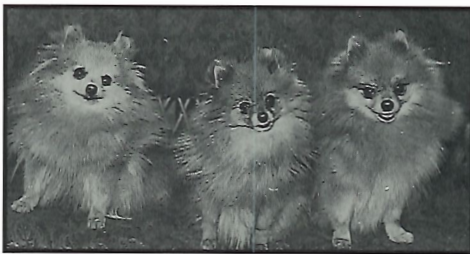

Orange Kewpie, a daughter of Red Light out of a daughter of Red Light was bred to Ch. Little Rajah and produced Julo Rajah (see above). Bred to Rajah's brother, Ch. Little Emir, she produced Emir's Little Daughter, which, when bred to Ch. Julo Happy Boy, produced Julo Realization.

Julo Realization was a three and a half pound bright red orange of excellent type but a poor shower so did not become a champion. All the later Julo Poms were descended from him and Ch. Julo Happy Boy. They include Ch. Julo Career, Ch. Julo Perfection II, Ch. Julo Wee Wonder, Ch. Julo Masterpiece, Ch. Tiny Tot's Julo Wee Wonder, and the like. Today, the Poms descended from Ch. Aristic Wee Pepper Pod, Ch. Great Elms Little Timstopper, Ch. Rider's Sparkling Gold Nugget, and so many others go back to Red Light, Happy Boy, and Realization.

Thank you to all the members of the past administration. You all did a wonderful job.

We had a lot of fun at this match as always. Congratulations to all of the winners and thank you to the judges.

On September 13th we will be holding our famous Picnic Match and Auction. If you've never been to this match, you don't know what you're missing! The Poms in the match are always gorgeous, the food at the picnic is always sumptuous, and the auction articles are fabulous! I will be reporting on the results of this match in the next issue along with the results of our specialty show which will be held on October 12th in conjunction with the Carl KC show.

On a sad note, I am sorry to report the death of honorary member, Bob Goodrich, of the famed Model's Pomeranians. Bob was a long-time member and will be missed.

Congratulations to Dudley Roach. I look forward to working with you in your new position as editor of the Pomeranian Review.

Board of Directors

Rachel Chavez, Linda Florer, Janice Perna

This past summer, we coordinated one of our meetings with a "puppy party." This gave the members an opportunity to show off our young hopefuls and gave the babies an opportunity for socialization. Our lovely friend from Hawaii, Shirley Lieu, acted as "judge." There were no winners or losers, just a lot of fun had by all.

We are currently making plans for our annual Pom Specialty to be held next March 13, 1993, in Pleasanton, California. This is an indoor show with wonderful facilities. We would love out-of-state competitors. Please contact any Board member or Officer for assistance in lodging, traveling to the show, etc.

Our new secretary, Barbi Kutilek, is doing a wonderful job on our monthly newsletter and is looking for other clubs willing to exchange newsletters. For exchange or subscription information, please contact Barbi at (415) 872-1795 or write her at 1840 Monterey Drive; San Bruno, CA 94066.

Congratulations to the club members whose dogs won Award of Merits at the Summer National Specialty: Dolly Trauner and Julie Moreno (Ch. Phyner Gold Jackpot); Marlin and Marlene Presser (Ch. Apolloette Ever Ready Rocky--9 years old from the Veteran's class!) and Janet Manuszak-Lucido (Ch. Odyssey's Keno Wiz).

The club also congratulates our member Dudley Roach on becoming Editor of the Pomeranian Review. This club knows first-hand the quality work he produces and wishes him well on this new endeavor.

A Novice Speaks: Breed Rescue

by Barbara McClatchey

A lot has been written recently in the various dog magazines about breed rescue. Like many of you, doubtless, I had assumed that there was very little need for that sort of thing where Poms are concerned. But before I moved from Illinois, I happened to see a list of dogs available for "adoption" from the local pound, and that list included a Pomeranian. Because I was moving, I was unable to do anything about that dog, but determined that I would do what I could about a similar situation after I moved.

By asking around (this column gives me a good excuse to be nosy), I have learned that there are a number of local Pomeranian Clubs that are doing breed rescue work already, but that the APC does not (yet) have an overall breed rescue policy. I plan to write more on this subject as I get information, but at this time, I'd simply like to propose a set of guidelines for rescue.

I realize that the parent club may not have money to actually sponsor breed rescue, but I do think that there ought to be guidelines for regional clubs and individuals to use. After all, one of the objects of the club is "to do all in its power to protect and advance the interests of the breed." And it would seem logical to base those guidelines on our already existing "Code of Ethics."

Our Code of Ethics includes the promise, "I will not sell my puppies to pet shops or commercial pet mill establishments, nor will I donate puppies for raffles or auctions."

"Breed rescue" that involves buying puppies or dogs from abusive kennels, pet mills, or auctions actually goes against the spirit of that promise, since it supports those enterprises and tells the owners that there is a profitable "market" for Poms. They don't, after all, care who buys the dogs, so if someone is buying, it will raise Pom production by the pet mills. Therefore, one aspect of our breed rescue definition should be that

- Breed rescue does not include the purchase of puppies or dogs from pet mills, auctions, or abusive kennels if those establishments are still active. It does include rescue if the establishment has been shut down; local clubs and individuals are encouraged to work toward closing those places.
- Breed rescue does include obtaining dogs from animal shelters, both public and private. It includes receiving dogs from private sources where personal circumstances, such as the death of the owner, would otherwise cause the dog to be placed in an animal shelter. It also includes the care of abandoned, abused, or neglected dogs.
- Club and individuals engaged in breed rescue are encouraged to maintain contact with police departments, veterinarians, and animal shelters, as well as with local kennel clubs, so that abandoned or neglected Pomeranians that come to their attention may be saved through breed rescue.

- Rescued dogs should have thorough medical work done, just as would be expected for the breeder by the Code of Ethics. Dogs should be immunized and free from parasites before being placed out.

The money for purchase, care, and veterinarian bills is, of course, another issue. Probably individual clubs would have their own methods of handling the situation. My instinct is to suggest that veterinarians be asked for sizeable discounts, and that people who cannot do breed rescue be asked to contribute toward a fund for remaining costs, except for ordinary care. Poms are so small that the food bill isn't likely to break anyone! But

- When club funds or contributions are used to fund breed rescue, careful records of contributions and expenditures should be kept by the rescuers and by the sponsoring club, if any.
- Careful records should also be kept for each dog, including any available information about the dog's past, registration papers, if any, medical records, and any problems noted by the rescuer. Copies of these records should go with the dog to its new owners.
- Rescuers should exercise care in choosing a new owner for the rescued Pom, attempting to match the dog's personality and problems with a compatible owner and family situation.
- Rescuers should be available to the new owner for advice and assistance, and should be willing to take the dog back if the placement does not work out.

I would love to receive comments from any of you on this question of breed rescue. If you or your local club have been doing rescue, please write to me about it; I'll try to put all the replies together in at least one more column. Send your comments to Barbara McClatchey; 57 Poplar Court; Lake Jackson, TX 77566, or call me a (409) 297-7383.
